Town Wages 'War' On Russ, Japanese Whalers

MENDOCINO, Calif. (AP) — The sultry voice of "Mendocino Rose," speaking Russian amid the crackling static of marine radio, is a weapon in a war being waged by this ecology-minded town against Soviet and Japanese whalers.

"Hello, Soviet whalers. This is Octobriana, speaking to you from the former imperial Russian Colony in California." The Russian-born Californian is known as "Mendocino Rose" — a takeoff on World War II's "Tokyo Rose."

"Mendocino Rose," who declines to be identified because she fears for relatives in Russia, appeals to Soviet sailors to end their slaughter of California gray and sperm whales and defect to the United States. She offers the sailors food, housing and training for other industries in the United States. Located on wind-carved coastal bluffs about 150 miles north of San Francisco, this town of less than 1,000 residents decided to unleash "Rose" and boycott Japanese-made goods after sighting a Russian whaler off the coast here six months ago.

"We are not against anybody, but we have to save God's whales," said Byrd Baker, 52, a wood sculptor and a warrior in the war. "And I believe there is a Russian aboard those ships who feels he can't kill another one. The whalers have to feel bad when they see a mother and father dash themselves against a ship after their baby has been harpooned."

Baker says he really believes the town's campaign will prevail over the two major marine fishing nations. "One morning, we're going to wake up and there will be a Russian ship beached in the harbor and a whole crew asking directions," he says.

John Bear, 37, an advertising man, said the whale war has both political and economic objectives. "Whaling is a $150-million-a-year industry in Japan," he explained. "If the boycott results in them losing that much in trade revenue from the U.S. — and conceivably just a northern California boycott would accomplish that — they would have a strong incentive to get out of the business."

As part of the boycott, Bear said he has given up two advertising contracts with Mendocino County Datsun car dealers. Other merchants also have made sacrifices: saki has been removed from the shelves of one liquor store, where a sign is displayed, "No more saki until Japan stops killing whales"; a delicatessen owner no longer sells Japanese beer; and a restaurant has removed Japanese noodles from its menu.

"The Russian problem is more difficult because it requires a political solution, and this means getting people to bring political pressure to bear through letter-writing campaigns and by interfering with the Russian ships," Bear said. Meanwhile, the antiwhaling warriors meet weekly. They now plan to emulate the Canadians who maneuvered small boats between whales and Soviet harpoon ships in efforts to halt the killing.

SNOWY BEGINNING: Snow this morning swirled across St. Joseph skyline, as David Stockman enters helicopter at Hennes Co. parking lot for campaign take-off. Stockman at St. Joseph holiday Inn announced candidacy for Fourth District U.S. Representative seat on Republican ticket. Helicopter trips were scheduled to all county seats in district for similar announcements. Stockman will oppose U.S. Rep. Edward Hutchinson in primary election next summer (Staff photo)

Stockman Off And Flying For Congress

Twenty-nine-year-old David Stockman flew off today on a congressional campaign he said is aimed at injecting a new force "in the trenches where good — but battle weary — Republicans have been losing the war for more than 30 years."

Stockman also appears headed for an August Republican primary clash with Congressman Edward Hutchinson, 61, who has won seven terms in the Fourth Congressional district. Hutchinson's office said he is expected to seek re-election but a formal announcement date has not been set yet.

Stockman of St. Joseph, formally declared his candidacy at 8:30 this morning with a press conference at St. Joseph Holiday Inn.

His itinerary called for trips by helicopter for press conferences today at the six other county seats in the district in this order: Adrian, Hillsdale, Coldwater, Centerville, Cassopolis and Paw Paw.

Stockman's campaign kickoff ran fairly close to schedule, despite adverse weather and a helicopter that wouldn't start. Stockman said a helicopter rented at Niles was scrubbed when the engine wouldn't start, but another was secured from Kalamazoo. The chopper landed at Ross field and then at the Hennes Co. store in St. Joseph, after the pilot determined the ceiling was okay, Stockman aides said.

Stockman has been an unannounced candidate since last

April when he said he was testing the waters for a run at Hutchinson's seat.

Stockman's announcement of candidacy did not mention Hutchinson by name, but Stockman said: "We (the Fourth district) have hidden our light under a bushel long enough. If the voters of the Fourth district are willing, I can promise they will at last have a voice that Congress and the nation will hear loud and clear."

Stockman, a bachelor, is a member of a politically active Royalton township family. Stockman was executive director of the U.S. House of Representatives Republican conference from 1972 until last June.

From 1970 to 1972, he was special assistant to Congressman Anderson (R-Illinois). It was erroneously reported in this newspaper last Tuesday that he is currently on Anderson's staff.

Complete text of Stockman's announcement of candidacy:

I am announcing my candidacy today for Fourth District congressman. I do so because I believe that the time has come for a new generation to take its place in the trenches where good — but battle-weary — senior Republicans have been losing the war for more than 30 years.

We enter our third century as a nation under a dark cloud of uncertainty and danger. We teeter on the brink of fiscal catastrophe after having added nearly one quarter trillion dollars to the national debt during the last decade alone. The most productive economic machine in the world, our free enterprise economy, has been nearly ground to a halt by a flood of bureaucratic edicts, government paperwork and regulatory interferences.

The carefully balanced Federal system of government designed by our Founders is imperiled. State and local governments have been nearly stripped of their autonomy and, more and more, have become mere administrative appendages of distant decision-makers in Washington.

The stout independence and resourceful individualism that has traditionally characterized the American people is being deeply eroded by the corrosive promise of cradle-to-grave financial security, and by a

Mercury Drops As Snow Plugs Area Roads

By JERRY KRIEGER
Farm And Features Editor

A winter blizzard that swept virtually all of Michigan yesterday left all but a few schools closed in southwestern Michigan today and a number of secondary roads plugged with drifts that ranged up to four feet.

Three to 7½ inches of new snow fanned by winds averaging nearly 35 miles an hour and gusting up to 45 created extremely difficult driving conditions.

Cold air swept in on the winds caused the temperature to skid from 33 degrees Sunday morning to 2-below this morning at the Herb Teichman farm near Eau Claire. The lowest reading on the Herald-Palladium recording thermometer in downtown Benton Harbor was 8-above. Other lows were 3-below at Paw Paw and zero at Niles.

Law enforcement agencies reported that wind-whipped snow created "whiteouts" across highways.

Forced to a crawl at times by limited visibility and snow covered pavement, motorists avoided any major collisions. But police agencies in the Twin Cities area alone reported 45 fender bender accidents. One accident on US-33 south of Hollywood road in Royalton township resulted in a car fire that forced the closing of US-33 for a short time.

I-94 was closed for about an hour early Sunday afternoon at the Michigan-Indiana line after a multi-vehicle pileup south of the border in Indiana.

Most of the drifting developed on east-west roads, as the wind blew out of the north-northwest most of Sunday.

The Berrien County Road commission kept its snow crews on the job through most of Sunday and sent them back out at 4 a.m. today. A spokesman said it was expected back roads that still remained plugged at 8 a.m. today would be opened by afternoon.

A number of snowmobile and skiing fans from southwestern Michigan were reported stranded at cottages, motels and lodges in northern lower Michigan. State police posts along US-31 and US-131 posted warnings against travel on those main north-south arteries because of drifting and frequent "whiteout" conditions.

Teichman, who operates a weather observation station at his farm northeast of Eau Claire, measured 7½ inches of snow Sunday and early today. He said this boosted the total snowfall this winter to 56 inches. January snowfall, he added, amounted to 30.5 inches. The ground has been covered with snow continuously since Dec. 17 at his station, for a total of 48 days.

Virtually all school systems in the four counties of Berrien, Van Buren, Cass and Allegan were closed today in the wake of the blizzard. The only exceptions in Berrien county were the Benton Harbor, St. Joseph, Lakeshore, Bridgman and Lake Michigan Catholic systems. At the schools that were open, the list of absentees was reported higher than normal.

All school systems were closed in Cass county, and the only system not reported closed in Van Buren was South Haven.

Southwestern Michigan was one of the "warmer" spots in Michigan.

The mercury touched 30-below in Pellston, an all-time low in that traditionally cold spot near the top of the lower peninsula. Readings in other areas of the state were 17-below at Lansing; 11-below in Detroit; 25-below in Houghton Lake and Sault Ste Marie.

Bone-chilling temperatures, coupled with a power outage in Petoskey and Charlevoix, kept Michigan residents shivering today.

Consumers Power Co. officials said the outage was caused about 4:30 a.m. today when a power pole snapped off, although they said they did not know why the pole broke. Power

Civic Center And Doubled Campus Proposed For LMC

By RALPH LUTZ
Staff Writer

The Lake Michigan college Citizens Advisory committee in a long-awaited report Sunday recommended eventual construction of a civic center, complete with an auditorium and a physical education building, on an expanded campus in Benton township.

Atty. Robert P. Small, the committee's chairman and former Lake Michigan college trustee, read the report during the LMC Bicentennial banquet, attended by nearly 600 people in the student union.

The report was compiled over the past 18 months and will now go to the LMC board of trustees for further consideration. It proposes acquisition of surrounding property that would about double the present campus size.

No cost estimates or time targets were determined, but Small noted that the present 250-acre campus was built over the past 10 years at a cost of $15 million. Small after the banquet said 1985 might be a good time target for the ambitious plans. He didn't estimate costs.

The committee's report also recommended:

—A media center for the "multi-purpose of college public relations, expanded radio program, the maximum use and development of the talents of our students and faculty and for service to education."

—Expansion of occupational studies to include computer programming, geriatrics, graphic arts and hotel management.

—Establishment soon of rented or leased quarters for instructional purposes in the Niles-Buchanan area and the South Haven area.

Small's report included a probability that the LMC district will be enlarged by the state to include "South Haven and Saugatuck and surrounding territory." The district now includes all Berrien county and Covert township of Van Buren county.

As to campus expansion, the report says that "the present college site be enlarged by the acquisition of all lands within the boundaries of Napier avenue, Interstate Highway 94, Empire avenue and Yore avenue as occasion and funds are available."

The campus presently is bounded by Napier, Empire and Yore, but is somewhat east of

I-94. A glance at the map indicates that inclusion of lands west to I-94, between Empire and Napier would virtually double the acreage.

The committee report says that "impetus be given for the ready development of Interstate Highway I-196 south (the proposed US-31 relocation from I-94 and I-196 to the Indiana line) and the widening of Napier avenue connecting the Napier avenue campus entrance with Interstate Highway 94."

The proposed auditorium was sought as "the answer to college educational needs and community needs for cultural and civic purposes."

The report adds a request for the immediate formation of a study committee to plan the scope of the auditorium. This committee would represent "all educational cultural and civic interests in this district."

The proposed physical education building would "accommodate a full year-round, all weather physical education program for all students and citizens," the report says.

"What is best for the citizens of this district, the best for students, the best for posterity?" was the basis of the report project, Small told the gathering. He concluded: "Lake Michigan college is the logical focus for the enlightenment of all our people through the improvement of mind, the appreciation of beauty and unity through good will."

The LMC civic center idea comes while a $2.3 million community center is under construction Benton Harbor high school. The high school auditorium also has been remodeled. Small after the banquet said the LMC physical education building probably would include a swimming pool. The Benton Harbor center includes a pool and ice hockey rink, as well as a community room. Several citizens after the banquet voiced the opinion that the LMC campus was the best location for a total community or civic center.

The LMC Citizens Advisory committee was authorized by the board of trustees as a community-related guide for future expansion of the campus. Members included about 30 civic, business, industrial and education leaders from

Court Contrives Curious Dos And Don'ts In Campaign Spending

Last Friday the U.S. Supreme Court handed down a decision which though it lights a path for this year's Presidential and Congressional campaigns will not go down in history as a beacon light for all time.

The ruling consumed 227 typewritten pages in which seven members of the Court sustained most of the Federal Election Campaign Act; one member, Chief Justice Warren Burger, voted against it; a ninth member, the newest appointee, did not participate in the decision; and five of the seven justices supporting the majority viewpoint dissented on various parts of the Act.

Although this marble cake consensus satisfied John Gardner, chairman of Common Cause, which ramrodded the Act through Congress last year, because he feared Burger's outspoken criticism might be the prevailing sentiment, the decision leaves almost as much white as it puts down in black and white.

Here is how the majority weaves itself down the field:

House and Senate candidates can spend their own money without stint.

So can a Presidential candidate if he does not accept the federal campaign subsidy. If he takes the U.S. money, he comes under a personal limitation.

Individuals and groups are limited $1,000 and $5,000 respectively to what they can donate to a candidate, but if the Associated Press' reading of the opinion is correct, they can shoot the moon on independent espousal of a candidate.

HE'D EVEN VOTE FOR BOZO THE CLOWN

It was with some delight that I read in your paper tonight that a Mr. Stockman is going to run for Congress against the incumbent Mr. Hutchinson. Stockman seems like a pleasant chap from the short biography you printed. If he's elected though he'll have some mighty big shoes to fill.

Being thirty years of age I can only remember the last two men who represented this district. Of course you could be sixty and still only remember the last two congressmen.

The first one that springs to mind is Claire Hoffman who's only other claim to fame is that he served with Washington at Valley Forge. In my youth, I remember your paper continually running his picture and saying that he was the oldest member of Congress. I wonder if age counts when Congress decides to divide up the pork barrel?

Mr. Hutchinson, Hoffman's successor, languished in my mind as the guy who grins and waves from his convertible during the Blossom parade. His visage finally struck home during the Watergate hearings.

At the time I was living in the big city, and much to my chagrin I told my friends that this stone-faced Mt. Rushmore of blandness was my representative. In retrospect I might say that the value of dropping his name was not worth the effort. During the committee hearings his long drawn out "no" responses to votes were hardly awe inspiring. Borrowing a quote from the great god "Spiro", he was a nattering nabob of negativism.

Frankly, he was an embarrassment to all of us conservatives who believe that literacy should be a requirement for holding public office. I guess though that compared to Mr. Hoffman the thing that he taught us most was that you don't have to be seventy years old to be senile.

Perhaps you might be able to infer that I would vote for almost any new face for our congressional seat except for perhaps Bozo the clown, Patty Hearst, or Mayor Joseph. Hold it, I take that back. I would vote for Bozo the clown. Good luck Mr. Stockman. If you win I'll look forward to seeing you at the Blossom parade.

RESPONDS TO EDITORIAL ON MSU PENALTIES

Your Jan. 28 editorial concerning the NCAA ruling on MSU football requires response.

First, in 1950 MSU was not eligible for a trip to the Rose Bowl or Big 10 championship since they did not begin conference competition in football until the 1953-54 school year.

As for the punishment handed out by the NCAA, I believe it is completely unjust and ill-conceived. Why should the entire student body and MSU fans be deprived of the enjoyment of conference competition and TV coverage because of the wrongdoing of a handful of unthinking individuals? Think of the lost revenue from TV, the unsold stadium tickets and probable reduced enrollment which will result. And what happens to the innocent player whose professional aspirations may be ruined for lack of national exposure?

It seems to me there are better ways of enforcing the rules. After all, who is at fault? The players involved — certainly. They know right from wrong and should be banned from further NCAA competition. Coaches and administrators who had any knowledge of the violations should be dismissed and banned from NCAA schools.

Using your example — stopping just one speeder when many are guilty — makes NCAA's heavy handedness a little like stopping a speeder and then issuing tickets to him, his family, his friends and the employees of the company in which he works. Punish the guilty parties and then NCAA can go after all violators instead of singling out one for the sake of setting an example.

Amateur athletics must be policed but methods of enforcement are in sad need of reform.

Do You REMEMBER?

— 10 Years Ago —

The former Green Cottage, now known as Blake's on the Lake, has been sold to a group of Gary, Ind., financiers who are reported considering the lakefront location as a site for an apartment building. Thousands of area residents remember the Green cottage when it was among southwestern Michigan's most popular night spots.

If Mr. Groundhog was foolhardy enough to take his annual mid-winter peak outside his burrow this morning, he got a frigid reception. The mercury ranged all the way from 8 to 22 degrees — below zero, that is — across Berrien county early this morning.

Benton Harbor's new city fruit market will be located on the marsh west of the water works. The city commission yesterday afternoon decided to discard all other proposed sites and immediately set the machinery in motion to start work preparing the new site at once. It is proposed to fill in the site with dirt from the excavation from the new Y.M.C.A. property on Michigan street. Sale of the present market site on Elm street, and use of the funds for the new market has

The flowers that bloom in the spring, tra la, will soon do that very thing, ah ha! Yes sir, and yes ma'am, it's been a hard winter so far, but according to the Ancient Order of Deponents, it ain't going to snow no more — not much more, anyway, because John W. Filbert Groundhog didn't see his shadow this morning.

Benton Harbor has secured another factory which promises great growth and expansion. This morning a contract was signed by which Stone & Co., wagon makers, secure a five year's lease on the large brick barn on Seventh street, formerly occupied by J.W. Clauser's livery. Stone & Co. will convert the building into a modern wagon factor and will manufacture buggies, wagons, and carriages. The wagon making industry is growing in Benton Harbor and is adding materially to the enlargement of the city.

Congress Immune To Inflation?

CONCORD, N.H. — (NEA) — When members of Congress failed to win support last year for a straightforward pay raise, they resorted in their greed to legislative trickery. Using stealth, secrecy and the subterfuge of an obscure bill which they knew would draw no public scrutiny, the lawmakers established an unprecedented cost of living salary increase that will be automatic on an annual basis.

Thus the nobles have at the expense of their souls insulated themselves from the bother of inflation.

One man pushing the point is Wallace Johnson, 62-year-old former mayor of Berkeley, Calif. He has entered himself on the New Hampshire ballot as a vice presidential candidate solely concerned with the repeal of the congressional cost of living escalator. "I'm not interested in the vice presidency," he says, "but it's the only way I can present a kind of referendum to the people. Are we still in control of our Congress? That's what I'm asking here."

The question is not rhetorical. After voting in the cost of living increase last summer, some uncomfortable legislators said it was done in such a way as to keep the public ignorant and quiet. The measure was ramrodded through Congress in five days.

Obviously, not every legislator favored the fraud (only 272 of 335 voted yea). Many feared the risks involved, particularly in view of the elections (the no vote was weighted with members facing reelection). Others agreed with the congressman who argued that the congressional immunity from inflation: "The American people would be better off if Congress got a pay decrease when the cost of living went up and a pay increase when it went down. Then we might see more fiscal responsibility here in Washington."

For his part, Johnson believes the congressional action was as much legally as legislatively punk. Accordingly, he has filed suit in a California federal court asking that the cost of living statute be stricken for constitutional reasons.

But beyond the legalities, Johnson's primary anger is moored to the sinking thought that "Congress has shown utter contempt for the people of this country." He says that for 180 years, since the days when congressmen were paid with $6 per day stipends, no Congress save the present one has voted a salary increase for itself.

It is to awake the public, then, that Wallace Johnson campaigns in New Hampshire. He says it is his Bicentennial project, something he can start but that everybody must finish. In this respect he is a unique and admirable candidate indeed, the only one on the ballot here who is soliciting votes for the system rather than for himself.

Candidate Stand On Abortion - III

WASHINGTON (KFS) — This column continues an analysis of the positions taken by the Democratic presidential candidates on the issue of abortion.

A previous column described the statements and voters of Sen. Birch Bayh, Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, former Gov. Jimmy Carter, former Sen. Fred Harris and Sen. Henry Jackson.

Gov. Milton Shapp upholds the Supreme Court decision. In his capacity as governor, he recently vetoed a Pennsylvania measure which attempted to impose tougher restrictions on access to abortion than the Supreme Court said was constitutional.

Sargent Shriver, the 1972 vice-presidential nominee, is having a devil of a time with the issue. A Catholic, he stresses that he is personally opposed to abortion. But he has said that as president he would uphold the law and would not support a constitutional amendment designed to overturn the Supreme Court decision.

He has tried to "soften this stance by proposing to develop "life-support centers" which would offer alternatives to abortion, out of a belief that many women would prefer to keep their babies if they had an acceptable alternative and thus not resort to abortion. This is also a pet project of his wife, the former Eunice Kennedy.

Rep. Morris Udall is one of the three firmest supporters of a woman's right to an abortion, along with Bayh and Harris. Udall said recently that he would oppose any constitutional amendment seeking to narrow the scope of the Supreme Court decision. His voting record on abortion-related riders is supportive, with one exception. He voted to bar the Legal Services Agency lawyers from handling abortion-related cases, but he has since said repeatedly that he made a mistake and regrets the vote.

Gov. George Wallace is the most strident of the Democrats in opposing the right of a woman to control her own body. He now says that he would favor a constitutional amendment to overturn the Supreme Court decision, and make an exception only to save the life of the mother.

Since the prior column which included description of former Gov. Jimmy Carter's position was written, he apparently reversed his apparent reversal of his original opposition to a constitutional amendment making abortion illegal.

He told the Washington Star: "I think abortion is wrong. I don't think government should do anything to encourage abortion. I think abortion is the result of a failure of measures designed to prevent unwanted pregnancies and to induce the mother carry the unwanted child through to delivery."

There is clearly no agreement among the Democratic candidates on the issue of abortion. This has been an attempt to clarify their various attitudes, insofar as they have indicated them, so that those concerned about the question can be accurately guided.

Town Wages 'War' On Russ, Japanese Whalers

MENDOCINO, Calif. (AP) — The sultry voice of "Mendocino Rose," speaking Russian amid the crackling static of maritime radio, is a weapon in a war being waged by this ecology-minded town against Soviet and Japanese whalers.

"Hello, Soviet whalers. This is Octobriana, speaking to you from the former Imperial Russian Colony in California," the Russian-born Californian is known as "Mendocino Rose" — a kiasmo in World War II's "Tokyo Rose."

"Mendocino Rose," who declines to be identified because she fears for relatives in Russia, appeals to Soviet sailors to end their slaughter of California gray and sperm whales and defect to the United States. She offers the sailors food, housing and training for other industries in the United States. Located on wind-carved coastal bluffs about 150 miles north of San Francisco, this town of less than 1,000 residents decided to unleash "Rose" and boycott Japanese-made goods after sighting a Russian whaler off the coast here six months ago.

"We are not against anybody, but we have to save God's whales," said Byrd Baker, 52, a wood sculptor and a warrior in the war. "And I believe there is a Russian aboard those ships who feels he can't kill another one. The whalers have to feel bad when they see a mother and father dash themselves against a ship after their baby has been harpooned."

Baker says he really believes the town's campaign will prevail over the two major marine fishing nations. "One morning, we're going to wake up and there will be a Russian ship beached in the harbor and a whole crew asking directions," he says.

John Bear, 37, an advertising man, said the whole war has both political and economic objectives. "Whaling is a $150-million-a-year industry in Japan," he explained. "If the boycott results in them losing that much in trade revenue from the U.S. — and conceivably just a northern California boycott would accomplish that — they would have a strong incentive to get out of the business."

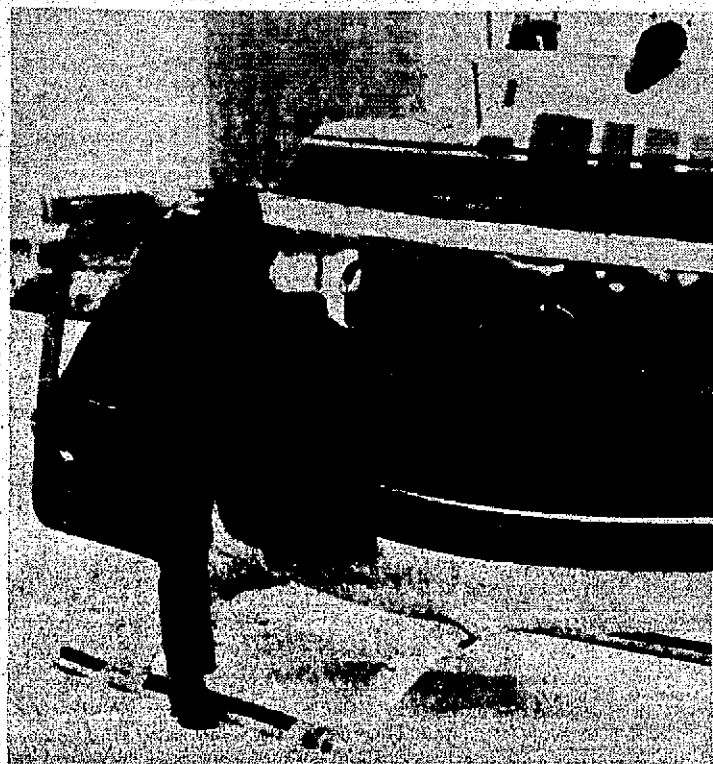

As part of the boycott, Bear said he has given up two advertising contracts with Mendocino County Datsun car dealers. Other merchants also have made sacrifices: saki has been removed from the shelves of one liquor store, where a sign is displayed, "No more saki until Japan stops killing whales"; a delicatessen owner no longer sells Japanese beer; and a restaurant has removed Japanese noodles from its menu.

"The Russian problem is more difficult because it requires a political solution, and this means getting people to bring political pressure to bear through letter-writing campaigns and by interfering with the Russian ships," Bear said. Meanwhile, the antiwhaling warriors meet weekly. They now plan to emulate the Canadians who maneuvered small boats between whales and Soviet harpoon ships in efforts to halt the killing.

The lowest reading on the "Herald-Palladium recording" thermometer in downtown Benton Harbor was 8-below. Other lows were 3-below at Paw Paw and zero at Niles.

Law enforcement agencies reported that wind-whipped snow created "whiteouts" across highways.

Forced to a crawl at times by limited visibility and snow covered pavement, motorists avoided any major collisions. But police agencies in the Twin Cities area alone reported 45 fender bender accidents. One incident on US-33 south of Hollywood road in Royalton township resulted in a car fire that forced the closing of US-33 for a short time.

I-94 was closed for about an hour early Sunday-afternoon at the Michigan-Indiana line after a multi-vehicle pileup south of the border in Indiana.

Most of the drifting developed on east-west roads, as the wind blew out of the north-northwest most of Sunday.

The Berrien County Road commission kept its snow crews on the job through most of Sunday and sent them back out at 4 a.m. today. A spokesman said it was expected back roads that still remained plugged at 8 a.m. today would be opened by afternoon.

A number of snowmobile and skiing fans from southwestern Michigan were reported stranded at cottages, motels and lodges in northern lower Michigan. State police posts along US-31 and US-131 posted warnings against travel on those main north-south arteries because of drifting and frequent "whiteout" conditions.

Teichman, who operates a weather observation station at his farm northeast of Eau Claire, measured 7½ inches of snow Sunday and early today. He said this boosted the total snowfall this winter to 56 inches. January snowfall, he added, amounted to 30.5 inches. The ground has been covered with snow continuously since Dec. 17 at his station, for a total of 48 days.

Virtually all school systems in the four counties of Berrien, Van Buren, Cass and Allegan were closed today in the wake of the blizzard. The only exceptions in Berrien county were the Benton Harbor, St. Joseph, Lakeshore, Bridgman and Lake Michigan Catholic systems. At the schools that were open, the list of absentees was reported higher than normal.

All school systems were closed in Cass county, and the only system not reported closed in Van Buren was South Haven.

Southwestern Michigan was one of the "warmer" spots in Michigan.

The mercury touched 30-below in Pellston, an all-time low in that traditionally cold spot near the top of the lower peninsula. Readings in other areas of the state were 17-below at Lansing; 11-below in Detroit; 25-below in Houghton Lake and Sault Ste Marie.

Bone-chilling temperatures, erupted with a power outage in Fetsky and Charlevoix, kept Michigan residents shivering today.

Consumers Power Co. officials said the outage was caused about 4:30 a.m. today when a power pole snapped off, although they said they did not know why the pole broke. Power

Stockman Off And Flying For Congress

Twenty-nine-year-old David Stockman flew off today on a congressional campaign he said is aimed at injecting a new force "in the trenches where good — but battle weary — Republicans have been losing the war for more than 30 years."

Stockman also appears headed for an August Republican primary election for Congress in the Fourth Congressional district. Hutchinson's office said he is expected to seek re-election but a formal announcement date has not been set yet.

Stockman of St. Joseph, formally declared his candidacy at 8:30 this morning with a press conference at St. Joseph Holiday Inn.

His itinerary called for trips by helicopter for press conferences today at the six other county seats in the district in this order: Adrian, Hillsdale, Coldwater, Centerville, Cassopolis and Paw Paw.

Stockman's campaign kickoff ran fairly close to schedule, despite adverse weather and a helicopter that wouldn't start.

Stockman said a helicopter rented at Niles was scrubbed when the engine wouldn't start, but another was secured from Kalamazoo. The chopper landed at Ross field and then at the Hennes Co. store in St. Joseph, after the pilot determined the ceiling was okay, Stockman aides said.

Stockman has been an unsuccessful candidate since last

April when he said he was testing the waters for a run at Hutchinson's seat.

Stockman's announcement of candidacy did not mention Hutchinson by name, but Stockman said: "We (the Fourth district) have hidden our light under a bushel long enough. If the voters of the Fourth district are willing, I can promise they will at last have a voice that Congress and the nation will hear loud and clear."

Stockman, a bachelor, is a member of a politically active Royalton township family. Stockman was executive director of the U.S. House of Representatives Republican conference from 1972 until last June.

From 1970 to 1972, he was special assistant to Congressman Anderson (R-Illinois). It was erroneously reported in this newspaper last Tuesday that he is currently on Anderson's staff.

Complete text of Stockman's announcement of candidacy:

I am announcing my candidacy today for Fourth District congressman. I do so because I believe that the time has come for a new generation to take its place in the trenches where good — but battle-weary — senior Republicans have been losing the war for more than 30 years.

We enter our third century as a nation under a dark cloud of uncertainty and danger. We teeter on the brink of fiscal catastrophe after having added nearly one quarter trillion dollars to the national debt during the last decade alone. The most productive economic machine in the world, our free, enterprise economy, has been nearly ground to a halt by a flood of bureaucratic edicts, government paperwork and regulatory interferences.

The carefully balanced Federal system of government designed by our Founders is imperiled. State and local governments have been nearly stripped of their autonomy and, more and more, have become mere administrative appendages of distant decision-makers in Washington.

The stout independence and resourceful individualism that has traditionally characterized the American people is being deeply eroded by the corrosive promise of cradle-to-grave financial security, and by a

Weather Slows Bangor School Board Recall Voting

BANGOR — Slippery roads in the wake of Sunday's snowstorm may have caused some Bangor school district voters to delay driving to the polls this morning to vote in a recall election for five school board members.

Mrs. Norma Sutherby, Bangor city clerk in charge of the election, said that as of 8:15 a.m. this morning, 42 voters had appeared to cast ballots at the middle school gymnasium, the only polling place for the election. The polling place opened at 7 a.m., she said.

"I think people will wait until tonight to come in when the roads are better," she said. The polling place was to remain open until 8 p.m. She said there are about 2,400 registered voters in the school district.

Mrs. Sutherby said she had also received 47 absentee ballots. The board members facing recall are Donald Piper, board president; Dr. Joseph Cooper, vice president; Forest Gough, secretary; Richard Kregel and Fred Waite.

Mrs. Sutherby said she was in charge of the election because Gough, the board's secretary normally in charge of school elections, was one of the members facing recall.

campus size.

No cost estimates or time targets were determined, but Small noted that the present 250-acre campus was built over the past 10 years at a cost of $15 million. Small after the banquet said 1985 might be a good time target for the ambitious plans. He didn't estimate costs.

The committee's report also recommended:

—A media center for the "multi-purpose of college public relations, expanded radio program, the maximum use and development of the talents of our students and faculty and for service to education."

—Expansion of occupational studies to include computer programming, geriatrics, graphic arts and hotel management.

—Establishment soon of rented or leased quarters for instructional purposes in the Niles-Buchanan area and the South Haven area.

Small's report included a probability that the LMC district will be enlarged by the state to include "South Haven and Saugatuck and surrounding territory." The district now includes all Berrien county and Covert township of Van Buren county.

As to campus expansion, the report says that "the present college site be enlarged by the acquisition of all lands within the boundaries of Napier avenue, Interstate Highway 94, Empire avenue and Yore avenue as occasion and funds are available."

The campus presently is bounded by Napier, Empire and Yore, but in somewhat east of 1-94. A glance at the map indicates that inclusion of lands west to I-94, between Empire and Napier would virtually double the acreage.

The committee report says that "impetus be given for the ready development of Interstate Highway 1-196 south (the proposed US-31 relocation from I-94 and I-196 to the Indiana line) and the widening of Napier avenue connecting the Napier avenue campus entrance with Interstate Highway 94."

The proposed auditorium was sought as "the answer to college educational, needs and community needs for cultural and civic purposes."

The report adds a request for the immediate formation of a study committee to plan the scope of the auditorium. This committee would represent "all educational cultural and civic interests in this district."

The proposed physical education building would "accommodate a full year-round, all weather physical education program for all students and citizens," the report says.

"What is best for the citizens of this district, the best for students, the best for posterity?" was the basis of the report project, Small told the gathering. He concluded: "Lake Michigan college is the logical focus for the enlightenment of all our people through the improvement of mind, the appreciation of beauty and unity through good will."

The LMC civic center idea comes with a $2.3 million community center is under construction Benton Harbor high school. The high school auditorium also has been remodeled. Small, after the banquet said the LMC physical education building probably would include a swimming pool. The Benton Harbor center includes a pool and ice hockey rink, as well as a community room. Several citizens after the banquet voiced the opinion that the LMC campus was the best location for a total community or civic center.

The LMC Citizens Advisory committee was authorized by the board of trustees as a community-related guide for future expansion of the campus. Members included about 30 civic, business, industrial and education leaders from

'Red' Umphrey -- 50 Years A Fireman

COLOMA — Gordon "Red" Umphrey marked his 50th year of service to Coloma city and township residents as a Coloma fireman Sunday. It was both his department anniversary and his 68th birthday.

Umphrey legally became an official member of the fire department when he turned 18, but his experience as a fireman started long before that, he said.

His interest in firefighting came at an early age, since his father, William Umphrey, owned the first fire truck in Coloma township in the early 1900's, plus the firehouse.

Since the age of 8, "Red" Umphrey could be seen around the old firehouse doing odd jobs for firemen or just listening to firemen tell of their recent experiences. Then at the age of 14, "Red" drove his first fire truck.

Over the years, Umphrey says he has seen great changes in firefighting equipment, protective gear, and techniques.

The most noticeable thing however, in Umphrey's mind is that "...in the early years people seemed more charitable...neighbors helped neighbors in fighting fires, including having farmers bringing their spray rigs to house fires to help...even though the spray was still in their tanks," he said.

Umphrey recalled the fire department's purchase of a chassis for a fire truck in 1934, with department personnel making the ladders, painting the truck and creating one of the first overhead ladders on a fire truck. That same truck is now owned by the Watervliet Paper Mill and is still in service, he said.

"The original pump, motor and tires are still on the truck," he said proudly.

Umphrey, chief engineer for the fire department since 1944, resides with his wife, Gwenn, at 147 Sassafras, Coloma.

Commenting on his 50 years as fireman, he said, "Nothing scares me any more than a fire, be it at my home or someone else's. I'm still afraid of fires, even after 50 years."

Weather Related Crashes Total 45

Snow and ice covered roads were blamed for 45 traffic accidents Sunday in the Twin Cities area. Berrien sheriff's officers reported they investigated 24 of the accidents from 10:30 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Three of the accidents Sunday injured five people, none of them apparently seriously, according to area police.

A two-car collision Saturday resulted in a fire when the gas tank of one car exploded. Deputies said two women in the car escaped burns from the fire that blocked US 31-33 Royalton township a short time. The women were treated for cuts and bruises and released at Memorial hospital.

Deputies said the accident occurred about 7:45 p.m. south of Hollywood road. Driver of the car that burned was identified as Sandi Sue Sommerfeldt, 16, route 2, Box 302 Benton Center road, Benton township. Her passenger was Pamela Kay Klug, 17, of 5795 Scottdale road, Royalton township.

Driver of the other car, Robert F. Hahn, 48, of 660 Miller lane, St. Joseph township, sought his own treatment for apparently minor injuries, deputies said. Deputies said the road was a sheet of glare ice. No tickets were issued and firemen from the Tri-Unit department put out the fire.

In another accident investigated by deputies Sunday three people were injured when a car and truck collided on Lemon Creek road west of Holden road, Lake township. Driver of the car, Eric Wayne Shadle, 20, of 712 Timberland drive, Berrien Springs, and a passenger in his car, Pamela Shadle, 19, Garland Apartments, Berrien Springs, were treated for cuts and bruises and released from Memorial hospital. Driver of the truck, Willie Lee Floyd, 38, of 305 McCumber, Buchanan, sought his own treatment. He was ticketed in the 3:20 p.m. collision for driving left of center, deputies said.

State police of the Benton Harbor post said no tickets were issued in a two-car crash on I-94 east of Glenford road, Lincoln township, that injured a passenger in one car about 5 p.m. Sunday.

Paul Jennerjahn, New York, was treated and released from Memorial hospital. He was a passenger in a car driven by Leo R. Schmude, 24, Oskosh, Wis. Driver of the other car was identified as Coleman Trudeau, 50, McMillan, Mich.

In a two-car collision about 9:20 p.m. Sunday, Benton township police reported a passenger in one car sought her own treatment for injuries. Daryla Hunter, 15, of 1468 Pipestone road, Benton township, was a passenger in a car driven by Ronald Gene Tip-

Weather Blamed For Crash

BERRIEN SPRINGS — Poor visibility due to blowing snow was blamed for a two-car accident west of here yesterday morning which hospitalized a Berrien Springs woman.

Listed in fair condition this morning at Berrien General hospital, Berrien Center, for treatment of facial injuries, was Mrs. Kathleen Brohman, 30, of Mt. Tabor road, Berrien Springs.

Berrien Springs village-Oronoko township police said that Mrs. Brohman's 15-month-old daughter, Amy Beth, and the driver of the second auto, Lewis Nagel, 32, of 260 University boulevard, Berrien Springs, were both treated at Berrien General and later released.

Police said Mrs. Brohman and Nagel were driving autos in opposite directions on Red Bud trail when the cars crashed a hill and crashed near Shawnee road. Poor visibility due to blowing snow was blamed by police for the 10:25 a.m. accident in Oronoko township. No tickets were issued, police said.

Fake $10s Passed

NILES — Three counterfeit $10 bills were taken in at a dairy store south of here early this morning and Niles township police said they believe the fake bills are part of a counterfeit operation uncovered in South Bend last week.

Township police said employees of the Oak Dairy store, located south of Niles accepted three of the bills from two men shortly after midnight this morning. Police said the employees became suspicious of the pair after they left and called police.

The two men were described as white and in their mid to late 20's, police said.

All three bills carried the serial number G48277171C. The same number was on other counterfeit $10 bills passed in the Niles area in December and January.

and honorary chairman of the ball, did not arrive. An aide said the champion was behind in his training for his Feb. 20 defense of his title and could not leave camp in Puerto Rico.

Col. Haefflinger disclosed the 41-year-old Joseph is the Air Force Reserve's current nominee for the outstanding airman of the nation. Joseph joined the U.S. Air Force in July, 1952. In 1956 when his term of enlistment was up he joined the reserve at the urging of Col. Haefflinger.

The second inaugural festivities were a glittering night for those who banqueted with the mayor or joined him at the Ramada Inn, Ferguson drive, for the ball. Some 400 attended the ball.

The mayor said the ball was so successful that members of the committee were thinking of making it an annual affair. The first inaugural ball was held Jan. 15, 1972 after Joseph won election as mayor over Wilbert Smith, in November of 1971.

Col. Haefflinger, former commander of the Air Force Reserve's 64th Tactical Airlift, and a former World War II B-17 bomber pilot, is presently disaster preparedness officer for the air force at O'Hare field, Chicago. He spun some stories about "Chuck Joseph," reservist.

Master Sgt. Joseph's attention to details showed up in the ratings, Col. Haefflinger said. "We repeatedly received from higher headquarters as one of the outstanding operations sections in the reserve. We were constantly commended on the attitude of our organization—and more specifically, one operations supervisor, Sgt. Joseph. General officers passing through O'Hare would ask for him by name in advance."

The mayor in response to the testimonials and congratulations, said: "I am who I am because of you...Everything I accomplish is because of you and by you and for you. You have entrusted me with your trust to carry out your will."

"It seems to me that all my life there was somebody there when I needed them."

"It's good to have you stand so strong and so tall at a time in history when there are so many doubts and government has become a question."

Joseph said in his only reference to a threat of recall "that it is not easy to become subject to a recall just for showing up at city hall." He noted mayors across the nation are facing economic, political and social pressures they have never experienced before.

Speakers from many fields told of working with Joseph on a variety of projects. Many cited his leadership, devotion to Benton Harbor and urged citizens to support him.

Speakers included: David

Olpitan, executive director, Nigerian-American Trade delegation, Chicago; Forrest S. Pearson, vice president, Pearson Construction Co., Inc., Benton Harbor; Lyman S. Parks, former mayor of Grand Rapids; Miss Donna O'Donahue, assistant secretary of state, Lansing; Julian Madison, vice president, Madison and Madison, architects, Cleveland.

Also, Clarence Woods, executive director, regional office of the National Urban League, Chicago; Wallace Williams, executive director, Office of Minority Business Enterprises,

COL. W.R. HAEFLINGER
Inaugural speaker

Lansing; William Clark, trustee, Inkster board of education, and sergeant-at-arms, state legislature, Lansing; and Benjamin Gordon, president of B. Gordon Inc., Chicago.

Eugene H. Dibble, III, executive vice president of Muhammad Ali Enterprises, Chicago, said it was because of Mayor Joseph that Ali decided to buy an estate at Berrien Springs.

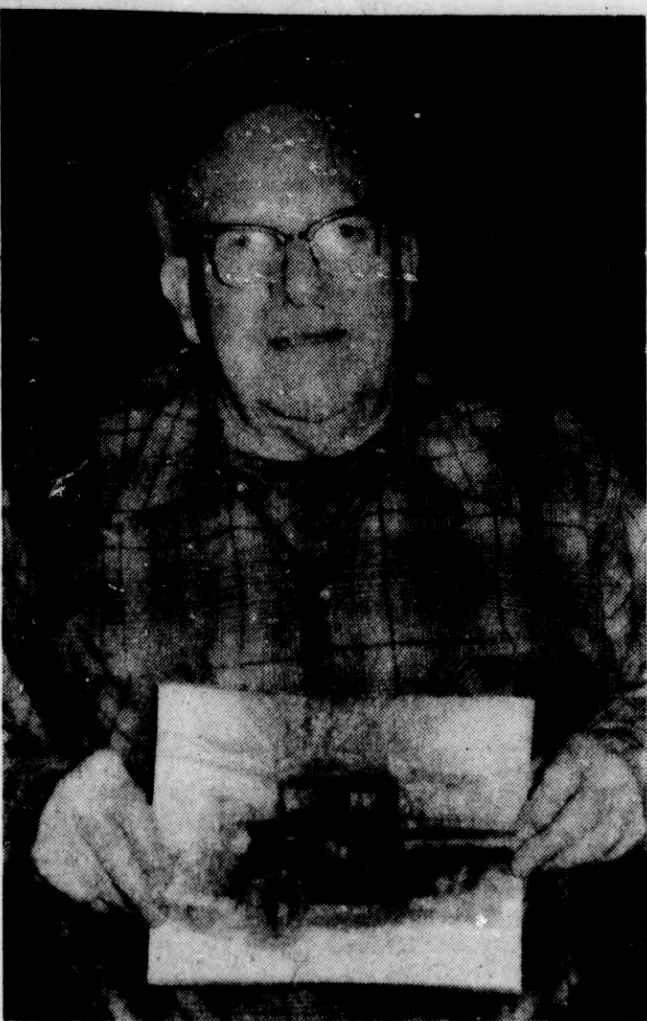

Testimonials were presented to Mayor Joseph from: Community Parents Child Care center by Nora Jefferson, executive director; Citizens Advisory board, Benton Harbor, by Arnold Smith, chairman; Church of Christ, Benton Harbor by Rev. Silas Legg, pastor; Berrien County Action, Inc., by Helen L. Ford, executive director; Berrien Opportunities Industrialization center, by Rev. Donald Adkins, executive director; mayor and commission staff, by Gregg A. Shushman, administrative assistant; Peoples Community Federal Credit union, Benton Harbor, by Mrs. Frances McBride, executive director; Twin City Times club, by Miss Mary Joseph and St. Marks Missionary Baptist church, by Rev. Coleman Gray, pastor.

David Madison was banquet chairman and Mrs. Elizabeth Fowler was chairman of the ball. Rev. Gray gave the invocation and benediction.

Smoking In Bed Linked To Fatal Blaze In Niles

By JOHN DYE
South Berrien Bureau

NILES — A 62-year-old man was killed and his neighbor required treatment for smoke inhalation as the result of a smoldering fire in their apartment house here yesterday afternoon.

Niles police said they believed smoking in bed was the cause of the blaze. It was the second death from a fire in the city since Dec. 31.

Police identified the victim as John W. Pearson, who lived alone in apartment two at 251 Bond street. He was pronounced dead on arrival at Pawating hospital, Niles, after his body was found on a smoldering sofa-bed in the one-room apartment.

Dr. David Speers, deputy

Berrien county medical examiner, ruled death was due to smoke inhalation, police said. Samuel Weiler, 70, who lived in the next apartment, was treated at the hospital for smoke inhalation and released.

Police said Weiler was overcome by smoke entering his apartment from Pearson's apartment.

Gary Koller, of the Niles police department, said the apparent cause was Pearson smoking in bed. But he said the state fire marshal's office would investigate to determine the exact cause.

The city's earlier fire resulting in a fatality claimed the life of Charles Johnson, 86, who was found dead in his smoke-filled house Dec. 31.

The fire yesterday apparently smoldered for "quite some time" before another resident of the seven-apartment building smelled smoke and called firemen, police said. The fire was confined to the bed and the southeast corner of the apartment where the bed was located, but heat was so intense it melted the telephone in the apartment, police said.

Owner of the two-story frame house converted into apartments is Howard Haight of Niles, police said.

'Unusual' House Plants Lead To Raid, 4 Arrests

By JOHN DYE
South Berrien Bureau

BERRIEN SPRINGS — What police termed unusual house plants spotted growing just inside an apartment window led to the arrests of four Berrien Springs teenagers near here Saturday night.

Officers of the Berrien Springs village-Oronoko township police force said seven plants were seized as suspected marijuana as were two ounces of the suspected drug.

Arrested on charges of possession of marijuana with intent to deliver (sale) were a couple identified by police as renters of the raided apartment, Theodore Oles, 19, and his wife, Jan. 17, both of Apt. 24, Rose Hill apartments, Rose Hill road, Berrien Springs.

Arrested on charges of possession of marijuana were two people police said were also in the apartment when it was raided at 11:10 p.m., Douglas Snell, 19, 2616 Willow drive, and Ruth Lopez, 17, 1100 Centerfield drive, both of Berrien Springs.

Police said the officers spotted the plants through the window while on routine patrol and then obtained a search warrant. All four arrested were released after posting bond, police said. Bond for Theodore Oles was $5,000; for Jan Oles, $2,000; and $200 each for Snell and Miss Lopez, police said.

Female Disguise Helps Trooper Arrest Young Stevensville Boy

By TOM SAWYER
Staff Writer

A Benton Harbor state trooper wearing a woman's wig and heavy sweater took a 13-year-old Stevensville boy into custody Friday on a charge of making obscene telephone calls. Trooper James Delgado said he was waiting in an unmarked car at the western end of Glenford road, Lincoln township, where a caller had made arrangements to meet a Royalton township woman. A youth was apprehended about 10:15 p.m. by Delgado and trooper Ralph Drumm. Delgado said the woman called police after receiving several obscene calls. He said the woman agreed to set up the meeting, but was not present. The boy was turned over to the custody of his parents pending petitioning to juvenile court.

Court Contrives Curious Dos And Don'ts In Campaign Spending

Last Friday the U.S. Supreme Court handed down a decision which though it lights a path for this year's Presidential and Congressional campaigns will not go down in history as a beacon light for all time.

The ruling consumed 227 typewritten pages in which seven members of the Court sustained most of the Federal Election Campaign Act; one member, Chief Justice Warren Burger, voted against it; a ninth member, the newest appointee, did not participate in the decision; and five of the seven justices supporting the majority viewpoint dissented on various parts of the Act.

Although this marble cake consensus satisfied John Gardner, chairman of Common Cause, which ramrodded the Act through Congress last year, because he feared Burger's outspoken criticism might be the prevailing sentiment, the decision leaves almost as much unsaid as it puts down in black and white.

Here is how the majority weaves itself down the field:

House and Senate candidates can spend their own money without stint.

So can a Presidential candidate if he does not accept the federal campaign subsidy. If he takes the U.S. money, he comes under a personal limitation.

Individuals and groups are limited $1,000 and $5,000 respectively to what they can donate to a candidate, but if the Associated Press' reading of the opinion is correct, they can shoot the moon on independent espousal of a candidate.

The Federal Election Commission is given a 30-day breather to police the spending law as it has been doing; then unless Congress turns over its appointive authority to the President, the Commission will be reduced to investigating the campaigns and making public its findings.

The disclosure requirement for candidates and their financial angels is continued, as are the federal subsidies for Presidential campaigns and the Republican and Democratic conventions.

Whatever may be their private misgivings, virtually all the Presidential hopefuls were quick to declare the decision will not hurt them. George Wallace fumed the opinion will allow a millionaire to buy the Presidency, as did Morris Udall whose political top ten rating is No. 10. Wallace's campaign managers, however, heaved a sigh of relief. "Our money is based on the federal subsidies being kept alive," they told the reporters.

Shutting some windows in a house, leaving others unlatched and opening a few spaces is a peculiar method of keeping the wind and rain from ruining the curtains.

Accommodating to the wind's direction, however, is the essence in a democratic system.

Only two of the nine justices reached the Court without prior experience in the game of chasing votes, as the six dissents, total or partial, rather plainly indicate.

We suspect there was a strong personal inclination to toss out FECA in its entirety as an unwarranted intrusion upon freedom of expression, tempered by a hunch that the public feels big spending by a relatively few contributors can be harmful.

The majority opinion consequently is a judicial amendment of FECA. It retains the formula for political purity, but reduces the dosage administered to the patient.

Times Change

At 20, you'd hock your watch to buy a present for a girl; at 40, you'd give her the pawn ticket.

Ford's Veto Pattern Historically Different

Congress has pigeonholed the common situs picketing bill, following its veto by President Ford, and if history runs true to form it will not be resurrected during this administration.

From George Washington to Richard Nixon, American presidents cast 2,257 vetoes and only about six per cent of them were overridden by Congress, says John R. Lee, a political scientist at Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University.

Among Lee's other findings, as reported in Human Behavior magazine:

The use of the veto has been on the increase since the Civil War.

— Democrats use it more than Republicans (Grover Cleveland and Franklin D. Roosevelt have been the biggest veto-wielders).

— Presidents who are elected with substantial electoral vote majorities use the veto more often than others.

— Congress tends to override vetoes more often when times are bad.

Also, the study indicates, that presidents who spent many years in Congress before rising to the chief executive's office were generally less inclined to veto, perhaps as a result of the respect they gained for that body.

This last bit of veto lore, as well as some of the other statistics, will have to be updated in light of the Ford administration's record.

Gerald Ford, a Republican, not only spent 25 years in the House of Representatives, but as our first unelected President had no electoral vote majority at all and certainly has presided over bad times.

Yet in his first full year in office, he used the veto on some 11 bills, only three of which were overridden by Congress.

More And More Telling Less And Less!

EDITOR'S MAILBAG

HE'D EVEN VOTE FOR BOZO THE CLOWN

Editor,
It was with some delight that I read in your paper tonight that a Mr. Stockman is going to run for Congress against the incumbent Mr. Hutchinson. Stockman seems like a pleasant chap from the short biography you printed. If he's elected though he'll have some mighty big shoes to fill.

Being thirty years of age I can only remember the last two men who represented this district. Of course you could be sixty and still only remember the last two congressmen.

The first one that springs to mind is Claire Hoffman who's only other claim to fame is that he served with Washington at Valley Forge. In my youth, I remember your paper continually running his picture and saying that he was the oldest member of Congress. I wonder if age counts when Congress decides to divide up the pork barrel?

Mr. Hutchinson, Hoffman's successor, languished in my mind as the guy who grins and waves from his convertible during the Blossom parade. His visage finally struck home during the Watergate hearings.

At the time I was living in the big city, and much to my chagrin I told my friends that this stone-faced Mr. Bushmore of blandness was my representative. In retrospect I might say that the value of dropping his name was not worth the effort. During the committee hearings, his long drawn out "no" responses to votes were hardly inspiring. Borrowing a quote from the great god "Spiro", he was a nattering nabob of negativism.

Frankly, he was an embarrassment to all of us conservatives who believe that literacy should be a requirement for holding public office. I guess though that compared to Mr. Hoffman the thing that he taught us most was that you don't have to be seventy years old to be senile.

Perhaps you might be able to infer that I would vote for almost any new face for our congressional seat except for perhaps Bozo the clown, Patty Hearst, or Mayor Joseph. Hold it, I take that back. I would vote for Bozo the clown. Good luck Mr. Stockman. If you win I'll look forward to seeing you at the Blossom parade.

RESPONDS TO EDITORIAL ON MSU PENALTIES

Editor,
Your Jan. 28 editorial concerning the NCAA ruling on MSU football requires response. First, in 1950 MSU was not eligible for a trip to the Rose Bowl or Big 10 championship since they did not begin conference competition in football until the 1953-54 school year.

As for the punishment handed out by the NCAA, I believe it is completely unjust and ill-conceived. Why should the entire student body and MSU fans be deprived of the enjoyment of conference competition and TV coverage because of the wrongdoing of a handful of unthinking individuals? Think of the lost revenue from TV, the unsold stadium tickets and probable reduced enrollment which will result. And what happens to the innocent player whose professional aspirations may be ruined for lack of national exposure?

It seems to me there are better ways of enforcing the rules. After all, who is at fault? The players involved — certainly. They know right from wrong and should be banned from further NCAA competition. Coaches and administrators who had any knowledge of the violations should be dismissed and banned from NCAA schools.

Using your example — stopping just one speeder when many are guilty — makes NCAA's heavy handedness a little like stopping a speeder, and then issuing tickets to him, his family, his friends and the employees of the company in which he works. Punish the guilty parties and then NCAA can go after all violators instead of singling out one for the sake of setting an example.

Amateur athletes must be policed but methods of enforcement are in need of reform.

TAKES ISSUE WITH BOBBY CRIM

Editor,
House Speaker Bobby Crim's desire to "help put Michigan back on its feet again," as quoted in the paper, is commendable. And a "fundamental tax reform" may be a big help. It appears, however, that the majority of voters have in the recent past rejected the idea of a graduated income tax.

Crim's party has for many years favored the working man and helped him better his lot by helping his unions to increase the wage level from near-poverty to upper-middle-class. There has always been a mass appeal in the ideal of Robin Hood to "take from the rich and give to the poor"; but by now Crim's constituency is more rich than poor, and I fear they may strongly object to his proposal.

It seems to me that the present state income tax already violates the Constitution, for the different rates for individuals, "business" enterprises and financial institutions and the personal exemptions go counter to the ban on an "income tax graduated as to rate or base."

The kind thought of a tax based on the "ability to pay" seems to have its origin in the enlightened Muslim rulers in North Africa a thousand years ago. It was a fairer way than to tax each household or individual a fixed amount, for such might be a platitude to the rich and force the poor into debt or slavery.

Therefore a more logical interpretation (which fits our Constitution) would be that the high incomes are taxed more.

Do You REMEMBER?

— 16 Years Ago —

The former Green Cottage, now known as Blake's on the Lake, has been sold to a group of Gary, Ind., financiers who are reported considering the lakefront location as a site for an apartment building. Thousands of area residents remember the Green cottage when it was among southwestern Michigan's most popular night spots.

— 25 Years Ago —

If Mr. Groundhog was foolhardy enough to take his annual mid-winter peak outside his burrow this morning, he got a frigid reception. The mercury ranged all the way from 8 to 22 degrees — below zero, that is — across Berrien county early this morning.

— 30 Years Ago —

Benton Harbor's new city fruit market will be located on the marsh west of the water works. The city commission yesterday afternoon decided to discard all other proposed sites and immediately set the machinery in motion to start work preparing the new site at once. It is proposed to fill in the site with dirt from the excavation from the new Y.M.C.A. property on Michigan street. Sale of the present market site on Elm street, and use of the funds for the new market has been suggested. The land for the new site fronts on Ninth street and Britain avenue.

The flowers that bloom in the spring, fra la, will soon do that very thing, ah ha! Yes sir, and yes ma'am, it's been a hard winter so far, but according to the Ancient Order of Depesters, it ain't going to snow no more — not much more, anyway, because John W. Filbert Groundhog didn't see his shadow this morning.

— 75 Years Ago —

Benton Harbor has secured another factory which promises great growth and expansion. This morning a contract was signed by which Stone & Co., wagon makers, secure a five year's lease on the large brick barn on Seventh street, formerly occupied by J.W. Clausner's livery. Stone & Co. will convert the building into a modern wagon factor and will manufacture buggies, wagons, and carriages. The wagon making industry is growing in Benton Harbor and is adding materially to the enlargement of the city.

Richard Butler of Galien is in Benton Harbor today and reports the best of sleighing at his place and that he received yesterday at his yards forty loads of logs cut from the woods near by.

Congress Immune To Inflation?

CONCORD, N.H. — (NEA) — When members of Congress failed to win support last year for a straightforward pay raise, they resorted in their greed to legislative "trickery." Using stealth, secrecy and the subjection of an obscure bill which they knew would draw no public scrutiny, the lawmakers established an unprecedented cost of living salary increase that will be automatic on an annual basis.

Thus the nobles have at the expense of their souls insulated themselves from the bother of inflation.

One man pushing the point is Wallace Johnson, 62-year-old former mayor of Berkeley, Calif. He has entered himself on the New Hampshire ballot as a vice presidential candidate solely concerned with the repeal of the congressional cost of living escalator. "I'm not interested in the vice presidency," he says, "but it's the only way I can present a kind of referendum to the people: Are we still in control of our Congress? That's what I'm asking here."

The question is not rhetorical. After voting in the cost of living increase last summer, some uncomfortable legislators said it was done in such a way as to keep the public ignorant and quiet. The measure was ramrodded through Congress in five days.

Obviously, not every legislator favored the fraud (only 272 of 535 voted yes). Many feared the risks involved, particularly in view of the elections (the pay vote was weighted with members facing reelection). Others agreed with the congressman who argued that against the implications of congressional immunity from inflation: "The American people would be better off if Congress got a pay decrease when the cost of living went up and a pay increase when it went down. Then we might see more fiscal responsibility here in Washington."

For his part, Johnson believes the congressional action was as much legally as legislatively punk. Accordingly, he has filed suit in a California federal court asking that the cost of living statute be stricken for constitutional reasons.

But beyond the legalities, Johnson's primary anger is rooted in the sinking thought that "Congress has shown utter contempt for the people of this country." He says that for 100 years, since the days when congressmen were paid with 50 per day stipends, no Congress save the present one has voted a salary increase for itself.

It is to awake the public, then, that Wallace Johnson campaigns in New Hampshire. He says it is his Bicentennial project, something he can start but that everybody must finish. In this respect he is a unique and admirable candidate indeed, the only one on the ballot here who is soliciting votes for the system rather than for himself.

Candidate Stand On Abortion - III

WASHINGTON (KFS) — This column continues an analysis of the positions taken by the Democratic presidential candidates on the issue of abortion. A previous column described the statements and votes of Sen. Birch Bayh, Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, former Gov. Jimmy Carter, former Sen. Fred Harris and Sen. Henry Jackson.

Gov. Milton Shapp upholds the Supreme Court decision. In his capacity as governor, he recently vetoed a Pennsylvania measure which attempted to impose tougher restrictions on access to abortion than the Supreme Court said was constitutional.

Sargent Shriver, the 1972 vice-presidential nominee, is having a devil of a time with the issue. A Catholic, he stresses that he is personally opposed to abortion. But he has said that as president he would uphold the law and would not support a constitutional amendment designed to overturn the Supreme Court decision.

He has tried to "soften" this stance by proposing to develop "life-support centers" which would offer alternatives to abortion; out of a belief that many women would prefer to keep their babies if they had an acceptable alternative and thus not resort to abortion. This is also a pet project of his wife, the former Eunice Kennedy.

Rep. Morris Udall is one of the three firmest supporters of a woman's right to an abortion, along with Bayh and Harris. Udall said recently that he would oppose any constitutional amendment seeking to narrow the scope of the Supreme Court decision. His voting record on abortion-related riders is supportive, with one exception. He voted to bar the Legal Services Agency lawyers from handling abortion-related cases, but he has since said repeatedly that he made a mistake and regrets the vote.

Gov. George Wallace is the most ardent of the Democrats in opposing the right of a woman to control her own body. He now says that he would favor a constitutional amendment to overturn the Supreme Court decision, and make an exception only to save the life of the mother.

Since the prior column which included description of former Gov. Jimmy Carter's position was written, he apparently reversed his apparent reversal of his original opposition to a constitutional amendment making abortion illegal.

There is clearly no agreement among the Democratic candidates on the issue of abortion. This has been an attempt to clarify their various attitudes, insofar as they have indicated them, so that those concerned about the question can be accurately guided.

RICHARD J. MILLER

Plan Two-Day Show

Richard J. Miller, who began his current hobby by collecting beach pebbles while on vacation, has been elected president of the Blossomland Gem and Mineral Society for 1976.

Miller, a charter member, and his wife, Jeannine, have traveled extensively throughout the United States and Canada pursuing their hobby.

Since the club's inception in 1967, the Millers have edited and published the club bulletin, "The Agatypic."

Miller has also served as treasurer and safety chairman and was show chairman in 1974 and 1975.

In addition to searching for crystals, he enjoys cutting agates, cutting cabochons for jewelry and making decorator objects.

Miller is chief process engineer at Modern Plastics Company, Benton Harbor, and is president of the Modern Plastics Oldtimers. A graduate of Benton Harbor high school and Kalamazoo college, he is also secretary of the Western Michigan section of the Society of Plastic Engineers.

The Millers have three children and reside in St. Joseph.

Other new officers of the club for 1976 include Merle VanDeWarker, Eau Claire, vice president; Mrs. Kenneth (Linda) Baker, Stevensville, secretary, and Edward Plumley, Stevensville, treasurer.

The club meets the third Sunday of the month at 2:30 p.m. at the First National Bank of Southwestern Michigan, Red Arrow highway, St. Joseph. The meetings are open to the public.

Blossomland Gem and Mineral Society is a member of the American Federation of Mineralogical Societies and the Midwest Federation and supports the American Federation's scholarship foundation, which supplies scholarships for advanced degrees in geological science.

The society's activities include an annual rock swap in the fall and an annual show, presented free to the public, in March.

This year's show will be March 13 and 14 at Lakeshore high school gymnasium. Hours will be noon to 10 p.m. March 13 and noon to 6 p.m. March 14.

The society began its annual show in 1970 as a one-day event and last year expanded it to two days.

Volunteers Of America Mark 80th Year

NEW YORK (AP) — From three barren rooms on the Bowery, the Volunteers of America, which celebrates its 80th anniversary this year, has mushroomed to some 750 service centers around the country. Founded on March 8, 1896, by Maude and Ballington Booth, the VOA was the first religious social welfare organization devoted to serving the needy regardless of race or creed to originate in America, according to Gen. John F. McMahon, commander-in-chief.

Ballington, the son of Salvation Army founder Gen. William Booth, and his wife were famous evangelists in England when they were sent to America to take over the Salvation Army organization in this country.

The young Booths — he was then 29 and she was 21 — thought they should "Americanize" the army and they displayed the United States flag instead of the British flag at official functions. A displeased Salvation Army in Britain ordered them to return to London but they refused and set about founding the VOA.

Theodore Roosevelt presided at the huge community meeting at Cooper Union here with 3,500 people filling every seat and 5,000 outside when Booth announced the start of the organization, which now serves the handicapped, alcoholics, children and the elderly.

"You cannot talk to a man about God when he is hungry and half clothed and has no place to sleep," said General Booth. "You have to feed and clothe him first."

Soon Mrs. Booth was to launch the prison-reform crusade that made her known over America as the "Little Mother of the Prisons" and led her across the continent many times a year, to San Quentin, Sing Sing, Dannemora and Joliet.

"She talked straight talk with the inmates at chapel services — no Pollyanna philosophy," says General McMahon, the first nonmember of the Booth family to head the VOA. "She formed what was called Volunteer Prison Leagues in which the men set themselves on the right path for rehabilitation."

"And for the ex-convicts, she opened Hope Halls. Today, these expanded facilities are called halfway houses — places where ex-prisoners can live while they look for work."

The service facilities in early years included fresh air camps, orphanages, working women's homes, hospitals, day nurseries, shelters for unemployed men and rescue homes for young women, McMahon says. Today, with a service staff of more than 4,000, the organization, with headquarters in New York, operates its program centers in cities and towns throughout the United States.

More than three million people each year across the country are helped by the VOA, he reports. In 1965, its broad-based philanthropic work initiated what might be the largest nonprofit housing program in the nation — today a $90-million program of 21 developments which benefits thousands of handicapped, elderly, single-parent and low and moderate-income individuals and families.

The first facility for the elderly opened by the VOA was the Theodora in Seattle, Wash., which has been in operation since 1965. The VOA also owns and operates 10 nonprofit nursing homes for the elderly and mentally retarded, caring for almost 2,000 patients. There are nursing homes in Milwaukee and Madison, Wis., in Minneapolis and St. Paul and Lake City and New Port Richey, Fla.

Funds are raised on a community level through gifts, bequests, special drives, sidewalk Santa campaigns and participation in the United Way. Other physical symbols of the VOA are the salvage trucks which roll across streets in hundreds of cities picking up discarded clothing, appliances, furniture and other household items — all to be refurbished and put to essential use by the needy. Often, the items are cleaned and repaired by physically or otherwise handicapped men and women — many ex-convicts or alcoholics in VOA rehabilitation centers.

Some of its other services are adoption facilities, children and youth services, counseling programs, day care services and centers, disaster relief, emergency shelters, maternity homes, school clothing programs, summer camps and Sunset Clubs for the Aging.

"In the 80 years since its founding, the VOA has revised its programs and approaches in many ways — to keep abreast of the changing needs of the less fortunate among us. The emphasis in the 70's on housing for the elderly is but one example," says General McMahon.

Stop Back Trouble

NEW YORK — "Oh my aching back!" has a lot of truth to it; back complaints are second only to the common cold on Americans' list of ailments.

Backaches affect young and old alike, reports the February issue of "Seventeen," which offers some guidelines to stop back trouble or keep it from showing up:

1. Keep tension to a minimum — stress can cause muscles to contract, lead to spasms.
2. Try doing some mild exercise every day. Sit-ups, walking and swimming are good muscle toners. Always consult a doctor before beginning any regular exercise program.

3. Never use your back as a lever. Instead, bend from the knees to pick up heavy objects. And never lift while twisting.

4. Check to see that your work-bench, desk or table is high enough so that you don't have to bend to reach it.

5. Sit on straight chairs; in a car, use a backrest for extra support.

6. To give your muscles a rest, sleep on a firm mattress on your side with knees bent.

7. Evaluate your posture by standing straight against a wall and slipping a hand behind the small of your back. There should be very little space.

Soon Mrs. Booth was to launch the prison-reform crusade that made her known over America as the "Little Mother of the Prisons" and led her across the continent many times a year, to San Quentin, Sing Sing, Dannemora and Joliet.

"She talked straight talk with the inmates at chapel services — no Pollyanna philosophy," says General McMahon.

The first nonmember of the Booth family to head the VOA, "She formed what was called Volunteer Prison Leagues in which the men set themselves on the right path for rehabilitation."

"And for the ex-convicts, she opened Hope Hall. Today, these expanded facilities are called halfway houses — places where ex-prisoners can live while they look for work."

The service facilities in early years included fresh air camps, orphanages, working women's homes, hospitals, day nurseries, shelters for unemployed men and rescue homes for young women, McMahon says. Today, with a service staff of more than 4,000, the organization, with headquarters in New York, operates its program centers in cities and towns throughout the United States.

More than three million people each year across the country are helped by the VOA, he reports. In 1965, its broad-based philanthropic work initiated what might be the largest nonprofit housing program in the nation — today a $80-million program of 21 developments which benefits thousands of handicapped, elderly, single-parent and low and moderate-income individuals and families.

The first facility for the elderly opened by the VOA was the Theodora in Seattle, Wash., which has been in operation since 1908. The VOA also owns and operates 10 nonprofit nursing homes for the elderly and mentally retarded, caring for almost 2,000 patients. There are nursing homes in Milwaukee and Madison, Wis., in Minneapolis and St. Paul and Lake City and New Port Richey, Fla.

Funds are raised on a community level through gifts, bequests, special drives, sidewalk Santa campaigns and participation in the United Way. Other physical symbols of the VOA are the salvage trucks which roll across streets in hundreds of cities picking up discarded clothing, appliances, furniture and other household items — all to be refurbished and put to essential use by the needy. Often, the items are cleaned and repaired by physically or otherwise handicapped men and women — many ex-convicts or alcoholics in VOA rehabilitation centers.

Some of its other services are adoption facilities, children and youth services, counseling programs, day care services and centers, disaster relief, emergency shelters, maternity homes, school clothing programs, summer camps and Sunset Clubs for the Aging.

"In the 80 years since its founding, the VOA has revised its programs and approaches in many ways — to keep abreast of the changing needs of the less fortunate among us. The emphasis in the 70's on housing for the elderly is but one example," says General McMahon.

Stop Back Trouble

NEW YORK — "Oh my aching back!" has a lot of truth to it; back complaints are second only to the common cold on Americans' list of ailments.

Backaches affect young and old alike, reports the February issue of "Seventeen," which offers some guidelines to stop back trouble or keep it from showing up:

1. Keep tension to a minimum — stress can cause muscles to contract, lead to spasms.
2. Try doing some mild exercise every day. Sit-ups, walking and swimming are good muscle toners. Always consult a doctor before beginning any regular exercise program.

3. Never use your back as a lever. Instead, bend from the knees to pick up heavy objects. And never lift while twisting.

4. Check to see that your work-bench, desk or table is high enough so that you don't have to bend to reach it.

5. Sit on straight chairs; in a car, use a backrest for extra support.

6. To give your muscles a rest, sleep on a firm mattress on your side with knees bent.

7. Evaluate your posture by standing straight against a wall and slipping a hand behind the small of your back. There should be very little space.

Folk Concert Feb. 5

NANCY EVERSOLE

Nancy Eversole of Mishawaka, Ind., who is known as the "Kentucky Woman," will present a concert at 7 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 5, at the Stevensville elementary school gymnasium.

The concert is being sponsored by the Stevensville elementary school Parent Teachers organization and is open to the public, both children and adults, at no charge.

Mrs. Eversole was born in the Kentucky mountains and was raised on the tales and music of that area. She sings and plays the music learned from her father as it was passed down from one generation to the next.

She has also traveled through the Appalachian region collecting songs in the true folk tradition of listening and learning from the people of the mountains.

She accompanies herself on the dulcimer and has presented concerts at schools, churches and for organizations throughout Kentucky, Indiana and Michigan. She has made several radio and television appearances and was featured in the Folklife Festival held at Indiana University at South Bend.

In 1972, she was named the most outstanding folk singer at the Tri-State Appalachian Folk Festival held in Lexington, Ky.

Toast Fresh Walnuts

Toasting fresh walnuts enhances their natural mellow flavor and crisp texture in recipes.

In milk and creamy mixture, toasting also helps keep this popular ingredient nut's nice golden color. So easy, simply drop shelled kernels into rapidly boiling water.

Boil for three minutes, then drain well. In a shallow pan, spread kernels evenly and bake at 350 degrees for 12 to 15 minutes, stirring often. Cool. To make salad or soup croutons, snacks or gifts from your kitchen, toss hot walnuts in melted butter and sprinkle with salt or seasoned salt.

Club Circuit

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Behind It All Was Humiliation

Dear Ann Landers: What is this world coming to when a woman can collect $4300 from the Greyhound Bus Company because she got her rear end stuck in a window in the restroom on the bus?

The woman is a friend of my sister's who lives nearby. I couldn't believe it when Sis told me. Then she sent this newspaper clipping of the incident which I am passing to you, Ann.

It seems the bus swerved and the lady's posterior got stuck in the window as she tried to steady herself. She was awarded $4300 by a jury as compensation for "anxiety and humiliation."

Does this sound like justice to you? I get burned up when I think how easy it is for some people to collect money from large companies. No wonder our insurance rates are so high. — Fuming

Dear Fume: I'm not going to second-guess a jury. They heard the evidence and I only read your letter and the newspaper clipping. But thank you for keeping me abreast of the times. (And people accuse ME of making up letters!)

Your Turn

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I are at odds over the behavior of our neighbors. Whenever we take them to dinner at an expensive restaurant they always thank us profusely and say, "Next time we must treat YOU." They have yet to pick up a check. We've been stuck at least ten times. (They both work and money is no problem.)

On my birthday, Mrs. Neighbor baked a cake. She cut six pieces, one for each of us (and our two children) and then took the rest home. I thought it was awfully cheap and told my husband I was sick of their tacky behavior.

He enjoys this couple's company and says his philosophy is "turn the other cheek." What do you say? — Disagreement

Dear Dis: How many cheeks do you have? Also, are you well enough fixed for cash that you can continue to entertain these freeloaders?

The very next time you four go to dinner I suggest you hand the bill to The Last of the Big Spenders and say, "It's your turn. Thanks a lot." From then on, alternate. Generosity is one thing. Chumpsville is something else.

Phone Fever

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have been married 40 years. Recently I discovered he has been making long-distance telephone calls twice a week to another woman.

When I demanded an explanation, he said it had nothing to do with us — that she was just a "telephone lover."

Please advise me as to how I can have this "telephone service" disconnected. — Southern Belle

Dear Belle: Your husband is probably in his 60s and enjoying a belated attack of "Black Cord Fever." (Usually it hits during adolescence.)

So long as he does nothing but talk, keep the lid on and don't nag him. Should he start planning a trip out of town, I suggest an eyeball-to-eyeball confrontation, complete with details of your anxiety and unhappiness over the matter.

My hunch is that these two

kids in due time will talk themselves out and disconnect on their own.

Ann Landers discusses teenage drinking — its myths, its realities. Learn the facts by reading "Booze and You — For Teen-Agers Only," by Ann Landers. Send 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Pier-Eaman Meeting Tuesday

COLOMA — The Pier-Eaman Parents club will meet Tuesday, Feb. 3, at 7:30 p.m. at Eaman school.

William Barrett, superintendent of Coloma Community schools, and members of the board of education will present the program.

Refreshments will be served and babysitting service will be available.

Post 518 Valentine Dance Set

NEW TROY — Wee-Chick American Legion Post No. 518 of New Troy will sponsor a Valentine dance Saturday, Feb. 7.

The event will begin at 9:30 p.m. and will be held at the post home on Wee-Chick road.

There will be a donation of $1 at the door.

Rich Man's Sport Now

The high cost of postal service is not only prompting some of the biggest users to seek cheaper means of delivering the mail, it's creating a new status social class: letter writers.

During the last ten years as I've watched the price of a postage stamp more than double, I've seen letter writing go from a lower middle class form of communication to a rich man's sport.

It was the 13-cent stamp that really tipped the scale and separate the haves from the have-nots. The other day as I pushed my way through the parking lot of luxury cars, I stepped inside the post office and came face to face with polo players, philanthropists, heiresses and jet setters.

There wasn't one familiar face in the line. I casually mentioned this to the man in front of me who snuggled in his chinchilla coat and said,

"They're probably all at home making phone calls. Oh, it's cheaper and faster to phone, but like I told my son, 'I know it's expensive to write, but a couple of times a week just pick up the pen and let us hear from you.' You can't imagine what our postage bill is. The other week, he wrote for 20 minutes."

"But I can't imagine..."

"Don't you just love the post office now?" he gushed. "Now that the rates have gone up, you meet such a better class of people. Hello Rocky!" he yelled to a man near the front of the line. "Oh, you got a few in here who buy the postcards — you know, the climbers — but generally you meet your own kind here."

"It's not official yet, but I heard the Nieman-Marcus Christmas gift catalogue is coming out next year with a three-ounce letter sent from Juneau, Alaska. Wouldn't you like to be able to afford that little baby?"

"Aren't you exaggerating just a bit?" I said. "I mean the postal rates can't mean that much of a class distinction."

"Are you kidding?" he asked. "See that man at the counter? He wrote letters and played tennis before it was fashionable. Not your Nouveau letter writer." (A first class stamp fell to the floor and the man didn't even stoop to pick it up.)

"Now that's class," said my companion. At the window, the man in the chinchilla ordered 50 first class stamps, sent an insured parcel to Chicago and registered a letter to Iowa. He whipped out his checkbook to await the bad news.

"Gosh," I said. "How much is all that going to cost?"

He gave me a withering look. "If you have to ask, you can't afford it."

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Rewards will come in small portions today but don't be dismayed. The ladder of success is mounted a rung at a time.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You may have an opportunity today to put to use something taught to you by a friend. It should work just as well for you.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) In career or financial matters don't be reluctant to bargain. Every little advantage helps.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If you honor your promises to the letter today you'll gain even greater respect than you already enjoy.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Though you would probably be more generous if roles were reversed, one who'll do you a favor today is being as magnanimous as she can be.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You may have to make a rather difficult decision today. If you're sure it's best for all, stand by your guns.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Get an early start today. Concentrate on worthwhile projects. A lot can be accomplished if you put your mind to it.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) A serious matter has a good chance of being resolved today if discussed in a pleasant atmosphere. Invite the other party to lunch or dinner.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Don't give up prematurely today if things don't go your way at first. The final score should please you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Carefully screen propositions offered today. They could contain advantages for you that they don't for another.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Two sources for gain may present themselves today. One will be through normal channels, the other from an unexpected area.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Others will find you very compatible today. Whether it's a young group or an older one, you'll enjoy a good rapport.

Is it still believed that red meats cause high blood pressure? Is fish really a brain food?

Miss J.G., VI.

Dear Miss G.: Many such myths are passed on from generation to generation. Factless fancies originate in many different ways. Red meats are not considered an important cause of high blood pressure. Eating fish has never been proven to stimulate intellectual growth.

I have been told that the discoloration in my face will disappear after I give birth to my child. Could you add your assurance to that of my own doctor?

Mrs. T.C., N.C.

Dear Mrs. C.: Only rarely does a brownish discoloration appear on the cheeks of pregnant women. This facial bluish is known as "chloasma."

It has been suggested that the cause is associated with a temporary hormone imbalance that occurs during pregnancy. Shortly after the child is born, this facial discoloration starts to disappear.

An elderly uncle of mine has been in bed for two months. It has just been found that he has a fracture of the leg. Is this possible without any fall or injury?

Miss O.L., Ore.

Dear Miss L.: This can occur, especially in the elderly. People who have been in bed for a long period of time may have bones that are particularly brittle, or there may be some loss of calcium.

It is well known as "pathological" fractures. This means that the fracture is caused by some intrinsic disease, rather than by injury.

DR. LESTER COLEMAN has prepared a special booklet entitled, "Pay Attention to Your Heart." For your copy, send 25 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Lester L. Coleman, M.D., (Heart booklet), P.O. Box 5178, Grand Central Station, New York City 10017. Please mention the booklet by title.

Hogs Driven West

Mention "livestock drive" and most people think of the great cattle drives of the "Old West."

But hogs were also part of trail drives during the first half of the 19th century with herds of hogs traveling on foot from the Midwest farming areas to the urban market centers.

Old toll gate records from the "National Trail," now US-40, which runs through the Appalachian Mountains, show that herds of hogs numbering in the millions were driven along this route.

Oswald: "Eloene (Mrs. Gale) Griggs, the president of the American Bridge Teachers Association, has suggested that we use some hands suitable for teaching."

Jim: "Here's a good one for an advanced class. South ducks the first heart on general principles, but wins the second. The intermediate pupil has learned to attack his longest suit and to lead a high card from the shorter hand so he plays his queen of clubs. West takes his ace, clears the hearts and declarer can only collect eight tricks."

Oswald: "The advanced declarer should use the C of ARCH and count winners. He has six tops in the red suits and needs just three in the blacks. Then he leads his four of clubs. If West grabs this with the ace South will now have four club tricks. If West ducks, South abandons clubs, knocks out the ace of spades and has his nine tricks."

Ask the Jacobys

We keep getting questions about the correct time to declare honors.

The correct time is when the hand is over, but if declarer wishes to do so, he may claim them during the play. A defender is not allowed to claim until the hand is over since in so doing he would be giving his partner illegal information.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Behind It All Was Humiliation

Dear Ann Landers: What is this world coming to when a woman can collect $4300 from the Greyhound Bus Company because she got her rear end stuck in a window in the restroom on the bus?

The woman is a friend of my sister's who lives nearby. I couldn't believe it when Sis told me. Then she sent this newspaper clipping of the incident which I am passing to you, Ann.

It seems the bus swerved and the lady's posterior got stuck in the window as she tried to steady herself. She was awarded $4300 by a jury as compensation for "anxiety and humiliation."

Does this sound like justice to you? I get burned up when I think how easy it is for some people to collect money from large companies. No wonder our insurance rates are so high. — Fuming

Dear Fume: I'm not going to second-guess a jury. They heard the evidence and I only read your letter and the newspaper clipping. But thank you for keeping me abreast of the times. (And people accuse ME of making up letters!)

Your Turn

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I are at odds over the behavior of our neighbors. Whenever we take them to dinner at an expensive restaurant they always thank us profusely and say, "Next time we must treat YOU." They have yet to pick up a check. We've been stuck at least ten times. (They both work and money is no problem.)

On my birthday, Mrs. Neighbor baked a cake. She cut six pieces, one for each of us (and our two children) and then took the rest home. I thought it was awfully cheap and told my husband I was sick of their tacky behavior.

He enjoys this couple's company and says his philosophy is "turn the other cheek." What do you say? — Disagreement

Dear Dis: How many cheeks do you have? Also, are you well enough fixed for cash that you can continue to entertain these freeloaders?

The very next time you four go to dinner I suggest you hand the bill to The Last of the Big Spenders and say, "It's your turn. Thanks a lot." From then on, alternate. Generosity is one thing. Chumpsville is something else.

Phone Fever

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have been married 40 years. Recently I discovered he has been making long-distance telephone calls twice a week to another woman.

When I demanded an explanation, he said it had nothing to do with us — that she was just a "telephone lover."

Dear Belle: Your husband is probably in his 80s and enjoying a belated attack of "Black Cord Fever." (Usually it hits during adolescence.)

So long as he does nothing but talk, keep the lid on and don't nag him. Should he start planning a trip out of town, I suggest an eyeball-to-eyeball confrontation, complete with details of your anxiety and unhappiness over the matter.

My hunch is that these two

kids in due time will talk themselves out and disconnect on their own.

Ann Landers discusses teenage drinking — its myths, its realities. Learn the facts by reading "Booze and You — For Teen-Agers Only," by Ann Landers. Send 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Rich Man's Sport Now

The high cost of postal service is not only prompting some of the biggest users to seek cheaper means of delivering the mail, it's creating a new status social class: letter writers.

During the last ten years as I've watched the price of a postage stamp more than double, I've seen letter writing go from a lower middle class form of communication to a rich man's sport.

It was the 13-cent stamp that really tipped the scale and separate the haves from the have-nots. The other day as I pushed my way through the parking lot of luxury cars, I stepped inside the post office and came face to face with polo players, philanthropists, heiresses and jet setters.

There wasn't one familiar face in the line. I casually mentioned this to the man in front of me who snuggled in his chinchilla coat and said,

"They're probably all at home making phone calls. Oh, it's cheaper and faster to phone, but like I told my son, 'I know it's expensive to write, but a couple of times a week just pick up the pen and let us hear from you.' You can't imagine what our postage bill is. The other week, he wrote for 20 minutes."

"But I can't imagine..."

"Don't you just love the post office now?" he gushed. "Now that the rates have gone up, you meet such a better class of people. Hello Rocky!" he yelled to a man near the front of the line. "Oh, you get a few in here who buy the postcards — you know, the climbers — but generally you meet your own kind here."

"It's not official yet, but I heard the Nieman-Marcus Christmas gift catalogue is coming out next year with a three-ounce letter sent from Juneau, Alaska. Wouldn't you like to be able to afford that little baby?"

"Aren't you exaggerating just a bit?" I said. "I mean the postal rates can't mean that much of a class distinction."

"Are you kidding?" he asked. "See that man at the counter? He wrote letters and played tennis before it was fashionable. Not your Nouveau letter writer." (A first class stamp fell to the floor and the man didn't even stoop to pick it up.)

"Now that's class," said my companion. At the window, the man in the chinchilla ordered 50 first class stamps, sent an insured parcel to Chicago and registered a letter to Iowa. He whipped out his checkbook to await the bad news.

Oil Nationalization Eyed In Angola

By ASSOCIATED PRESS
British correspondents reported today that the Soviet-backed Popular Movement (MPLA) in Angola is planning to nationalize the Cabinda oil field if the American Gulf company does not resume production soon.

Another British correspondent reported that Western-backed forces in both north and south Angola are putting up stiff resistance to the advancing MPLA forces.
Gulf was producing 150,000 barrels a day from the offshore Cabinda field until December, when it shut down production at the insistence of the U.S. State Department so that the MPLA would not get the oil revenues.

A.J. McIlroy of the London Daily Telegraph said MPLA Prime Minister Lopo do Nascimento has stated the Angolans will develop their own oil if the Americans continue their "economic blockade."

Nicholas Ashford of the Times of London said Nascimento told him if Gulf does not resume production soon, his government would have to seek other means of exploiting the Cabinda field.

Oil Nationalization Eyed In Angola

By ASSOCIATED PRESS
British correspondents reported today that the Soviet-backed Popular Movement (MPLA) in Angola is planning to nationalize the Cabinda oil field if the American Gulf company does not resume production soon.

Another British correspondent reported that Western-backed forces in both north and south Angola are putting up stiff resistance to the advancing MPLA forces.
Gulf was producing 150,000 barrels a day from the offshore Cabinda field until December, when it shut down production at the insistence of the U.S. State Department so that the MPLA would not get the oil revenues.

A.J. Mellroy of the London Daily Telegraph said MPLA Prime Minister Lopo do Nascimento has stated the Angolans will develop their own oil if the Americans continue their "economic blockade."

Nicholas Ashford of the Times of London said Nascimento told him if Gulf does not resume production soon, his government would have to seek other means of exploiting the Cabinda field.

STRIKE AVERTED
NEW YORK (AP) — Dress manufacturers and 50,000 unionized workers have reached a new contract agreement, averting a strike that was threatened for early today.

Now See Here!

BY BERT BACHARACH

I CAN VOUCH for none of these tips but all were recommended in a book published in 1891: Bathe a bruise with vinegar and it will not turn black and blue; rub a burn with a peeled potato to take out inflammation; or wear a small bag of salt around your neck and you will not have a cold all winter. . . . An Aquarian (Jan.

20-Feb. 18) cannot endure monotony, and is always seeking the new and unusual. . . . Map-Reading: In Texas, there are towns named Dollarhide, Sweet Home, Happy, Hy and Old Glory. . . . Item for a Fall-in-Conversation: "The biggest age difference between a President and his First Lady was that of John Tyler, aged 54, and Mrs.

Tyler, 24. Incidentally, he was a real Father of his Country — with 15 children!" . . . Graphologists say that forward driving strokes in a person's handwriting indicate an aggressive personality.

FAMOUS LAST WORDS (Las Vegas Style): "I've a hunch this'll be my big night!" "My system never fails!" "Don't worry, I know when to quit!" and "You go up to the room, dear, I'll be up as soon as I make expenses." . . . One of the larger parking lots in the world, Florida's Disney World, accommodates 12,000 cars. . . . Here's a tip for a great spread for crackers: Mix a small can of fruit cocktail, well drained, with a cup of peanut butter. . . . Beauty Hint from Anne Meara: "To keep your lips from chapping, apply warmed olive oil at night before going to bed. This helps to replenish natural oils." . . . Bob Orben writes: "At my age an acid trip is going to the corner drugstore for a roll of Tums!" . . . Wine experts claim that aging is fine up to a certain point. They agree, however, that most wines pass their peak after 10 years in the bottle.

NEW OWNERS: Rod and Linda McAlvey of Benton Harbor are new owners of Midway Florist flower shop and greenhouses, located off Red Arrow highway between Coloma and Watervliet. Mr. and Mrs. McAlvey plan to hold a grand opening Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Feb. 5-7. (Cliff Stevens photo)

More Minority Students Enrolled In State Schools

ANN ARBOR — Minority student enrollment has steadily increased during the past six years in Michigan even as white students and the student population as a whole have declined.

Black students show the largest numerical increase, from 283,909 in 1969-70 to 302,612 in 1974-75, according to the University of Michigan Program for Educational Opportunity (PEO), which used statistics compiled on all public elementary and secondary schools by the State Department of Education's annual racial and ethnic census. American Indians show the largest percentage increase, more than doubling from 4,857 to 10,569 during the same period.

PEO, a federally-funded desegregation assistance center, undertook the study so that it could "provide Michigan school districts with both an impetus and an accurate data base for further reducing racial isolation."

One of the key implications of the study is for hiring practices. The PEO notes that while school staff members have increased in all racial categories, minority staff members still do not approach the percentage of minority students in the state.

For example, black staff had increased by 1,604 from 1970 to 1975 — a 21.3 per cent increase. But in 1975, they still represented only 9.2 per cent of Michigan's school staff, compared with 14.4 per cent of the student population. White staff members increased by 2,548, but declined proportionately from 91.6 to 90 per cent.

American Indian and Latino staff members showed the largest percentage gains — 144 per cent and 111 per cent, respectively. But their actual numbers are still small: 122 American Indians and 395 Latinos.

Berrien Students Honored

KALAMAZOO — Two students from southwestern Michigan attending Western Michigan university here have been designated "Distinguished Senior Scholarship" honorees for winter semester by the WMU scholarship committee.

Named were Nancy L. Trowbridge, daughter of Mrs. Julia L. Trowbridge, 337 East Britain avenue, Benton Harbor, and Sharon Johnson, daughter of Mrs. Phyllis Johnson, 4939 Roosevelt road, Stevensville. A total of 33 students received recognition based on their overall grade point average of a minimum of 3.5 (4.0 is straight A's) and extracurricular activities.

Health News... INSOMNIACS CAN SLEEP SOUNDLY

"If I could only sleep!" This statement is sufficient most of the time to stamp a case of "Insomnia" and with it the train of other symptoms that follow.

According to Dr. Vince Ackerman of The Ackerman Chiropractic Center, insomnia is basically a condition which prevents the nervous system from relaxing.

"While several pressures on nerves can produce insomnia," says Dr. Ackerman, "usually the condition is one of long standing. What generally happens," he states, "is that a person starts building to a severe case of insomnia. First there are occasional restless, sleepless nights. Then the problem begins to compound itself. A person begins to be worn out during the day thus finding his work harder and harder to accomplish. This in itself exerts further nerve pressure and sleep becomes more difficult, insomnia more prevalent."

"Of course," adds Dr. Ackerman, "the general health is affected by the lack of sleep, tense daytime activity, etc. An insomniac has a brutal path ahead of him unless he has the original cause of his troubles corrected."

Dr. Ackerman does not advocate sleep producing drugs in most cases. "After all," he says, "they are generally habit forming and addiction brings a tolerance as often as not." In other words, persons who take sleeping tablets are usually only avoiding the inevitable.

"It's really a heartening experience to aid the person who suffers from severe and repeated attacks of insomnia. Their lives always seem to change dramatically, once their vitality has been restored through proper sleep," the Doctor relates.

"We look to the basic cause of the nervous tension that produces sleeplessness," says Dr. Ackerman. "And in correcting the cause of the nervousness, not only is sleep a desirable end, but also the sufferer finds his wakefulness a pleasure. Vim and vigor during the day is generally as important as rest during the night."

"And don't forget," says Dr. Ackerman, "when a person can kick the drug habit he rids himself of the after-effects and so important to many, the cost of the potents."

Dr. Ackerman urges insomniacs, both those suffering from current acute cases, and others who through nervous tension and other symptoms are building to real problems, to visit him at his modern Chiropractic office.

The Coleridge poem on sleep has a special meaning for many. "Ah sleep, it is a gentle thing, beloved from pole to pole..." is a dream of so many unfortunate people. Dr. Ackerman hopes he will have a chance to aid those who desire "sleep to creep into their souls..."

"Maybe they should stop day-dreaming about their problem and call on us for help," he says.

Dr. Ackerman maintains offices at 3918 Red Arrow Hwy. St. Joseph (Telephone 429-1700.)

School Men Will Attend Workshop

Fifty-five school administrators from 10 school districts and colleges in Berrien, Cass and Van Buren counties will be attending a workshop Wednesday at St. Joseph North Lincoln elementary school, according to Burton Aldrich, St. Joseph superintendent of schools.

Dr. Dean Speicher, superintendent of a suburban Mishawaka school district, will conduct the workshop titled "Performance-based Evaluation of Instructional Personnel." He is a nationally known consultant in evaluation methods for teachers.

The workshop is the first in a series of seminars for area principals and superintendents sponsored by the St. Joseph and Lakeshore school districts, Aldrich said.

BERRIEN SPRINGS — The southwestern Michigan conference on educational leadership will be held at Andrews university here Wednesday, Feb. 4, according to Dr. Rudolf E. Klimes, AU educational administration professor and conference coordinator.

Featured speaker will be Dr.

Ronald Kapp, provost of Alma college in Alma, and president of the Michigan academy of science, arts and letters. He will speak on the topic "Bridging Secondary and Higher Education." All area educators are invited.

The regular monthly session of the Berrien-Cass school administrators association will be held in conjunction with the conference from 1:45 to 2:45 p.m.

Other guest speakers include Dr. James Lehman, Lake Michigan college president, and Dr. Lyndon G. Furst, associate director of the center for studies and services in education at Andrews.

Dr. Lehman will speak on "The Administrator as Educational Coach," and Dr. Furst will discuss "Administrative Counseling."

The educational leadership conference is jointly sponsored by the education section of the Michigan academy of science, arts, and letters; the Berrien-Cass school administrators association; and the center for studies and services in education at Andrews.

The conference will be held in the Wolverine room of the campus center from 10:30 a.m. to 2:45 p.m. Area educational personnel planning to attend should preregister by contacting Dr. Klimes at Andrews.

Soviets In Financial Pinch?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union may be facing a severe financial pinch because of huge grain imports, including about $2 billion worth from the United States, an Agriculture Department specialist said today. Judith Goldich of the department's Economic Research Service said Russia has sold large quantities of gold during the past two years to help finance imports, including other commodities and products as well as grain.

Reagan Supporters Keeping Low Profile In Michigan

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer
DEARBORN, Mich. (AP) — Michigan stands to have a presidential primary virtually uncontested on the Republican side, unless activity on behalf of Ronald Reagan picks up.

GOP officials attending the Midwest Republican Leadership Conference over the weekend agreed there was no organized effort to mount a Reagan campaign in Michigan, at least not yet.

Many agreed President Ford would have little trouble in carrying most or all of the 84 delegates from his home state.

Reagan's supporters were notable by their absence—or low profile, at least—at the convention, which turned into a giant rally for Ford's election.

Reagan declined to appear, and campaign manager John

Sears also failed to show up—leaving a seminar on presidential campaigns in the hands of a lower aide.

A Reagan reception drew a crowd Saturday night at the end of the convention, but there was no competing event at the time.

Many Republicans attributed the lack of a Reagan organization in Michigan to two things—Reagan's need to concentrate on early primaries in New Hampshire and Florida, and the strength Ford has in the Midwest and especially Michigan—where he can call on old friends for favors.

Michigan's May 18 primary is so far away, Republican insiders said, that the campaign picture is clouded thoroughly. Reagan might be out of the race by then—or, with victories in the early going, might change his mind and mount a challenge to Ford on his own turf.

Charles Black, a Reagan representative, said his camp has not made "any definite decision on this primary—it comes a little late. We don't have any formal campaign organization, and the fact that Michigan is Ford's home state is a consideration."

State Sen. Robert VanderLaan said "the assumption is that Ford will carry Michigan handily."

But this doesn't mean that Ford can ignore the state, he added.

"They had to show the convention that Michigan is solidly behind Ford," he said. "The lack of an organization and campaign would be criticized by the media."

Sen. Robert Davis of Gaylord said Reagan would be foolish to make a concerted effort in Michigan.

"It's silly to come into a President's home state," he observed.

"My guess is that Reagan's decided to go after the early primary states," said state GOP Chairman William McLaughlin.

"If I were running the Reagan campaign, I wouldn't zero in on Michigan."

He said there was virtually no sign of organized support or activity on Reagan's behalf.

Others pointed out the lack of such activity and support extended to the other Midwest states which sent delegations-—not just Michigan. Some said Reagan will have a tough time getting a toe-hold in the "Ford Country" of the Midwest, if he's still in the race.

SMC Offering Creative Skills Courses

DOWAGIAC — Three community service courses offered by Southwestern Michigan college this spring semester will give instruction in leisure time creative skills.

Marking Tools Available In Coloma

COLOMA — Two engraving tools are available at the Coloma police department for city residents to use in marking their valuable possessions for identification purposes, according to Kenneth Unruh, police chief.

Unruh said a $10 deposit is required when either of the tools is loaned out and the deposit will be returned when the engraving tool is returned.

The tools were donated to the department by Tala Insurance Agency, Unruh said. Marked items such as bicycles, and other metal objects, help deter thefts and in the case of a theft, are more easily identified if recovered.

'Pot' Bill May Spice Up Legislature's Week

By MARY STEVENSON
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Debate on marijuana penalties, auto repair, girl baseball players and Detroit's city income tax could come up this week in the Michigan House.

A bill allowing girls to play on interscholastic public school baseball teams is in position for a final vote. The bill, sponsored by Rep. Gary Owen, D-Ypsilanti, adds baseball to a list of noncontact sports girls in public schools can play.

But the bill expected to draw some of the more heated arguments this week is Rep. William Bryant's proposal to limit penalties for possession of small amounts of marijuana to a $100 fine and possible probation.

The Grosse Pointe Republican's measure would drop the current maximum of one year in jail for possession of any amount of marijuana. That would be replaced by the $100 fine and possible probation for possession of under 100 grams of the weed — or about 3½ ounces.

Holding more than that amount would be punished by a maximum 90-day sentence under the bill.

Possession with intent to sell would remain a felony carrying up to four years in jail. Some legislators have already indicated they think 3½ ounces is so much marijuana that persons possessing that amount should not be set free.

Another measure that has already bogged down in heated debate is a bill requiring all Michigan auto mechanics to be licensed by 1981.

There are proposed amendments pending that would write in various exemptions to the requirement.

Q: What ever happened to the handsome couple who played husband and wife in that lion picture, "Born Free," about 10 years ago? — I.N., Greeley, Colo.

VIRGINIA & BILL

A: They were Virginia McKenna and Bill Travers, who in real life have been married for 19 years. She was one of Britain's top stars at the time but slowed down a bit to raise four children and has now returned to the stage. Travers, a classical actor, has switched to producing nature films. We don't know what happened to Elsa, the lion.

Q: It's so good to see Margaret Hamilton again even if it's just doing those Maxwell House coffee commercials on TV. Will she do any more movies? — J.D., Newark, N.J.

A: Hopefully so, but right now the character actress is ill in a New York hospital.

MARGARET HAMILTON

Q: Has the mystery of Kung Fu star Bruce Lee's death ever been cleared up? — H.G., St. Louis, Mo.

A: Bruce Lee died a couple of years ago in the bedroom of actress Betty Ping Pei. One version has it that the rugged actor took a lethal dose of pills after making love to Ms. Pei. But now Ms. Pei herself has made a film called "Lover" in which she claims to show what really happened. In the movie their relationship is depicted as platonic, out of respect for Lee's wife and children, and Bruce dies of natural causes after an innocent bit of rough-house in the bedroom.

Q: Where is this place in Brazil where they claim miraculous cures for drug addiction? — H.V., Cherry Hill, N.J.

A: There is a shrine in the Brazilian village of Porto das

Caixas where miraculous cures have been reported since a day in 1968 when real blood is said to have oozed from a statue of Christ in the local church. Pilgrims come by bus daily and many claim to have been healed of cancer, paralysis and blindness. Recently the shrine has been visited by an increasing number of drug users as word has spread that the statue has miraculous powers to help the addicted "kick the habit."

'Pot' Bill May Spice Up Legislature's Week

By MARY STEVENSON
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Debate on marijuana penalties, auto repair, girl baseball players and Detroit's city income tax could come up this week in the Michigan House.

A bill allowing girls to play on interscholastic public school basketball teams is in position for a final vote. The bill, sponsored by Rep. Gary Owen, D-Ypsilanti, adds baseball to a list of noncontact sports girls in public schools can play.

But the bill expected to draw some of the more heated arguments this week is Rep. William Bryant's proposal to limit penalties for possession of small amounts of marijuana to a $100 fine and possible probation.

The Grosse Pointe Republican's measure would drop the current maximum of one year in jail for possession of any amount of marijuana. That would be replaced by the $100 fine and possible probation for possession of under 100 grams of the weed — or about 3½ ounces.

Holding more than that amount would be punished by a maximum 90-day sentence under the bill.

Possession with intent to sell would remain a felony carrying up to four years in jail.

Some legislators have already indicated they think 3½ ounces is so much marijuana that persons possessing that amount should not be set free.

Another measure that has already bogged down in heated debate is a bill requiring all Michigan auto mechanics to be licensed by 1981.

There are proposed amendments pending that would write in various exemptions to the requirement.

Also, lawmakers can't agree on the waiver position. The bill as sent from the Senate allows consumers to waive written estimates for work costing less than $50.

The House Consumers' Committee amended the bill to delete the $50 figure so that consumers could waive an estimate for work costing less than any figure they chose. For instance, a customer could tell a mechanic not to bother with an estimate as long as the work wasn't going to cost more than $80, or $10, or $5.

That amendment was killed on the floor but its backers would like to see it back in.

Also scheduled for possible discussion is a bill increasing Detroit city taxes for residents and non-residents.

The measure, sponsored by Rep. George Montgomery, D-Detroit, would raise city taxes on suburbanites working in Detroit from one-half percent to 1.5 per cent for three years. City residents would pay 3 per cent of their income for that time instead of the current 2 per cent.

The Senate, meanwhile, has little business of a pressing nature. The chamber passed two bills last week to help avert a budget deficit and delayed controversial measures on covering trucks and pricing goods until next week.

The wrong exposure

Waggoner Wasn't 'Dropped'

Q: I've written everybody but can't get an answer to my question. Why was Lyle Waggoner dropped from the Carol Burnett TV show? — D.K., Lake Charles, La.

EIGHT INJURED: A chain-reaction accident involving 18 vehicles on I-196 north of South Haven in Allegan county's Casco township last night injured eight people, state police at South Haven said. Many vehicles involved in crash were pulling snowmobiles on trailers as seen in photo. Police said no tickets were issued as highway was snow covered and visibility poor at time of accident. (Tom Renner photo)

'Chain' Crash Hurts 8 On I-196

By TOM RENNER
SOUTH HAVEN Correspondent
SOUTH HAVEN — A chain-reaction accident involving 18 vehicles on I-196 north of here last night injured eight people, according to state police from South Haven.

Two people remained hospitalized today at South Haven Community Hospital.

Police believe a semi-trailer truck that started the 6 p.m. crash did not stop. James Vinson, 41, of Gary, Ind. said his car was sideswiped by a semi in the southbound lane of I-196 between the Glenn and Pullman exits, about seven miles north of South Haven, in Casco township of Allegan county.

Vinson said the semi continued on its way while his car spun around and hit a car driven by James Smith, Jr., 20, also of Gary, Ind. That collision set off a chain-reaction involving 12 more cars, a bus converted into a camper and two semi-trucks.

Traffic was rerouted off I-196 for approximately an hour while wreckers from South Haven and Fennville cleared the roadway. Many of the vehicles involved in the crash were pulling snowmobile trailers, according to police.

One of the people admitted to the South Haven hospital, James Overall, 52, of Chicago, was struck by one of the semi-trailers as he attempted to flag down traffic. Overall had not been involved in the accident, but stopped to give assistance. He was listed in fairly good condition with a broken leg.

Also listed in fairly good condition today was Miriam Bassett, 49, of Wheeling, Ill. She suffered back, head and arm injuries.

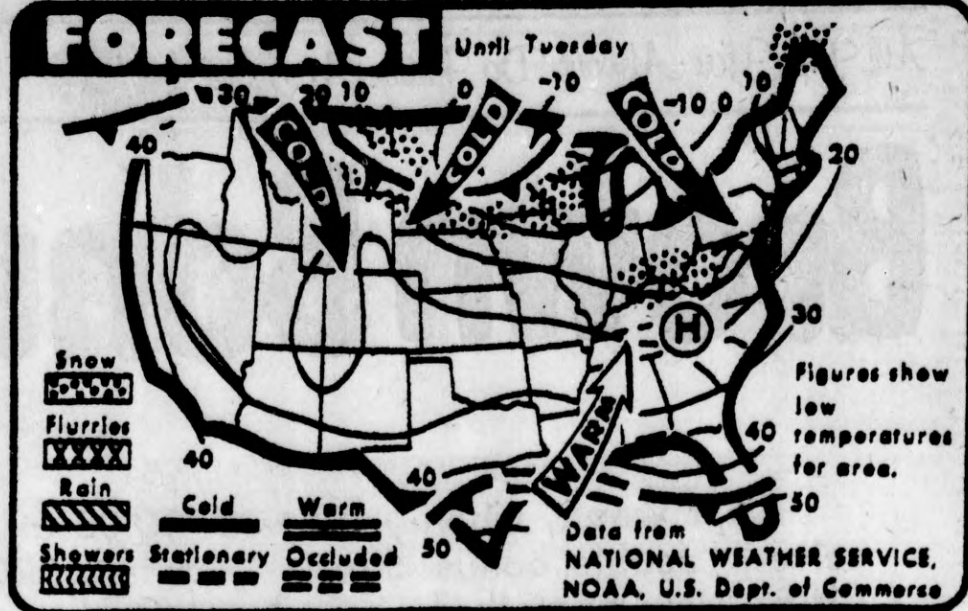

The rest of the injured were either released after treatment at the South Haven hospital or said they would seek medical attention from personal physicians.

The injured were taken to the South Haven hospital by ambulances from South Haven township, and South Haven, Covert and Bangor fire departments. The Casco fire department also assisted.

Identified as drivers of vehicles involved in the accident were John J. Terry, Sr., 49, Arlington Heights, Ill.; Carmen Colella, age unknown, Stevensville; Thomas Murphy, 43, Oak Lawn, Ill.; Elaine Runkle, 41, Palos Park, Ill.; Willis Riddell, 43, Grand Rapids; Lee Perry, 36, Oak Lawn, Ill.

Also, Donald Boyce, 46, Valparaiso, Ind.; Edward Spevacek, 56, Berwyn, Ill.; Robert Reynolds, 35, Lansing, Ill.; David Work, 35, Wheaton, Ill.; John Raterink, 40, Comstock Park; Richard Potter, 48, Dyersville, Iowa; Harold Redding, 33, Calumet City, Ill.; and Roger Johnson, 38, Chicago.

Police said no tickets were issued. The highway was snow covered and visibility was poor at the time of the accident, according to police.

TODAY'S WEATHER MAP: Snow is predicted until Tuesday for northern Maine, the Midwest and for a region extending from the Great Lakes to Montana. It will be cold in the northern portion of the nation and warm from the Gulf to the middle Atlantic states. (AP Wirephoto)

DEATHS AND FUNERALS.

J. Benson Ball, Retired I & M, Manager, Dies

J. BENSON BALL

J. Benson Ball, former Benton Harbor district manager of Indiana & Michigan Electric Company, died Sunday at LaJolla, Calif., where he had been living in retirement since 1965.

Mr. Ball, 74, was with I&M in Benton Harbor from 1934 to 1948, the last nine years as district manager. He became manager of the South Bend division in 1948.

Mrs. Myrtle Brown

BERRIEN SPRINGS — Mrs. Myrtle Catherine Brown, 100, 2406 Lemon Creek road, Berrien Springs, died at 9:20 p.m. Sunday in Berrien General hospital, Berrien Center, following a short illness.

She was born July 31, 1875 in Washington county, Iowa. She had resided in Berrien Springs since 1966, coming to make her home with a daughter, Mrs.

Henry Nelson, Berrien Springs. Her husband, Jacob F. Brown, preceded her in death in 1953.

Surviving besides Mrs. Nelson are another daughter, Mrs. Jessie Samples, Berrien Springs and four sons, Judson, Milton, Oreg., Ben, Calimesa, Calif., Ransome, Mitchell, Nebr., and Carnott of Riverside, Calif., and a sister, Mrs. Elva Mae Bartlett, Fresno, Calif.

Funeral services will be held at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the Paul E. Mayhew funeral home, Berrien Springs, where friends may call from 2 until 9 p.m. Tuesday. Graveside rites will be held Wednesday afternoon in Lenox cemetery, Lenox, Iowa.

William Rickard

EAU CLAIRE — William Leonard Rickard, 89, of Bry-Fern Rest Home, Eau Claire, died Sunday afternoon at Berrien General hospital, Berrien Center.

He was born Dec. 17, 1886, in Philadelphia, Pa.

A niece, Mrs. Leo (Shirley) Harasewicz, Dowagiac, with whom he resided before entering the Bry-Fern Rest Home, survives.

Friends may call at the Bowerman funeral home, Eau Claire, from 4 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. today. There will be no funeral service. Cremation will be Tuesday.

Alex McGough

BUCHANAN — Alex McGough, 76, 313 Elizabeth street, Buchanan, died at 11:20 a.m. Saturday in Berrien General hospital, Berrien Center.

He was born March 27, 1899, in Missouri and came to the Buchanan area, from Missouri, in 1942. Mr. McGough retired from Clark Equipment Company in 1960.

Surviving are two stepdaughters, Miss Annie Bell Montgomery and Mrs. Rosa Lee Leslie, both of Benton Harbor. His wife Leanna preceded him in death.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a.m. Wednesday in the Swem-Smith funeral home, Buchanan, where friends may call after 7 p.m. Tuesday. Burial will be in Oak Ridge cemetery.

was restored after about three hours.

Some 10,000-12,000 persons were reported affected by the outage as temperatures in the area dove to as low as minus 28. Other residents in the area were not affected as they are served by another utility.

There were no reports that the cold, coupled with the power outage, caused any serious problems.

Some mild relief was predicted for today, with highs across the state expected to inch up to between zero and the mid teens. Lows tonight were expected to stay in the zero to 10 above range.

The cold came on the heels of a Sunday storm which caused hazardous driving conditions. Three persons were injured on Michigan 53 near Marlette in four smashups involving 16 cars, officials said.

Some people were stranded in cottages in northern Lower Michigan because of drifting snow which was reported as deep as six feet, making roads impassable for light-duty snow plows. However, although State Police reported some back roads were impassable around Reed City and other spots, neither they nor area sheriff's departments reported any calls for assistance.

Stockman Starts Run For Congress

brooding Big Mother in Washington who attempts to protect us even from the unavoidable daily scrapers and minor mishaps that we have always cared for ourselves.

Fortunately, the American people are now recognizing that we have strayed far from the beaten path, and that we are rushing headlong towards a rendezvous with national calamity. But they feel helpless to rechart the course because we have a Congress in Washington which literally flounders while the priceless heritage of two centuries burns.

Yesterday's conservatives have lost so many battles that they no longer expect, let alone aggressively struggle, to win the war.

And Congress as a whole has become little more than a cozy club of careerists, concerned primarily with maintaining their license to feed at the public trough tomorrow instead of fighting for the interests of the public today.

I am running for Congress because I deeply share the public's alarm about where we are heading as a nation. I seek this office because for five years I watched from the inside as Congress drifted, temporized, passed the buck and conducted business as usual while the crisis only worsened. That experience convinced me that yesterday's politicians cannot spare us from the impending disaster. This includes yesterday's conservatives, too — no matter how strong their protestations of innocence.

For they have had their chance, and they have failed. They have been afforded numerous opportunities to lead the nation back on a sensible course but rather than seizing the opportunity they have been asleep at the switch or have made endless excuses.

I think the voters of the District are tired of excuses. They want aggressive action and constructive solutions.

I do not buy nor do the voters of the district, the argument, that we are outnumbered, outgunned, and doomed to perpetual defeat. I think we need only commit ourselves to working harder, devising better answers, and communicating our message more persuasively.

The national agenda is clear. We need to do nothing less than anesthetize the sprawling Federal octopus, lay it on the operating table and undertake a decade of sustained, unrelenting surgery.

We must start by overhauling from top to bottom a runaway welfare system that is destroying families, eroding the work ethic, and crushing the taxpayers.

We need to abolish or drastically curtail those encrusted regulatory agencies like the ICC which have become a haven for special interest favoritism and privileges rather than a watchdog of the public interest.

We need to launch a relentless campaign against waste and stupidity in the Federal bureaucracy and drastically reform a civil service

In two other accidents Saturday: Stanley E. Morgan, 20, of 194 Seneca road, Fairplain, was injured about 9:05 p.m. Saturday, when an auto he was driving went off I-94 and struck a guard rail and concrete abutment to the Park road overpass in Coloma township, reported state police at the Benton Harbor post. The post said Morgan was treated at Memorial hospital. No summonses were issued, the post reported.

St. Joseph police said two people were injured about 10:35 a.m. Saturday, in a two-car collision at Broad and Wayne streets. Treated at Memorial hospital was a driver, Reneau Ann Klemchen, 24, of 604 West John Beers road, Stevensville. Also reported injured, but declining treatment, was the other driver, George J. Keller, 25, of Box 341-B Riverside road, Route 3, Benton Harbor. Police said Reneau Klemchen was ticketed for failure to yield the right of way.

EIGHT INJURED: A chain-reaction accident involving 18 vehicles on I-196 north of South Haven in Allegan county's Casco township last night injured eight people, state police at South Haven said. Many vehicles involved in crash were pulling snowmobiles on trailers as seen in photo. Police said no tickets were issued as highway was snow covered and visibility poor at time of accident. (Tom Renner photo)

'Chain' Crash Hurts 8 On I-196

By TOM RENNER
South Haven Correspondent
SOUTH HAVEN — A chain-reaction accident involving 18 vehicles on I-196 north of here last night injured eight people, according to state police from South Haven.

Two people remained hospitalized today at South Haven Community Hospital.

Police believe a semi-trailer truck that started the 6 p.m. crash did not stop. James Vinson, 41, of Gary, Ind., said his car was sideswiped by a semi in the southbound lane of I-196 between the Glenn and Pullman exits, about seven miles north of South Haven, in Casco township of Allegan county.

Vinson said the semi continued on its way while the car spun around and hit a car driven by James Smith, Jr., 20, also of Gary, Ind. That collision set off a chain-reaction involving 12 more cars, a bus converted into a camper and two semi-trucks.

Traffic was rerouted off I-196 for approximately an hour while wrecker from South Haven and Fennville cleared the roadway. Many of the vehicles involved in the crash were pulling snowmobile trailers, according to police.

One of the people admitted to the South Haven hospital, James Overall, 52, of Chicago, was struck by one of the semi-trailers as he attempted to flag down traffic. Overall had not been involved in the accident, but stopped to give assistance. He was listed in fairly good condition with a broken leg.

Also listed in fairly good condition today was Miriam Bassett, 49, of Wheeling, Ill. She suffered back, head and arm injuries.

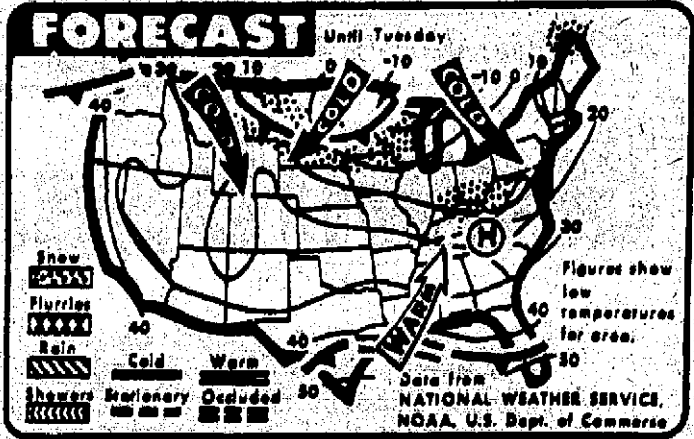

The rest of the injured were either released after treatment at the South Haven hospital or said they would seek medical attention from personal physicians.

The injured were taken to the South Haven hospital by ambulances from South Haven township, and South Haven, Covert and Bangor fire departments. The Casco fire department also assisted.

Identified as drivers of vehicles involved in the accident were John J. Terry, Sr., 49, Arlington Heights, Ill.; Carmen Colletta, age unknown, Stevensville; Thomas Murphy, 43, Oak Lawn, Ill.; Elaine Runkle, 41; Palos Park, Ill.; Willis Riddell, 43, Grand Rapids; Leo Perry, 38, Oak Lawn, Ill.

Also, Donald Boyce, 46, Valparaiso, Ind.; Edward Spiveck, 56, Berwyn, Ill.; Robert Reynolds, 35, Lansing, Ill.; David Work, 35, Wheaton, Ill.; John Materink, 40, Comstock Park; Richard Potter, 48, Dyersville, Iowa; Harold Redding, 33, Calumet City, Ill.; and Roger Johnson, 38, Chicago.

Police said no tickets were issued. The highway was snow covered and visibility was poor at the time of the accident, according to police.

TODAY'S WEATHER MAP: Snow is predicted until Tuesday for northern Maine, the Midwest and for a region extending from the Great Lakes to Montana. It will be cold in the northern portion of the nation and warm from the Gulf to the middle Atlantic states. (AP Wirephoto)

The cold came on the heels of a Sunday storm which caused hazardous driving conditions. Three persons were injured in Michigan 83 near Marlette in four smashups involving 16 cars, officials said.

Some people were stranded in cottages in northern Lower Michigan because of drifting snow which was reported as deep as six feet, making roads impassable for light-duty snow plows. However, although State Police reported some back roads were impassable around Reed City and other spots, neither they nor area sheriff's departments reported any calls for assistance.

Johannis Path First Controversy Of Winter Olympics

INNSBRUCK, Austria (AP) — In the pleasant Alpine summer, Austrian peasants carry hay, timber and other goods up for-bidding Patscherkofel Mountain by way of a narrow track called the Johannis path.

In the frigid winter of 1976, that path became the first controversy of the Winter Olympics.

The Johannis path just happens to traverse the 3,145-meter men's downhill ski run, a few hundred yards from the finish line.

On Sunday, it sent two expert skiers out of control. Austria's famed Franz Klammer almost fell. He has won four downhill races so far this season and is favored to take the gold medal in the Olympics, which begin Wednesday.

"Dangerous," "dreadful" and "upsetting" were some of the remarks of the skiers after the spills. They expected problems in the "ox clearing," a steep slope where the course is cut out of the woods. At the "ox clearing," the race jury decided Sunday to space two compulsory gates farther apart to slow skiers somewhat and reduce chances of a fall.

Nobody thought about the Johannis path. It offered a sharp bump because it is cut horizontally across the downhill path.

"I was whirling my arms like a bird whirling his wings to avoid a fall," said Klammer. "I came close to hitting the snow." He was leaning backwards and sitting on the ends of his skis before correcting his position.

Dave Irwin of Canada and Switzerland's Rene Berthod were not so lucky. Irwin spilled and was thrown into a pile of straw at the side of the course. Berthod tumbled at the same spot. Neither was injured.

Officials immediately radioed to the top of the slope and warned other skiers to beware of the spot.

"I knew it would be difficult, but I didn't think it would be quite that bad," said defending Olympic champion Bernard Russi of Switzerland. "Even though I cut my speed, I ran into trouble." But he avoided a fall.

At that point on the course, racers can be going 75 miles per hour or more. Race officials announced that the Johannis path would be filled with snow for Monday's training runs so that there would be no more accidents.

It was a curious twist, because Olympic officials have come under some criticism for extensive safety measures on the dangerous downhill course. The Austrian team wants as clear a run as possible to make the best time.

For Canada's Irwin it could have been a close call. Only Friday he was given approval by a doctor to resume practice after recovering from a concussion and a broken rib suffered Jan. 10 when he crashed on a downhill run at Wengen, Switzerland. Fortunately, he hit nothing but straw when he fell

Sunday.

The stock of the U.S. team went up considerably over the weekend after a very strong showing by the speed skaters in the international speed skating championships in Davos, Switzerland.

They were to arrive triumphantly in Innsbruck today after Sheila Young of Detroit set a world record of 40.91 seconds for the 500-meter race and Leah Poulos of Northbrook, Ill., won the 1,500-meter event in 2:13.98, a U.S. national record. Her fiancé, Peter Mueller of Mequon, Wis., won the men's 500 meters in 38.48 seconds and Dan Carroll of St. Louis finished second to Hans van Helden of The Netherlands in the 1,500-meter race. Van Helden clocked 1:59.38 and Carroll 1:59.77.

Nancy Swider of Park Ridge, Ill., made the women's 1,500 meters a U.S. sweep by finishing third behind Miss Poulos and Miss Young.

Bertl Neumann, press chief of the Innsbruck organizing committee, issued a statement Sunday saying a flood of records can be expected in Olympic speed skating because the new skating outfits "contain an aerodynamic property which is better than any used before."

He attributed the showing of Miss Young and Miss Poulos to "a frog suit made of a so-far secret NASA material." U.S. Olympic Committee officials said they had no knowledge of such suits and the speed skating team, enroute from Switzerland, was not available for comment.

The speed skaters and figure skater Dorothy Hamill of Riverside, Conn., appear to be the best U.S. hopes for top medals. Miss Hamill arrived here Sunday from Garmisch, West Germany, where she has been training. She canceled a scheduled news conference and a USOC official said she was tired but not ill. Later, a team official said she had a cold.

Although the opening ceremony is not until Wednesday, the 12 hockey teams started on their way to medals or oblivion today.

In a two-day preliminary round, six teams will be selected to compete for the gold, silver and bronze medals after the Games get under way. The other six teams will play in a losers' bracket and will not be eligible for medals.

In today's action, Poland was favored over Romania, Czechoslovakia over Bulgaria and West Germany over Switzerland.

Tuesday, the heavily favored Russians should beat Austria, the United States is expected to defeat Yugoslavia and Japan is favored over Finland.

Second Half Lancer Problems Continue

St. Joe Dumps Lakeshore

By JOHN VANDEN HEDEDE

Lakeshore coach Lloyd MacTavish found something beneficial in Saturday night's 77-55 loss to St. Joseph... the reason for the Lancers' continuing second half problems.

"It came to me tonight," declared MacTavish in the locker room of the St. Joe gym after watching his team fall apart again in the second half. "It's mental breakdowns."

The Lancer coach said he had considered "emotional and physical" reasons for recent second half collapses, but narrowed it down to "mental" after watching his team let a three-point halftime deficit balloon to a 22-point humiliation.

"We thought we had been standing around too much in the third quarter," continued MacTavish, "so we decided to use a full court press. But we had mental breakdowns. We'd have two or three pressing, but never all five."

The result was St. Joe taking a 32-29 halftime lead and building it into a 58-39 advantage after three periods and eventually to the 77-55 non-league triumph in the spirited neighborhood rivalry.

St. Joseph, which also blitzed Lakeshore 68-45 in its season opener, upped its record to 10-4 while getting 17 points from Cory Benford, 14 from Dave Ziebart and 11 from Henry Follman.

Mike Mason and Jim Porter had 18 apiece for Lakeshore, now 2-13 this season.

"Mason has played well the last three games," declared MacTavish. "We were penetrating and opening him up inside. I also thought Porter played a good last quarter (10 points)."

But leading Lancer scorer Tom Jager was limited to just two points while being defended by Follman.

St. Joe coach George Gaunder also praised the work of Ziebart on Lancer Craig Shafer, who scored 19 against the Bears the first time but got just two Saturday night. "Z said he'd take him," noted the Bear mentor, "and indeed he did."

Lakeshore opened the game with a 6-2 lead, and there were five ties before St. Joe went in front for good at 14-12 on a basket by Benford.

"Lakeshore did a good job in the first half," continued Gaunder. "They surprised me by playing a man-to-man defense, and it hampered our offense."

For whatever the reason, things went St. Joe's way the second half. The Bears hit 12 of 17 field goals in the third quarter, and when the Lancers fouled while trying to catch up, the winners meshed 15 of 17 free throws in the fourth period.

St. Joe ended up making 26 of 59 field goals (44 per cent), including six of 10 by Ziebart, five of seven by Follman and six of 13 by Benford.

Lakeshore finished at 23 for 53 from the floor (43 per cent), including nine of 15 by Mason, who was five for five the first quarter.

The Bears meshed a deadly 25 of 31 free throws (81 per cent) while the Lancers hit nine of 13 (69 per cent).

St. Joe posted a 38 to 32 rebounding edge, with reserve Ted Dongvillo taking game honors with seven. The Bears had 25 turnovers and the Lancers 31.

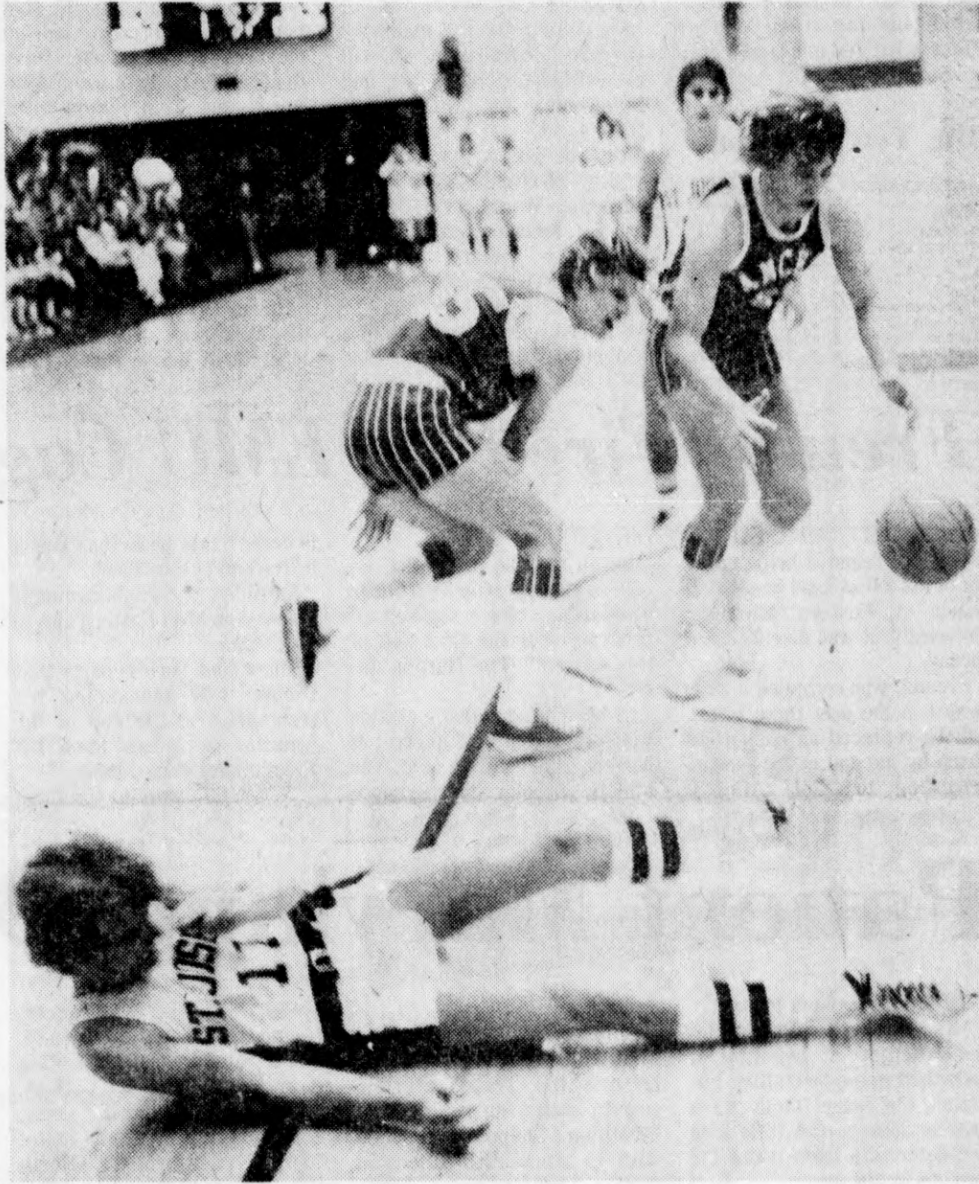

Lakeshore also lost three starters on fouls in the fourth quarter.

St. Joseph won the junior varsity preliminary 65-43 while getting 13 points from Mike Thumm, 12 from Greg Zuhl and 10 from Steve Ziebart. Odell Brister netted 13 for the little Lancers.

Tigers Lose In Triple OT 21-Point Fourth Quarter Lead Blown

SOUTH BEND — Benton Harbor coach Earl McKee just shook his head in utter disbelief.

"We should have won going away," he said.

But instead McKee's Benton Harbor Tigers had lost an incredible 97-92 triple overtime thriller to South Bend Washington here Saturday night after leading by as many as 21 points in the fourth quarter.

The loss snapped a five-game Tiger winning streak and dropped the Benton Harbor record to 9-5. Washington is now 7-7.

"We played well for three and a half quarters," McKee said. "We were running the offense pretty well and were doing things right. The defense was doing the job. I just don't know what happened."

McKee was not the only person who felt the game was wrapped up. Washington coach Subby Nowicki actually cleared his bench after Benton Harbor had taken a commanding 65-44 lead with less than six minutes to play.

"We didn't do the job as a team, it's as simple as that," McKee said. "I don't want to knock any one individual. Losing the game is a hard blow but it wasn't a conference game so we didn't really lose anything. We still have a chance to re-group the team for tournaments. Really if we were going to lose a game, this was the one to lose.

"It's kinda rough to lose a game like this. I hope we can use it to our advantage. That's two nights in a row that we've blown a big lead. I hope we can use it to point out to the kids that they have to keep their concentration all the way through. If we want to be a good team, we can't let up."

Russell Steele poured in 33 points, including 11 in the third quarter and eight in the fourth, to lead all scorers for the Tigers. Bennie Bowers added 18 and Ray Thompson 17 for Benton Harbor.

Mel Carpenter tossed in 28 and Ken Butler added 26 for Washington. It was Butler who broke loose for 14 points in three overtimes.

Two key plays helped turn the game around and both oddly enough involved fouls. With the Benton Harbor lead at 66-51 and a little more than five minutes left, Steele was fouled in the act of shooting and the Panthers were also hit with a technical foul on top of that. Steele hit on all three free throws to boost the edge back to 69-51, but the technical seemed to fire Washington up. Moments later with just 4:18 left to play, Bowers was whistled for his fifth personal foul and it was all down hill for the Tigers after that.

Washington finally caught Benton Harbor in the final 10 seconds of regulation play. Carpenter passed to Dennis Patton, who was all alone under the bucket, and the scrappy little guard layed it in to tie the game at 75-75 and send it into the first extra period.

Steele and Albert Watson quickly gave the Tigers a 79-75 lead in the first overtime, but two baskets by Butler, the last with just 10 seconds left, tied it at 79-79 and sent the game into a second overtime.

Benton Harbor again grabbed a quick four-point lead in the second overtime. Three baskets by Thompson and another by Steele offset three buckets by Butler and left the Tigers with an 87-85 edge. A missed shot by Carpenter with just seven seconds left was rebounded by Steele. But the 6-4 senior tried a center line pass, Butler picked it off and banked in a 20-footer at the buzzer to again knot the score.

Butler scored a quick basket to open the third overtime and Benton Harbor never caught up. The Tigers went cold in the final extra period, hitting just one of eight from the floor to finish with 42 of 79 for 53 per cent.

The game was decided at the free throw line where Benton Harbor hit just six of 15 to 13 of 23 for the Panthers.

Mature Ben Takes Hawaiian Open

HONOLULU (AP) — There were two years of struggle, occasional temper tantrums and galling frustration so severe he even considered leaving the tour.

But Ben Crenshaw weathered it. He stuck it out. He worked at his trade.

And, almost three years after he hit the pro golf tour with such incredible impact, he's reached his maturity.

"I think he is coming up on the Ben Crenshaw we were expecting," said Hale Irwin, beaten by Gentle Ben in the stretch drive for the title in the Hawaiian Open. "I think he has realized his maturity. I think he will carry on into the upper levels of the game."

Crenshaw's final round, six-under-par 66 Sunday lifted him to his second consecutive tour title and re-established him as one of the game's brightest young stars — a role he held three years back, then surrendered in his times of struggle.

He won it by a comfortable four strokes with a 270 total, 18 under par and a record on the 7,219-yard Waialae Country Club course. The victory was worth $46,000 from the total purse of $230,000, set him up as the year's leading money-winner with $88,680, put him in the World Series of Golf and made him the first golfer of the season to win consecutive tournaments.

He'd won the Bing Crosby just the week before, following the same come-from-behind formula. In each tournament, he was three shots back going into the final round.

He made up most of that with a front-nine 31, five under par, took the lead to stay with a 12-foot birdie putt on the 10th hole and nailed it down when he picked up four strokes over Irwin in a four-hole stretch starting on the 12th.

Irwin, bothered by a heavy cold all week, finished with a 73 and tied unheralded Larry Nelson for second at 274. Nelson had a last-round 69.

U.S. Open champion Lou Graham, Charles Coody, Al Geiberger and Mike Morley followed at 275. Morley had a closing 66, Graham 68, Coody 69 and Geiberger 71.

Bob Murphy, who shared the lead at times over the first nine holes, bogeyed five of six holes coming home. He finished with a 74 and was tied at 276 with a group that included Lee Trevino, who shot four consecutive 69s. Arnold Palmer, who came so close to victory in this tournament a year ago, never really got in the chase this time. He had a final 71 and 279.

Johannis Path First Controversy Of Winter Olympics

INNSBRUCK, Austria (AP) — In the pleasant Alpine summer, Austrian peasants carry hay, timber and other goods up for bidding Patscherkofel Mountain by way of a narrow track called the Johannis path.

In the frigid winter of 1976, that path became the first controversy of the Winter Olympics.

The Johannis path just happens to traverse the 3,145-meter men's downhill ski run, a few hundred yards from the finish line.

On Sunday, it sent two expert skiers out of control. Austria's famed Franz Klammer almost fell. He has won four downhill races so far this season and is favored to take the gold medal in the Olympics, which begin Wednesday.

"Dangerous," "dreadful" and "unsettling" were some of the remarks of the skiers after the spills. They expected problems in the "ox clearing," a steep slope where the course is cut out of the woods. At the "ox clearing," the race jury decided Sunday to space two compulsory gates farther apart to slow skiers somewhat and reduce chances of a fall.

"Nobody thought about the Johannis path. It offered a sharp bump because it is cut horizontally across the downhill path."

"I was whirling my arms like a bird whirling its wings to avoid a fall," said Klammer. "I came close to hitting the snow." He was leaning backwards and sitting on the ends of his skis before correcting his position.

Dave Irwin of Canada and Switzerland's Rene Berthod were not so lucky. Irwin spilled and was thrown into a pile of straw at the side of the course. Berthod tumbled at the same spot. Neither was injured.

Officials immediately radioed to the top of the slope and warned other skiers to beware of the spot.

"I knew it would be difficult, but I didn't think it would be quite that bad," said defending Olympic champion Bernard Russi of Switzerland. "Even though I cut my speed, I ran into trouble." But he avoided a fall.

At that point on the course, racers can be going 70 miles per hour or more. Race officials announced that the Johannis path would be filled with snow for Monday's training runs so that there would be no more accidents.

It was a curious twist, because Olympic officials have come under some criticism for extensive safety measures on the dangerous downhill course. The Austrian team wants as clear a run as possible to make the best time.

For Canada's Irwin it could have been a close call. Only Friday he was given approval by a doctor to resume practice after recovering from a concussion and a broken rib suffered Jan. 10 when he crashed on a downhill run at Wengen, Switzerland. Fortunately, he hit nothing but straw when he fell

Sunday.

The stock of the U.S. team went up considerably over the weekend after a very strong showing by the speed skaters in the international speed skating championships in Davos, Switzerland.

They were to arrive triumphantly in Innsbruck today after Sheila Young of Detroit set a world record of 40.91 seconds for the 500-meter race and Leah Poulos of Northbrook, Ill., won the 1,500-meter event in 2:13.96, a U.S. national record. Her fiancé, Peter Mueller, of Mequon, Wis., won the men's 500 meters in 38.48 seconds and Dan Carroll of St. Louis finished second to Hans van Helden of The Netherlands in the 1,500-meter race. Van Helden clocked 1:58.38 and Carroll 1:59.77.

Nancy Swider of Park Ridge, Ill., made the women's 1,500 meters a U.S. sweep by finishing third behind Miss Poulos and Miss Young.

Bert Neumann, press chief of the Innsbruck organizing committee, issued a statement Sunday saying a flood of records can be expected in Olympic speed skating because the new skating outfits "contain an aerodynamic property which is better than any used before."

He attributed the showing of Miss Young and Miss Poulos to "a frog suit made of a so-far secret NASA material." U.S. Olympic Committee officials said they had no knowledge of such suits and the speed skating team, enroute from Switzerland, was not available for comment.

The speed skaters and figure skater Dorothy Hamill of Riverside, Conn., appear to be the best U.S. hopes for top medals. Miss Hamill arrived here Sunday from Garmisch, West Germany, where she has been training. She canceled a scheduled news conference and a USOC official said she was tired but not ill. Later, a team official said she had a cold.

Although the opening ceremony is not until Wednesday, the 12 hockey teams started on their way to medals or oblivion today.

In a two-day preliminary round, six teams will be selected to compete for the gold, silver and bronze medals after the Games get under way. The other six teams will play in a losers' bracket and will not be eligible for medals.

In today's action, Poland was favored over Romania, Czechoslovakia over Bulgaria and West Germany over Switzerland.

Tuesday, the heavily favored Russians should beat Austria; the United States is expected to defeat Yugoslavia and Japan is favored over Finland.

Second Half Lancer Problems Continue

St. Joe Dumps Lakeshore

By JOHN VANDEN BEEDE
Sports Editor

Lakeshore coach Lloyd MacTavish found something beneficial in Saturday night's 77-55 loss to St. Joseph, the reason for the Lancers' continuing second half problems.

"It came to me tonight," declared MacTavish in the locker room of the St. Joe gym after watching his team fall apart again in the second half. "It's mental breakdowns."

The Lancer coach said he had considered "emotional and physical" reasons for recent second-half collapses, but narrowed it down to "mental" after watching his team let a three-point halftime deficit balloon to a 22-point humiliation.

"We thought we had been standing around too much in the third quarter," continued MacTavish, "so we decided to use a full court press. But we had mental breakdowns. We'd have two or three pressing, but never all five."

The result was St. Joe taking a 32-28 halftime lead and building it into a 58-39 advantage after three periods and eventually to the 77-55 non-league triumph in the spirited neighborhood rivalry.

St. Joseph, which also blitzed Lakeshore 68-45 in its season opener, upped its record to 10-4 while getting 17 points from Cory Benford, 14 from Dave Ziebart and 11 from Henry Follman.

Mike Mason and Jim Porter had 18 apiece for Lakeshore, now 2-13 this season.

"Mason has played well the last three games," declared MacTavish. "We were penetrating and opening him up inside. I also thought Porter played a good last quarter (19 points)."

But leading Lancer scorer Tom Jager was limited to just two points while being defended by Follman.

St. Joe coach George Gaundier also praised the work of Ziebart on Lancer Craig Shuster, who scored 19 against the Bears the first time but got just two Saturday night. "Z said he'd take him," noted the Bear monitor, "and indeed he did."

Lakeshore opened the game with a 6-2 lead, and there were five ties before St. Joe went in front for good at 14-12 on a basket by Benford.

"Lakeshore did a good job in the first half," continued Gaundier. "They surprised me by playing a man-to-man defense, and it hampered our offense."

For whatever the reason, things went St. Joe's way the second half. The Bears hit 12 of 17 field goals in the third quarter, and when the Lancers fouled while trying to catch up, the winners meshed 15 of 17 free throws in the fourth period.

St. Joe ended up making 28 of 59 field goals (44 per cent), including six of 10 by Ziebart, five of seven by Follman and six of 13 by Benford.

Lakeshore finished at 23 for 53 from the floor (43 per cent), including nine of 15 by Mason, who was five for five the first quarter.

"The Bears meshed a deadly 25 of 31 free throws (81 per cent) while the Lancers hit nine of 13 (69 per cent)."

St. Joe posted a 38 to 32 rebounding edge, with reserve Ted Dongville taking game honors with seven. The Bears had 25 turnovers and the Lancers 31.

Lakeshore also lost three starters on fouls in the fourth quarter.

St. Joseph won the junior varsity preliminary 65-43 while getting 13 points from Mike Thumm, 12 from Greg Zuhl and 10 from Steve Ziebart. Odell Brister netted 13 for the Little Lancers.

Tigers Lose In Triple OT 21-Point Fourth Quarter Lead Blown

SOUTH BEND — Benton Harbor coach Earl McKee just shook his head in utter disbelief.

"We should have won going away," he said.

But instead McKee's Benton Harbor Tigers had lost an incredible 87-82 triple overtime thriller to South Bend, Washington here Saturday night after leading by as many as 21 points in the fourth quarter.

The loss snapped a five-game Tiger winning streak and dropped the Benton Harbor record to 9-5. Washington is now 7-7.

"We played well for three and a half quarters," McKee said. "We were running the offense pretty well and were doing things right. The defense was doing the job. I just don't know what happened."

Mature Ben Takes Hawaiian Open

HONOLULU (AP) — There were two years of struggle, occasional temper tantrums and galling frustration so severe he even considered leaving the tour.

But Ben Crenshaw weathered it. He stuck it out. He worked at his trade.

And, almost three years after he hit the pro golf tour with such incredible impact, he's reached his maturity.

"I think he is coming up on the Ben Crenshaw we were expecting," said Hale Irwin, beaten by Gentle Ben in the stretch drive for the title in the Hawaiian Open. "I think he has realized his maturity. I think he will carry on into the upper levels of the game."

Crenshaw's final round, six-under-par 66 Sunday lifted him to his second consecutive tour title and reestablished him as one of the game's brightest young stars — a role he held three years back, then surrendered in his times of struggle.

He won it by a comfortable four strokes with a 270 total, 18 under par and a record on the 7,219-yard Wai'alae Country Club course. The victory was worth $46,000 from the total purse of $230,000, set him up as the year's leading money-winner with $68,000, put him in the World Series of Golf and made him the first golfer of the season to win consecutive tournaments.

He'd won the Bing Crosby just the week before, following the same come-from-behind formula. In each tournament, he was three shots back going into the final round.

He made up most of that with a front-nine 31, five under par, took the lead to stay with a 12-foot birdie putt on the 10th hole and nailed it down when he picked up four strokes over Irwin in a four-hole stretch starting on the 12th.

Irwin, battered by a heavy cold all week, finished with a 73 and tied unheralded Larry Nelson for second at 274. Nelson had a last-round 69.

U.S. Open champion — Lou Graham, Charles Coody, Al Geiberger and Mike Morley followed at 275. Morley had a closing 66, Graham 68, Coody 69 and Geiberger 71.

Bob Murphy, who shared the lead at times over the first nine holes, bogged five of six holes coming home. He finished with a 74 and was tied at 278 with a group that included Lee Trevino, who shot four consecutive 68s. Arnold Palmer, who came so close to victory in this tournament a year ago, never really got in the chase this time. He had a final 71 and 270.

Knuth Sparks LMC Girls Win

Chris Knuth came through with a season-high 23 points while leading the Lake Michigan College girls to a revenge 56-46 basketball victory over Muskegon Saturday night in the LMC gym.

Deb Schmid added 10 points and Linda Boyd and Knuth had 24 and 12 rebounds, respectively, while reversing an early-season 12-point loss to Muskegon.

LMC led 56-46 at halftime. "Muskegon pressed the whole game, and we were able to go right through the press," declared LMC coach Liz Miller. "We also controlled the boards."

The next game for the LMC girls is Tuesday night at Aquinas College in Grand Rapids.

University in the Mid-American Conference basketball race. Ohio threatened to halt the Broncos' unbeaten season with a 32-31 halftime lead Saturday. Western Michigan, however, recovered in a hurry, burying the Bobcats 75-59 to become 8-0 in the conference and 16-0 for all games. "Our defensive intensity picked up in the second half as did our penetration and game control," said Eldon Miller, the Western Michigan coach.

Dale Bandy, Ohio's mentor, viewed it differently. "Their rebounding margin (46-33) was the difference and they kept us outside the second half," he said. So Ohio's hopes of a conference championship are just about gone. The Bobcats, picked for eighth place, have fallen back into a tie for fourth place with Kent State at 4-3, 34 1/2 games behind the Broncos. Tom Cutter's 16 points and 15 rebounds paced the Broncos.

Chuck Seltzer was high for Ohio with 13 points. Miami remained a single game behind Western Michigan in the standings with an 82-80 verdict over Central Michigan, while Toledo rolled over Northern Illinois, 82-67. Kent State downed Eastern Michigan 87-71, and Ball State topped Bowling Green 77-53. Miami's 6-foot-5 senior Archie Aldridge, moved from guard to center to fill in for the ailing Mike Kearny, chipped in 25 points to help the Redskins record their seventh MAC triumph against one loss. Russ Davis of Central Michigan shared scoring honors with 25 points. Miami Coach Darrell Hedric wasn't enthused with his team's total performance, but said, "We played with intensity when we had to." He welcomed the week's rest the squad will have before going to Bowling Green Saturday.

All five Toledo starters scored in double figures, led by Larry Cole with 20 points, and the team shot a hot 61 per cent from the field in keeping Northern Illinois winless in eight MAC games. The triumph enabled the Rockets to hold onto third place in the league with a 6-2 mark. Junior guard Cortez Brown pumped in 26 points to pace Kent State over Eastern Michigan. Immediately after Eastern saw its conference record drop to 1-7. Coach Al Freund announced his resignation, effective at the end of the season. Mike White held Bowling Green hotshot Tommy Harris to six points and Ball State Coach Jim Holstein said, "This was as well as our big guys did defensively all year. We finally showed a little patience offensively." Bowling Green fell to sixth place at 4-4. "It's hard to tell the Hoosier lead to 1 1/2 games with a victory over Wisconsin. And if Michigan upsets Indiana Saturday, the lead could melt to one-half game. However, an Indiana victory over Michigan Saturday would put an end to any possibilities of anyone catching the Hoosiers if that conclusion has not already been reached. While Michigan takes on Wisconsin, 2-7, Monday night, Iowa and Purdue will match 4-4 records. Northwestern, 4-5, will be at Michigan State, 5-4, and Minnesota, 3-6, will be at Illinois, 4-5. Indiana put on an awesome display of offense Saturday in smashing Wisconsin 114-61. It was a record 28th straight conference victory for the Hoosiers. They wiped out the mark of 27 set by Ohio State in 1962 when Indiana Coach Bobby Knight was a member of that great Buckeye team. Knight used all 13 of his players with 12 reaching the scoring column and All-American Scott May leading the way with 30 points. Michigan also went over the century mark. Coach Johnny Orr also used his bench but for different reasons in a 104-95 victory over Iowa. "This was the first time we had to go to our bench," said Orr, who was forced to call on reserves Tom Bergen, Dave Baxter, Joel Thompson, Alan Hardy and Tom Staton after starters Phil Hubbard and Wayman Britt ran into foul trouble. "We told them that someday your day will come, be ready. They were ready," said the elated Orr. Ricky Green set the pace for the Wolverines with 23 points, 15 of them in the second half while Bergen added 16 and Hardy 13. Illinois rallied in the second half to defeat Purdue 71-63. Michigan State defeated Minnesota 75-63 and Ohio State dumped Northwestern 83-69. Trailing 33-26 at the half after having lost high-scoring Nate Williams because of knee injury, Illinois outscored Purdue 10-2 in the opening minutes of the second half to jump ahead. Rich Adams with 20 points and Mike Washington and Audie Matthews with 16 each led the Illini attack. Walter Jordan was high for Purdue with 17 points. Terry Furlow, on the verge of a second straight Big Ten scoring title, pumped in 29 points and Dowagiac's Edgar Wilson scored 19, a career high, to lead Michigan State past Minnesota.

Mike Thompson, the No. 2 scorer behind Furlow, had 25 points for Minnesota. "We just hustled," said MSU Coach Gus Ganakas. "Edgar Wilson's hustle was one of the most magnificent efforts I've ever seen. As a team we've been patient and worked hard." Northwestern couldn't get by Ohio State without top effort of talented Billy McKinney, who tried to play despite flu and a bad knee and scored only two points, far below his 22-point average. Still, Ohio State had to go without top scorer Larry Bolden, out of the game because of illness. Jud Wood took up the slack and scored 22 points. IOWA (95) Frost 72-716, King 172-236, Haberecht 123-4, Thompson 142-230, Wulfsberg 00-00, Mayfield 112-3, Moya 100-2, Pett 122-4, Gatens 00-00, Hairton 00-00, Totals 4211-18. MICHIGAN (104) Britt 44-412, Robinson 54-414, Hubbard 53-613, Green 11-323, Grote 00-00, Bergen 44-416, Hardy 53-312, Thompson 30-6, Boxter 23-47, Staton 00-00, Totals 4122-28. HOUSTON (32) Foulout: Michigan 55, Iowa 52. Freund Fired As EMU Cage Coach

YPSILANTI, Mich. (AP) — Coach Al Freund is being eased out of his job as head basketball coach at Eastern Michigan University, it was disclosed Saturday. Freund, who compiled a 28-49 record in the past three years, will be replaced as basketball coach by the end of the season, according to EMU Athletic Director Albert Smith. Smith said he made the announcement "after carefully evaluating the basketball program over the first half of this season." The Hurons are 6-11. "I have decided that a change would be in the best interest of our program," Smith said. The athletic director said he hopes to name a new basketball coach by the end of the season. Smith's announcement followed an 87-71 Eastern loss to Kent State. There had been reports that Freund was announcing his resignation at the end of the Saturday loss to Kent State, but Freund later denied this. "I wouldn't want to comment right now because some things have not yet been ironed out," said Freund. "But I haven't submitted anything, and I have nothing in writing." Freund teaches physical education when he is not busy with his coaching duties. He was named head coach in 1972 when Jim Dutcher resigned and went to Minnesota.

Patient Maryland Overcomes Irish Stall

From Associated Press Although Digger Phelps' latest attempt at winning a basketball game by stalling has fizzled, the Notre Dame coach says he doesn't plan to let one loss deter him from using the same tactic again. "We had control going into the stall," Phelps said Saturday after the 10th-ranked Fighting Irish had bowed to seventh-rated Maryland 69-63 in a nationally televised game, snapping their seven-game winning streak. "When you make the shots in that type of offense, you're a hero, and it worked against UCLA last week. It just didn't work today." Phelps ordered his players to slow down the offense with six minutes remaining, when they held a one-point lead. But the patient Terrapins overcame the Irish by outscoring them 9-2 in the final three minutes. Steve Sheppard's field goal with 2:10 left put the Terps ahead for good 62-61 and they went on to register their 15th victory in 18 games. All-American John Lucas led Maryland with 23 points and became the Terps' all-time scoring leader, surpassing Tom McMillen. Sheppard finished with 19 points. All-American Adrian Dantley paced Notre Dame, 12-4, with 28 points, but scored only six in the second half. It was the first time in seven games he had been held to less than 30. Freshman James Tillman put the clamps on Dantley in the second half, playing him one-on-one while the other Terrapins were employed in a zone. Meanwhile, top-ranked Indiana rolled over Wisconsin

114-61; No. 2 Marquette trounced Chicago Loyola 85-69; fourth-rated North Carolina downed Clemson 79-64; Washington, ranked sixth, defeated Washington State, 75-65; eighth-rated North Carolina State edged Virginia, 75-73, and Tennessee, the No. 9 team, topped 11th-ranked Alabama 90-74. Elsewhere, 12th-rated UCLA stopped Southern California 68-62; 13th-ranked Missouri shaded Nebraska 62-57; St. John's, rated 14th, outlasted Army 87-75 in overtime; No. 15 Michigan outscored Iowa 104-95; 18th-rated Cincinnati walloped George Washington 102-72; Centenary, No. 19, routed Houston

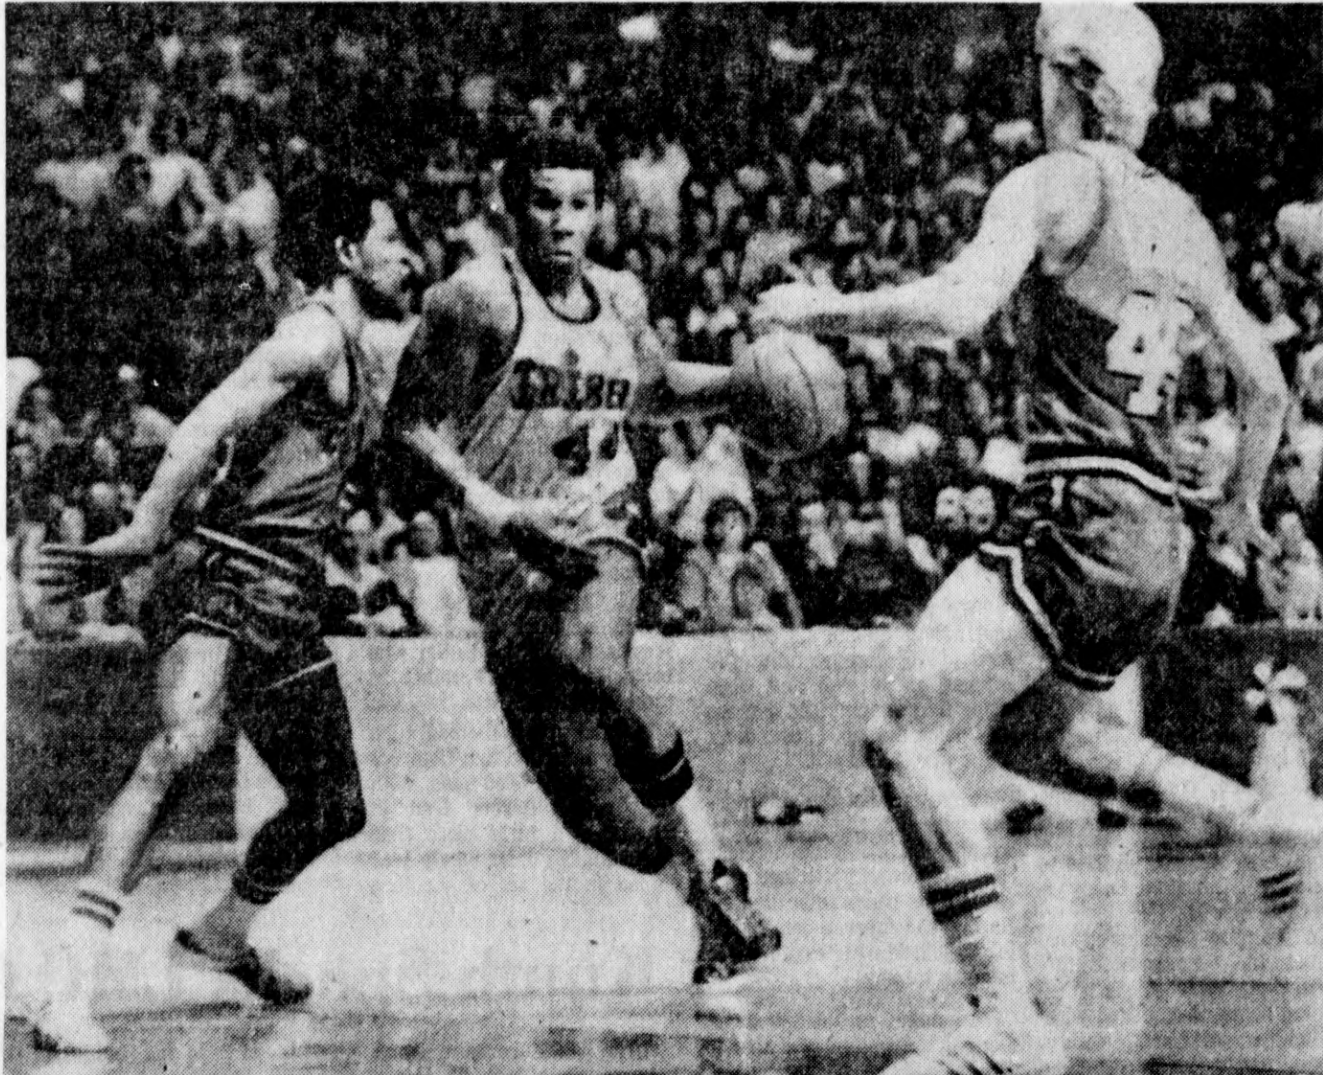

Baptist 123-90, and West Texas State, tied for 20th, nipped Drake 73-70. Some of the nation's top teams were not scheduled over the weekend, including No. 3 Nevada-Las Vegas, No. 5 Rutgers, No. 16 Oregon State, No. 17 Princeton, and Virginia Tech, tied for 20th. Indiana, sparked by All-American Scott May's 30 points and Kent Benson's 23, set a Big Ten Conference record of 28 straight victories, extended its season's record to 18-0 and stretched its regular-season winning streak to 48 by routing Wisconsin. Indiana is one of the nation's four unbeaten teams. The others are: Nevada-Las Vegas, 23-0; Rutgers, 16-0, and unranked Western Michigan, 16-0, after beating Ohio University 75-59 Saturday. Marquette got 22 points from Earl Tatum in running its record to 16-1 and its winning string to 12, against outmanned Chicago Loyola. North Carolina raised its Atlantic Coast Conference record to 7-1 and its over-all mark to 15-2, downing Clemson behind Phil Ford's 23 points. Washington, 17-1 and tied for the Pac-8 Conference lead with Oregon State and UCLA, each with 4-1 records, used James Edwards' 19 points and a tight defense that held Washington State's leading scorer, Ron Davis, without a field goal in beating the Cougars. North Carolina State, 14-3, squeezed past off-beaten Virginia on Phil Spence's follow-up shot just before the final buzzer. Spence wound up with 14 points, while Kenny Carr led the Wolfpack with 19. Tennessee took over undisputed possession of first place in the Southeastern Conference with a 7-1 record and lifted its over-all record to 14-2, downing Alabama with the help of Bernard King's 37 points and Ernie Grunfeld's 20. UCLA, 15-3, gained a share of the Pac-8 lead and posted its 95th consecutive home court victory, holding off Southern Cal. Missouri, 17-2 over-all and the Big Eight leader, remained unbeaten in conference play, subduing Nebraska as Willy Smith scored 28 points and Jim Kennedy collected all of his 19 points in the second half. John Farmer's 24 points and 13 rebounds, substitute Cecil Relford's 19 points and Beaver Smith's 18 points and 10 rebounds carried St. John's, 162, past stubborn Army. Michigan, 13-4, received a big lift from its bench and overcame Iowa despite 36 points by the Hawkeyes' Bruce King and 30 by Scott Thompson. Robert Miller's 21 points paced Cincinnati to its rout over George Washington, increasing the Bearecats' record to 15-3 and their home-court winning streak to 44. Centenary, 17-3, got 32 points from 7-foot Robert Parish and 28 from Nate Bland in crushing Houston Baptist. Reggie Ramay's 18 points keyed West Texas State to its 14th triumph in 17 games, over Drake.

Tech Leads Tight WCHA

From Associated Press Michigan Tech has won eight of its last nine games to get to the top of the Western Collegiate Hockey Association, but it's still a tight squeeze. "It's still awful tight and we still have some big games left," said John MacInnes. "We've been getting by, but not playing particularly well." Tech, now 16-6 in WCHA play, defeated Denver 5-2 Saturday night to keep a three-point lead over defending champion Minnesota, which blasted upstate rival Duluth 6-3. Michigan lost ground with a 6-2 loss at North Dakota while Michigan State pulled into a third place tie with a 5-3 victory over Wisconsin and Notre Dame nudged Colorado College 3-1. Rick Clubbe and Roger Lamoureux scored two goals each as North Dakota dropped Michigan six points back of league-leading Tech. Michigan State tallied twice in the final 18 seconds of the game on goals by John Sturges and Tom Ross, who finished with two for the night.

DANTLEY DRIVES: Notre Dame's Adrian Dantley (44) splits the seam between Maryland's John Lucas (15) and converging Brian Magid (45) in Saturday's college basketball game at South Bend. Dantley led all scorers with 28 points, but the Irish dropped a 69-63 decision to the seventh-ranked Terrapins. (AP Wirephoto)

WILSON SCORES: Michigan State's Edgar Wilson (33) drives up the middle for two points against Minnesota's Ray Williams (10). Wilson, a Dowagiac native, scored 19 points for Spartans as they beat Minnesota 75-63 in a Big Ten game played at East Lansing. MSU is now 9-9 and in fourth place in the league. (AP Wirephoto)

Hi! I'm Karen Mitchell.

My job is viewing homes and writing sneak previews.

There are so many beautiful homes out there it was difficult deciding which to feature first. If your hunting for a home that's not in a subdivision, (more breathing room), but don't get excited over cow path country, read on... Elegant appearance, antique brick & cedar trim in earthtones is the primary introduction to this fine home. Inside lush plush carpeting makes you want to take off your shoes, wiggle your toes and relax in front of the crackling fire in the full brick wall fireplace of the family room. Preparing meals or baking sweet smelling home made bread is satisfying in this modern country sized kitchen brings aromatic memories reminiscent of sweet smells of baking, seasoned with modern convenience. Cabinetry adds warmth and texture to complete the decor. While seated in the spacious dining area view the lovely snow covered pine trees beyond the patio. With a large 14'9"x26' sunken living room, arranging furnishing will be a breeze with the available wall space. The beautiful bay window is ideal for hanging planter accents. One and three quarter baths will built in vanities for the needs of a modern growing family. Master bedroom measures 10'4" x 14'9". Plenty of room for king sized slumber and closets galore complete the sleeper. Children's rooms have space for furnishings plus extra room for a study center or play. Located in St. Joe District offering children sound education and a variety of extra curricular activities. I could go on but... just a sneak preview. To find out more we're only steps away by phone. great Buckeye team. Knight used all 13 of his players with 12 reaching the scoring column and All-American Scott May leading the way with 30 points. Michigan also went over the century mark. Coach Johnny Orr also used his bench but for different reasons in a 104-85 victory over Iowa. "This was the first time we had to go to our bench," said Orr, who was forced to call on reserves Tom Bergen, Dave Baxter, Joel Thompson, Alan Hardy and Tom Staton after starters Phil Hubbard and Wayman Britt ran into foul trouble. "We told them that someday your day will come, be ready. They were ready," said the elated Orr. Mickey Green set the pace for the Wolverines with 23 points, 15 of them in the second half while Bergen added 16 and Hardy 13. Illinois rallied in the second half to defeat Purdue 71-63. Michigan State defeated Minnesota 75-63 and Ohio State dumped Northwestern 83-69. Trailing 33-26 at the half after having lost high-scoring Nate Williams because of knee injury, Illinois outscored Purdue 10-2 in the opening minutes of the second half to jump ahead. Rich Adams with 20 points and Mike Washington and Audie Matthews with 16 each led the Illini attack. Walter Jordani was high for Purdue with 17 points. Terry Furlow, on the verge of a second straight Big Ten scoring title, pumped in 29 points and Downingie's Edgar Wilson scored 19, a career high, to lead Michigan State past Minnesota.

Mike Thompson, the No. 2 scorer behind Furlow, had 22 points for Minnesota. "We just hustled," said MSU Coach Gus Ganakas. "Edgar Wilson's hustle was one of the most magnificent efforts I've ever seen. As a team we've been patient and worked hard." Northwestern couldn't get by Ohio State without top effort of talented Billy McKinney, who tried to play despite flu and a bad knee and scored only two points, far below his 22-point average. Still, Ohio State had to go without top scorer Larry Buford, out of the game because of illness. Bud Wood took up the slack and scored 22 points.

Freund Fired As EMU Cage Coach

YPSILANTI, Mich. (AP) — Coach Al Freund is being eased out of his job as head basketball coach at Eastern Michigan University. It was disclosed Saturday.

Freund, who compiled a 28-49 record in the past three years, will be replaced as basketball coach by the end of the season, according to EMU Athletic Director Albert Smith.

Smith said he made the announcement "after carefully evaluating the basketball program over the first half of this season." The Hurons are 6-11.

"I have decided that a change would be in the best interest of our program," Smith said. The athletic director said he hopes to name a new basketball coach by the end of the season. Smith's announcement followed an 87-71 Eastern loss to Kent State.

Freund teaches physical education when he is not busy with his coaching duties. He was named head coach in 1972 when Jim Dutcher resigned and went to Minnesota.

Patient Maryland Overcomes Irish Stall

From Associated Press — Although Digger Phelps' latest attempt at winning a basketball game by stalling has fizzled, the Notre Dame coach says he doesn't plan to let one loss deter him from using the same tactic again. "We had control going into the stall," Phelps said Saturday after the 10th-ranked Fighting Irish had bowed to seventh-rated Maryland 69-63 in a nationally televised game, snapping their seven-game winning streak. "When you make the shots in that type of offense, you're a hero, and it worked against UCLA last week. It just didn't work today."

Phelps ordered his players to slow down the offense with six minutes remaining, when they held a one-point lead. But the patient Terrapins overcame the Irish by outscoring them 9-2 in the final three minutes. Steve Sheppard's field goal with 2:10 left put the Terps ahead, for good 62-61 and they went on to register their 15th victory in 18 games.

All-American John Lucas led Maryland with 23 points and became the Terps' all-time scoring leader, surpassing Tom McMillen. Sheppard finished with 19 points. All-American Adrian Dantley paced Notre Dame, 12-4, with 28 points, but scored only six in the second half. It was the first time in seven games he had been held to less than 30.

Freshman James Tillman put the clamps on Dantley in the second half, playing him one-on-one while the other Terrapins were employed in a zone. Meanwhile, top-ranked Indiana rolled over Wisconsin 114-61. No. 2 Marquette trounced Chicago Loyola 83-69, fourth-rated North Carolina downed Clemson 79-64; Washington, ranked sixth, defeated Washington State, 75-65; eighth-rated North Carolina State edged Virginia, 75-73, and Tennessee, the No. 9 team, topped 11th-ranked Alabama 80-74.

Elsewhere, 12th-rated UCLA stopped Southern California 68-62; 13th-ranked Missouri shaded Nebraska 82-67; St. John's, rated 14th, outlasted Army 87-79 in overtime; No. 15 Michigan outscored Iowa 104-95; 18th-rated Cincinnati wallpopped George Washington 102-72; Kentucky, No. 19, routed Houston Baptist 124-90, and West Texas State, tied for 20th, nipped Drake 73-70.

Some of the nation's top teams were not scheduled over the weekend, including No. 3 Nevada-Las Vegas, No. 5 Rutgers, No. 16 Oregon State, No. 17 Princeton, and Virginia Tech, tied for 20th. Indiana, sparked by All-American Scott May's 30 points and Kent Benson's 23, set a Big Ten Conference record of 28 straight victories, extended its season's record to 18-0 and stretched its regular-season winning streak to 48 by routing Wisconsin. Indiana is one of the nation's four unbeaten teams. The others are Nevada-Las Vegas, 23-0; Rutgers, 16-0, and unranked Western Michigan, 19-0, after beating Ohio University 75-58 Saturday.

Tech Leads Tight WCHA

From ASSOCIATED PRESS — Michigan Tech has won eight of its last nine games to get to the top of the Western Collegiate Hockey Association, but it's still a tight squeeze. "It's still awful tight and we still have some big games left," said John MacInnes. "We've been getting by, but not playing particularly well."

Tech, now 16-6 in WCHA play, defeated Denver 5-2 Saturday night to keep a three-point lead over defending champion Minnesota, which blasted upstate rival Duluth 6-3. Michigan lost ground with a 6-2 loss at North Dakota while Michigan State pulled into a third place tie with a 5-3 victory over Wisconsin and Notre Dame nudged Colorado College 3-1.

Rick Clunne and Roger Lamoureux scored two goals each as North Dakota dropped Michigan six points back of league-leading Tech. Michigan State tallied twice in the final 18 seconds of the game on goals by John Sturges and Tom Ross, who finished with two for the night.

Century, 17-2 over-all and the Big Eight leader, remained unbeaten in conference play, subduing Nebraska as Willy Smith scored 28 points and Jim Kennedy collected all of his 18 points in the second half. John Farmer's 24 points and 13 rebounds, substitute Cecil Relford's 18 points and Beaver Smith's 18 points and 10 rebounds carried St. John's, 162, past stubborn Army. Michigan, 13-4, received a big lift from its bench and overcame Iowa despite 36 points by the Hawkeyes' Bruce Klug and 30 by Scott Thompson. Robert Miller's 21 points paced Cincinnati to its rout over George Washington, increasing the Beascats' record to 15-3, and their home-court winning streak to 44.

Century, 17-2, got 32 points from 7-foot Robert Parish and 28 from Nate Bland in crushing Houston's Baptist. Reggie Ramay's 18 points keyed West Texas State to its 14th triumph in 17 games, over Drake.

Miami Switches

MIAMI (AP) — The University of Miami's football team will play its five home games next fall on Saturday nights, abandoning a practice in recent years of playing Friday games. Athletic Director Pete Elliott said Monday.

Hi! I'm Karen Mitchell.
My job is viewing homes and writing sneak previews.

There are so many beautiful homes out there it was difficult deciding which to feature first. If you're hunting for a home that's not in a subdivision, (more breathing room), but don't get excited over cow path country, read on...

Elegant appearance, antique brick & cedar trim in earthtones is the primary introduction to this fine home. Inside lush plush carpeting makes you want to take off your shoes, wiggle your toes and relax in front of the crackling fire in the full brick wall fireplace of the family room.

Preparing meals in baking sweet smelling home made bread in satisfying in the modern country sized kitchen brings aromatic memories reminiscent of sweet smells of baking, seasoned with modern convenience. Culinary adds warmth and texture to complete the decor.

While seated in the spacious dining area view the lovely snow covered pine trees beyond the patio.

With a large 14'x20' sunken living room, arranging furniture will be a breeze with the available wall space. The beautiful bay window is ideal for hanging planter accents.

One and three quarter baths will built in families for the needs of a modern growing family. Master bedroom measures 12'4" x 14'9". Plenty of room for king sized slumber and closets galore complete the sleeper. Children's rooms have space for furnishings plus extra room for a study center or play.

Located in St. Joe District offering children sound education and a variety of extra curricular activities.

I could go on but... Just a sneak preview. To find out more we're only steps away by phone. Call Berrien Real Estate Service 983-1064. We're ready to help you. (Or give me a call at home 428-6327).

Chiefs' Last-Second Basket Nips Lakers

DOWAGIAC — Kim Mulder's last-second basket gave Dowagiac a thrilling 52-50 non-league basketball victory over Lake Michigan Catholic here Saturday night.

Dowagiac's Scott Wiltse had tied the score at 50-50 with 14 seconds remaining, and the Lakers missed on a one-and-one free throw opportunity, before Mulder made the winner.

Wiltse finished as the game's leading scorer in the first game ever between the schools by netting 18 points. Brad Manley added 15 points and Waalkes hauled down 20 rebounds, including 15 the second half, as Dowagiac improved its record to 6-7.

Lake Michigan Catholic got 15 points apiece from Tom Flood and Don Altic and 10 from Bill Frantz while slipping to 10-6. All six losses have been on the road, a fact Laker coach Al Nixon believes is partly because of a lack of student fan support.

Consistent Gaels Hold Off Berrien

Red Arrow Leaders Capture 11th Straight Win

GALIEN — At first glance, the Galien basketball express doesn't look very impressive.

The Gael starting lineup averages less than 6-0 per man. But Mike Heckathorn's squad is consistent in one area — winning.

Galien rolled to its 11th straight win here Saturday night, combining a powerful rebounding attack with a near-flawless floor game to best Berrien Springs 58-51.

The victory gave the Gaels a stronger hold on first place in the Red Arrow race with an 8-1 record, one-half game better than Lake Michigan Catholic (8-2). Galien is now 13-1 overall.

With 15 points and 18 rebounds. Forward Terry Hosbein chipped in with 12 and guard Kirk Hansen had 10.

Sparked by the play of 6-4 junior center Rick Kuntz, Galien moved out to a quick 8-2 lead in the first two minutes. Berrien, which committed 13 first-half turnovers, fell behind 30-18 with just over two minutes to play in the half before finally getting started.

The Shamrocks twice closed the gap to one, the last time at 44-43 on another Hosbein bucket with just over five minutes left.

Berrien even had a chance to take the lead seconds later after Mike Kuntz, Rick's brother, missed two free throws and Thiele rebounded. But the Shamrocks were whistled for an over-and-back violation and Stover argued the call so vehemently that he was hit with a technical.

Luther made the free throw and Bushier hit a timely jumper to put Galien up by four at 47-43. Shortly after that Berrien lost its poise for about two minutes as Galien reeled off nine straight points to put the game away.

"A few breaks and it might have gone the other way," Berrien coach Connie Stover said. "When we needed a few breaks late in the game, we came up empty three straight times down the floor and that was the difference."

Berrien hit on 23 of 50 from the floor for 46 per cent. The game was decided at the free throw line where Galien hit on 12 of 25 to just five of 12 for the Shamrocks.

Houseal Tankers Lead Harbor 'Y'

NILES — Benton Harbor's YMCA swimming team finished last among three teams at a triangular meet here Saturday.

Anne, Maria and John Houseal sparked Benton Harbor. Anne Houseal took first in the 200-yard individual medley (2:24) and first in the 100-yard butterfly (1:34). Anne also joined Sue Piontek, Julie Krieger and Karen Hettig on the winning 200-yard medley relay team (1:58.2).

Maria Houseal took second in the 40-yard butterfly, while John won the boys running of the event (33.6).

Hurdle Record

LONDON, Ont. (AP) — Debby LaPlante of Belleville, Mich., a silver medalist in the 50-meter hurdles at the Pan American Games in Mexico City, broke the Canadian record in the event Saturday night in the first annual Western Open track meet.

Mrs. LaPlante, holder of the U.S. national hurdles record, set the mark of 7.0 seconds during the afternoon qualifying races, then ran 7.1 in the evening final.

Bridgman Stings Lutheran With 41-Point 2nd Quarter

The Bridgman Bees stung Michigan Lutheran with a 41-point second quarter while buzzing to a 92-62 non-league basketball victory Saturday night in the Titan gym.

"The second quarter was when they decided to press us," commented Lutheran coach John Eggert. "It was the smart thing to do...it was devastating."

"We couldn't handle the pressure. They made 16 of 22 shots, and those were layups off interceptions."

Lutheran, now 6-8, was hampered by the absence of two starters. John Brink was out with an injury, and Warren Skoda was on the sidelines for disciplinary reasons.

Bridgman, now 9-4, finished with its highest scoring output of the season while getting 32 points from Bob Linke, 11 from Dave Zilke and 10 from Tom Meredith.

Tops for the Titans were Randy Wolf and Kirk Harsch with 19 and 14, respectively.

"I'm real pleased," declared

Bridgman coach Doug Hendricks, "especially with the press. I'm also happy with the way we came back from Friday night's loss (64-60 to Lake Michigan Catholic)."

Eggert was able to accept the loss, the second quarter blitz, with a sense of humor. "That should be a record," he chuckled. "That's not bad for a half."

Bridgman made 36 of 74 field goals (49 per cent) and 20 of 34 free throws. Lutheran was 24 for 62 from the floor (39 per cent) and 14 of 25 at the line.

Brandywine Bumped By South Bend Clay

SOUTH BEND — South Bend Clay put four players in double figures while dumping Brandywine 73-65 in non-league basketball action here Saturday night.

Clay, now 5-11, got 16 points from Jim Zawlocki, 12 from Kurt Meyer and 10 apiece from Ron Freeman and Mike Collier.

Brandywine, now 11-4, had Greg Gallas with 19 points, Steve McCarthy with 11 and Pat

Goodwin, Bus Spark Rams

Unbeaten South Haven Bags 14th Straight Win

ALLEGAN — Nate Goodwin and Rick Bus came through with their best efforts of the season while, leading unbeaten South Haven to an 81-62 Wolverine victory over Allegan here Friday night.

Goodwin hit a career high 31 points and Bus added 19 points and 14 rebounds as the Rams, ranked No. 4 in the Class B poll, hiked their records to 11-0 in the league and 14-0 overall.

Mike Grimes and William Gamble added 12 and 10 points to the cause of the league leaders.

near the end of the game."

South Haven made a deadly 49 per cent of its field goals (36 of 74), including 14 of 24 by Goodwin. Allegan finished at 36 per cent (24 of 66).

At the free throw lines, the Rams hit 9 of 14 (64 per cent) and Allegan 14 of 19 (74 per cent).

South Haven had a 54 to 34 rebounding edge, with Gamble and Grimes adding 14 and 10, respectively, to Bus' effort.

"It was a tournament-type of atmosphere," concluded White. "We didn't beat any easy team tonight. Allegan has a real good ball club."

Allegan did win the junior varsity preliminary by two points.

"Goodwin just played a real hustling game all night," declared South Haven coach M.H. White. "He was getting out front on the fast break, and he was also hitting real good from the wings against their zone."

Bus also probably had his best game. He made seven of 11 field goals, had 14 rebounds and was really tough in the middle on defense."

Allegan, now 7-4 in the Wolverine and 9-5 overall, got 24 points from John Hoffman and 14 from John Webber.

South Haven only led 34-33 at halftime against fired up Allegan, but the Rams pulled away in the second half.

"We just got to moving a little better in the third quarter," stated White, "and that continued in the fourth quarter. They then had to come out to press us to try to catch up, and we scored a lot of easy baskets

Mulder Connects Chiefs' Last-Second Basket Nips Lakers

DOWAGIAC — Kim Mulder's last-second basket gave Dowagiac a thrilling 52-50 non-league basketball victory over Lake Michigan Catholic here Saturday night.

Dowagiac's Scott Witse had tied the score at 50-50 with 14 seconds remaining, and the Lakers missed on a one-and-one free throw opportunity before Mulder made the winning shot.

Dowagiac called time out with seven seconds left to set up the winning shot. "All I told them is how we wanted to score, and who I wanted to shoot," recalled Chief coach Norm Schuring. "I felt LMC would be sagging on (Bob) Waalkes, so I had Waalkes set a pick for Mulder."

Witse finished as the game's leading scorer in the first game over between the schools by netting 18 points. Brad Manley added 15 points and Waalkes hauled down 20 rebounds, including 15 the second half, as Dowagiac improved its record to 6-7.

Lake Michigan Catholic got 15 points apiece from Tom Flood and Don Altie and 10 from Bill Franz while slipping to 10-6. All six losses have been on the road, a fact Laker coach Al Nixon believes is partly because of a lack of student fan support.

"I really think our student body is very apathetic," declared Nixon, who said a count revealed just 32 students at the game. "To me, they really don't deserve a conference championship. Our kids are really working hard, and they are not getting support. We are 8-0 at home, and they really make a difference. It's too bad they don't want to give us that support on the road."

After a first quarter 10-18 deadlock, Dowagiac took a 34-31 halftime lead Saturday night. Catholic was on top 43-40 going into the last period of the tight game.

Dowagiac dropped 23 of 30 field goals (40 per cent) and made six of 13 free throws. Catholic netted just 21 of 47 from the floor (31 per cent) and only four of 12 at the line.

"Obviously, the key was again our lack of luck from the free throw line," continued Nixon.

Respective charts had Dowagiac with a 41 to 35 rebounding edge, with Flood and Franz having nine each for the Lakers. Dowagiac had 14 turnovers and Lake Michigan Catholic 18.

Nixon praised the work of Gary Bartolone for a "tremendous job defensively," and gave John Kasper a pat on the back for his relief effort when Altie and Flood got into early foul trouble.

Dowagiac also won the junior varsity preliminary 67-66. The little Chiefs are now 7-6, including six straight wins. Mike Masini scored 25 points for the little Lakers.

Red Arrow Leaders Capture 11th Straight Win

By JACK WALKER Staff Sports Writer

GALLEN — At first glance, the Gaels basketball express doesn't look very impressive. The Gaels' starting lineup averages less than 6-0 per man. But Mike Heckathorn's squad is consistent in one area — winning.

Gallen rolled to its 11th straight win here Saturday night, combining a powerful rebounding attack with a near-flawless floor game to best Berrien Springs 36-31.

The victory gave the Gaels a stronger hold on first place in the Red Arrow race with an 8-1 record, one-half game better than Lake Michigan Catholic (6-2). Gallen is now 13-1 overall.

The Shamrocks fell to 6-4 in the league, virtually ending any hopes they had of defending the title they shared last year with Gallen. Berrien is 8-7 overall.

"I feel very fortunate that we missed as many shots as we did and still won the game," Heckathorn said. "We got excellent team play out of everyone in the ballgame. I'm very proud of how the kids handled themselves."

Gallen could find the range on just 21 of 66 from the floor for a poor 33 per cent. But the Gaels more than made up for it by out-rebounding Berrien 40-29 and turning the ball over 10 times to 21 Shamrock turnovers.

"I thought our defense was decent," Heckathorn said. "We harassed them enough to give them trouble. The kids just made things happen."

As usual, Gallen got a balanced scoring attack headed by 6-2 jumping jack Don Kory, who pumped in 14 points and cleaned the boards for 13 rebounds. Diminutive guards Craig Schau and Dale Luther (both 5-9) combined for 25 points with Schau scoring 13 and Luther 12. Forward Rick Basher also pumped in 12, including two key baskets in the decisive fourth quarter.

Center Fred Thiele carried the offensive load much of the game for Berrien and finished with 15 points and 18 rebounds. Forward Terry Hoshein chipped in with 12 and guard Kirk Hansen had 10.

Sparked by the play of 6-4 junior center Rick Kuntz, Gallen moved out to a quick 8-2 lead in the first two minutes. Berrien, which committed 13 first-half turnovers, fell behind 30-18 with just over two minutes to play in the half before finally getting started.

The bulky Kuntz scored all seven of his points and pulled down nine of his 11 rebounds in the first 16 minutes.

Berrien charged back and finally tied the game at 34-34 on a basket by Hoshein with 3:44 left in the third quarter. Buckets by three-year regulars Kory and Luther put the Gaels on top for good at 38-34.

The Shamrocks twice closed the gap to one, the last time at 44-43 on another Hoshein bucket with just over five minutes left.

Berrien even had a chance to take the lead seconds later after Mike Kuntz, Kuntz's brother, missed two free throws and Thiele rebounded. But the Shamrocks were whistled for an over-and-back violation and Stover argued the call so vehemently that he was hit with a technical.

Luther made the free throw and Basher hit a timely jumper to put Gallen up by four at 47-43. Shortly after that Berrien lost its pulse for about two minutes as Gallen rolled off nine straight points to put the game away.

"A few breaks and it might have gone the other way," Berrien coach Connie Stover said. "When we needed a few breaks late in the game, we came up empty three straight times down the floor and that was the difference."

Berrien hit on 23 of 50 from the floor for 46 per cent. The game was decided at the free throw line where Gallen hit on 12 of 25 to just five of 12 for the Shamrocks.

Gallen also won the junior varsity game 54-51 behind Matt Kozel's 26-point effort. Mike Shumberger tossed in 23 for Berrien.

Houscal Tankers Lead Harbor 'Y'

NILES — Benton Harbor's YMCA swimming team finished last among three teams at a triangular meet here Saturday.

Muskegon won the meet with 330 points, followed by Niles (230) and Benton Harbor (190).

Anne, Maria and John Houscal sparked Benton Harbor. Anne Houscal took first in the 200-yard individual medley (2:24) and first in the 100-yard butterfly (1:34). Anne also joined Sue Plontek, Julie Krieger and Karen Hottig on the winning 300-yard medley relay team (1:58.2).

Maria Houscal took second in the 40-yard butterfly, while John won the boys running of the event (33.6).

Hurdle Record

LONDON, Ont. (AP) — Debby LaPlante of Belleville, Mich., a silver medalist in the 50-meter hurdles at the Pan American Games in Mexico City, broke the Canadian record in the event Saturday night in the first annual Western Open track meet.

Mrs. LaPlante, holder of the U.S. national hurdles record, set the mark of 7.8 seconds during the afternoon qualifying races, then ran 7.1 in the evening final.

leading scorer in the first game over between the schools by netting 18 points. Brad Manley added 15 points and Waalkes hauled down 20 rebounds, including 15 the second half, as Dowagiac improved its record to 6-7.

Lake Michigan Catholic got 15 points apiece from Tom Flood and Don Altie and 10 from Bill Franz while slipping to 10-6. All six losses have been on the road, a fact Laker coach Al Nixon believes is partly because of a lack of student fan support.

"I really think our student body is very apathetic," declared Nixon, who said a count revealed just 32 students at the game. "To me, they really don't deserve a conference championship. Our kids are really working hard, and they are not getting support. We are 8-0 at home, and they really make a difference. It's too bad they don't want to give us that support on the road."

After a first quarter 10-18 deadlock, Dowagiac took a 34-31 halftime lead Saturday night. Catholic was on top 43-40 going into the last period of the tight game.

Dowagiac dropped 23 of 30 field goals (40 per cent) and made six of 13 free throws. Catholic netted just 21 of 47 from the floor (31 per cent) and only four of 12 at the line.

"Obviously, the key was again our lack of luck from the free throw line," continued Nixon.

Respective charts had Dowagiac with a 41 to 35 rebounding edge, with Flood and Franz having nine each for the Lakers. Dowagiac had 14 turnovers and Lake Michigan Catholic 18.

Nixon praised the work of Gary Bartolone for a "tremendous job defensively," and gave John Kasper a pat on the back for his relief effort when Altie and Flood got into early foul trouble.

Dowagiac also won the junior varsity preliminary 67-66. The little Chiefs are now 7-6, including six straight wins. Mike Masini scored 25 points for the little Lakers.

Bridgman Stings Lutheran With 41-Point 2nd Quarter

The Bridgman Bees stung Michigan Lutheran with a 41-point second quarter while buzzing to a 82-62 non-league basketball victory Saturday night in the Titan gym.

"We couldn't handle the pressure. They made 16 of 22 shots, and those were layups off interceptions."

Lutheran, now 6-8, was humiliated by the absence of two starters. John Brink was out with an injury, and Warren Skoda was on the sidelines for disciplinary reasons.

Bridgman, now 9-4, finished off its highest scoring output of the season while getting 32 points from Bob Linke, 11 from Dave Zilke and 10 from Tom Meredith.

Bridgman made 36 of 74 field goals (49 per cent) and 20 of 34 free throws. Lutheran was 24 for 62 from the floor (39 per cent) and 14 of 25 at the line.

Lutheran charts had the Titans with a 39 to 38 rebounding edge. Lutheran also had 30 turnovers, compared to just 14 for the Bees.

Bridgman also won the junior varsity preliminary 50-35 with Ed Schrader scoring 10 points. Bret Morris had 12 for the little Titans.

Brandywine Bumped By South Bend Clay

SOUTH BEND — South Bend Clay put four players in double figures while dumping Brandywine 73-65 in non-league basketball action here Saturday night.

Clay, now 5-11, got 18 points from Jim Zawlocki, 12 from Kurt Meyer and 10 apiece from Ron Freeman and Mike Collier.

Brandywine, now 11-4, had Greg Gallas with 19 points, Steve McCarthy with 11 and Pat

State's Gridders Heavily Recruited Marshall, Bednarek Top List

From Associated Press
The college football coaches have invaded Michigan, looking for the most talented high school prospects to help build or rebuild their teams.
Michigan players are much sought after.
"I think this is really an outstanding year in the state of Michigan," said one college's head coach. "If we get our share, we'll be all right. This is probably as good a group as I've seen."

Mike Marshall, a senior quarterback at Detroit Southwestern, and Jeff Bednarek, a linebacker from Trenton, topped virtually everybody's recruiting list uncovered by the Detroit Free Press in its search for the state's top 10 grid prospects.

Also in the top 10 were tackle Chuck Hets of Taylor Truman, tackle Mike Leoni of Flint Powers, linebacker K.C. Ryan of Birmingham Brother Rice, tight end Mark Brammer of Traverse City, tight end Dennis Johnson of Flint Northwestern, center Mark Kochanski of Brother Rice, quarterback Greg Castagnola of Trenton and wide receiver Mike Hardin of Detroit Central.

Marshall has already visited Michigan and Michigan State, and in the next few weeks plans to stop at Arizona, Arizona State, UCLA and Southern California.

"If he had to go to school today ... he'd probably go to Michigan," Southwestern Coach Joe Hoskins said of the multi-talented quarterback - runner - kicker.

Michigan Coach Bo Schembechler has already landed two of the state's top high school prospects - Ron Simpkins of Detroit Western and Roosevelt Smith of Detroit Cass. The two enrolled at U-M following mid-year graduation from the Detroit public schools.

The opening date for signing national letters of intent is Feb. 18, and many of the prospects are still making the six visits allowed under NCAA rules.

Big Ten schools along with Notre Dame were the ones most often under consideration by the Michigan high school players. But Arizona State, (coached by ex-MSU assistant Frank Kush) and Arizona (coached by ex-Michigan assistant Jim Young) were also frequently listed.

While Michigan State was mentioned for consideration by most of the top 10 prospects, some players said they were hesitant to enroll because of the school's three-year probation by the NCAA for recruiting violations.

MSU has signed one prospect - 6-foot-3, 245 pounder Mike Denmore of Lapeer West.

Bednarek, described by one recruiter as "definitely a Big Ten linebacker," has made stops at Kentucky and Michigan and intends to look at Ohio State, Arizona, Arizona State and Miami (Fla.).

Hets, "a big man who can move," in the words of one recruiter, has announced he will go to Michigan and Leoni admits leaning toward U-M, where two friends - quarterback Rick Leach and tight end Gene Johnson - made names for themselves as freshman last fall.

Two of the three major prep quarterbacks, Marshall and Castagnola, were among the 10 most recruited players.

A third, John Wampler of Detroit, came pretty close. He's being sought by U-M, MSU, Maryland, Purdue, Iowa, Indiana and Virginia. He will also be recruited as a basketball player.

Another top prospect, although not in the top 10, is Tony Leoni, Mike's brother. "He's a better ball player than I am," brother Mike said.

Other top-rated players are: Mike Jolly of Southgate Aquinas, kicking specialist Paul Rogind of Farmington Harris, linebacker Sam Williams (son of the ex-Lion) of Livonia Franklin, linebacker Dan MacLean of Brother Rice, middle guard Mike Svihra of Dearborn Divine Child and tackle Robert Thomas of Grand Rapids Central.

Jim Powers' Late Basket Gives SMC 81-79 Win

DOWAGIAC - Southwestern Michigan College continued on its best start in history Saturday night, but the victories are not coming easy.

giving the Roadrunners their 15th-straight win, an 81-79 thriller over Kalamazoo Valley here.

The win upped SMC's league mark to 10-0 and overall slate to 17-2, best in the school's eight-year history. But the win did not come without trouble.

Kalamazoo held a 46-37 half-time lead and upped the margin to 54-40 early in the second half before the Roadrunners began to get rolling. With 1:15 to play, SMC finally tied the score at 77-all. The two teams traded baskets to set up Powers late heroics.

With the score tied at 79-each, SMC got possession of the ball and called timeout with only 12 seconds left.

"The thing I told them was to work for the good shot," SMC coach Jim Tansey said. "But I wanted them to be certain the ball was on the way with five seconds left so there would be a chance for a rebound."

Powers passed the ball inbounds to Bill Benko and then moved underneath. Benko hit Powers quickly with a return pass and the 6-2 guard layed it in for the winning bucket.

A midcourt shot by George Small at the buzzer hit the rim and fell off.

"We got moving a little better in the second half and that was the difference," Tansey said.

Host Eau Claire Wrestling Champ B. Springs Second By Half Point

EAU CLAIRE - In one of the closest wrestling tournaments of the season, Eau Claire nipped Berrien Springs by a mere half point to win its own wrestling invitational Saturday.

The Beavers garnered 150 points to the Shamrocks 149½. In third place was Covert (103½ points), fourth was Watervliet (61½), Gobles fifth (44), sixth Bloomingdale (36), Martin seventh (35), eighth Lake Michigan Catholic (30) and Bridgman ninth (10).

A total of four wrestlers accumulated pins in all of their matches. At 119 pounds, Rick Ruhl of Berrien Springs pinned Terry LaCourt of Gobles, Chris Prentice of Bridgman, Jim Callahan of Watervliet and Dan Pike of Eau Claire in the finals. Ruhl was also given the Outstanding Wrestler Award for the meet.

Joe Simaz of Eau Claire at 138 pounds pinned Don Green in the second round after a first round bye. He then pinned John Collins of Covert in the finals.

Berrien Springs' Larry Glenn at 145 pounds also notched all falls. He took Paul Phillip of Gobles, then downed Rod Green of Martin and took Jim Williams of Watervliet in the finals.

Jerry Hopkins of Eau Claire pinned Wayne Stover of Berrien Springs, Bob Foster of Bridgman and Ray Freeman of Covert for the title in the 167-pound class.

Eau Claire moved out to a commanding lead after the second round when the Beavers won five of their seven matches against the Shamrocks. But Berrien Springs made up the difference in the consolation round when it picked up a pair of pins.

State's Gridders Heavily Recruited Marshall, Bednarek Top List

From Associated Press

The college football coaches have invaded Michigan, looking for the most talented high school prospects to help build or rebuild their teams.

Michigan players are much sought after.

"I think this is really an outstanding year in the state of Michigan," said one college's head coach. "If we get our share, we'll be all right. This is probably as good a group as I've seen."

Mike Marshall, a senior quarterback at Detroit Northwestern, and Jeff Bednarek, a linebacker from Trenton, topped virtually everybody's recruiting list uncovered by the Detroit Free Press in its search for the state's top 10 grid prospects.

Also in the top 10 were tackle Chuck Helts of Taylor Truman, tackle Mike Leoni of Flint Powers, linebacker K.C. Ryan of Birmingham Brother Rice, tight end Mark Brammer of Traverse City, tight end Dennis Johnson of Flint Northwestern, center Mark Kochanski of Brother Rice, quarterback Greg Castiglione of Trenton and wide receiver Mike Hardin of Detroit Central.

Marshall has already visited Michigan and Michigan State, and in the next few weeks plans to stop at Arizona, Arizona State, UCLA and Southern California.

"If he had to go to school today ... he'd probably go to Michigan," Southwestern Coach Joe Hoskins said of the multi-talented quarterback - runner - kicker.

Michigan Coach Bo Schemmbecher has already landed two of the state's top high school prospects - Ron Simpkins of Detroit Western and Roosevelt Smith of Detroit Cass. The two enrolled at U-M following mid-year graduation from the Detroit public schools.

The opening date for signing national letters of intent is Feb. 18, and many of the prospects are still making the six visits allowed under NCAA rules.

Big Ten schools along with Notre Dame were the ones most often under consideration by the Michigan high school players. But Arizona State, (coached by ex-MSU assistant Frank Kush) and Arizona (coached by ex-Michigan assistant Jim Young) were also frequently listed.

While Michigan State was mentioned for consideration by most of the top 10 prospects, some players said they were hesitant to enroll because of the school's three-year probation by the NCAA for recruiting violations.

MSU has signed one prospect - 6-foot-3, 245 pounder Mike Densmore of Lapeer West.

Bednarek, described by one recruiter as "definitely a Big Ten linebacker," has made stops at Kentucky and Michigan and intends to look at Ohio State, Arizona, Arizona State and Miami (Fla.).

Helts, "a big man who can move," in the words of one recruiter, has announced he will go to Michigan and Leoni admits leaning toward U-M, where two friends - quarterback Rick Leach and tight end Gene Johnson - made names for themselves as freshman last fall.

Two of the three major prep quarterbacks, Marshall and Castiglione, were among the 10 most recruited players.

A third, John Wanger of Detroit, came pretty close. He's being sought by U-M, MSU, Maryland, Purdue, Iowa, Indiana and Virginia. He will also be recruited as a basketball player.

Another top prospect, although not in the top 10, is Tony Leon, Mike's brother. "He's a better ball player than I am," brother Mike said.

Other top-rated players are Mike Jolly of Southgate Aquinas, kicking specialist Paul Ragland of Farmington Harris, linebacker Sam Williams (son of the ex-Lion) of Livonia Franklin, linebacker Dan Mulvaney of Brother Rice, middle guard Mike Sihra of Dearborn Divine Child and tackle Robert Thomas of Grand Rapids Central.

Jim Powers' Late Basket Gives SMC 81-79 Win

DOWAGIAC — Southwestern Michigan College continued on its best start in history Saturday night, but the victories are not coming easy.

Jim Powers scored a basket with just four seconds to play, giving the Roadrunners their 18th-straight win, an 81-79 thriller over Kalamazoo Valley here.

The win upped SMC's league mark to 10-0 and overall state to 17-2, best in the school's eight-year history. But the win did not come without trouble.

Kalamazoo held a 46-37 half-time lead and upped the margin to 34-9 early in the second half before the Roadrunners began to get rolling. With 1:15 to play, SMC finally tied the score at 77-all. The two teams traded baskets to set up Powers' late heroics.

With the score tied at 78-each, SMC got possession of the ball and called timeout with only 12 seconds left.

"The thing I told them was to work for the good shot," SMC coach Jim Tansey said. "But I wanted them to be certain the ball was on the way with five seconds left so there would be a chance for a rebound."

Powers passed the ball inbounds to Bill Benko and then moved underneath. Benko hit Powers quickly with a return pass and the 6-2 guard layed it in for the winning basket.

A midcourt shot by George Small at the buzzer hit the rim and fell off.

"We got moving a little better in the second half and that was the difference," Tansey said.

Host Eau Claire Wrestling Champ B. Springs Second By Half Point

EAU CLAIRE — In one of the closest wrestling tournaments of the season, Eau Claire nipped Berrien Springs by a mere half point to win its own wrestling invitational Saturday.

The Beavers garnered 150 points to the Shamrocks 149½. In third place was Covert (103½ points), fourth was Watervliet (81½), Gobles (5th) (44), Martin seventh (38), eighth Lake Michigan Catholic (30) and Bridgman ninth (10).

A total of four wrestlers accumulated pins in all of their matches. At 119 pounds, Rick Ruhl of Berrien Springs pinned Terry LaCount of Gobles, Chris Prentice of Bridgman, Jim Callahan of Watervliet and Dan Pike of Eau Claire in the finals. Ruhl was also given the Outstanding Wrestler Award for the meet.

Joe Simaz of Eau Claire at 138 pounds pinned Don Green in the second round after a first round bye. He then pinned John Collins of Covert in the finale.

Berrien Springs' Larry Glenn at 145 pounds also notched a full. He took Paul Phillips of Gobles, then downed Rod Green of Martin and took Jim Williams of Watervliet in the finals.

Muskegon Coasts Past LMC, 80-51

Muskegon Community College used balanced scoring and a strong rebounding attack Saturday night to rip Lake Michigan College 80-51 at the LMC Gym.

The win upped Muskegon's league mark to 8-2, while the Indians fell to 3-7. LMC is 7-14 overall.

"We had just eight rebounds in the whole first half," LMC coach Art Crump lamented. "That's where they beat us was inside. We had 20 rebounds for the game, but we were beaten badly on the boards. I don't know how many they had but it was a bundle."

Muskegon got double figure scoring out of five players headed by Ed Buursma with 20. Dan Smith added 14, Mike Smith and Al Richards 13 and Alvin Charles had 12.

Kerry Lee and John Taylor each tossed in 14 for the Indians, while Ed Albert chipped in with 12.

Lake Michigan grabbed a 15-10 lead in the first eight minutes, but Muskegon rallied to take a 46-33 halftime edge. The visitors scored the first six points of the second half and coasted in from there. The LMC shooting didn't help its hopes any. The Indians hit just 22 of 63 for 35 per cent.

Adams Rips Niles, 100-63

SOUTH BEND — South Bend Adams had too much fire power for Niles here Saturday night.

Thirteen Adams players scored as the hosts bombed Niles 100-63 here. The point total was the most against Niles since Benton Harbor handed the Vikings a 103-87 setback in 1973.

"Adams is an outstanding basketball team," Niles coach Dean Adams said. "They have good size, good balance and good shooting. I thought really with the capabilities we have, we played a pretty good basketball game."

Niles stayed with Adams for the first quarter, trailing just 20-15. But the Eagles got the Vikings in a running game in the second period, outscoring Niles 33-16 to take a commanding 53-31 halftime lead. Niles never got closer than 18 the rest of the way.

Tim Garner tossed in 23, Ernie Britten had 15 and Bill Brenner 12 for Niles, which fell to 7-6. Adams, now 13-4, got 22 points from Paul Daniels, and 17 from Brad Chambers.

Adams also won the junior varsity game 70-36 behind Jim Gooley's 22 points.

Suns Trade Shumate For Heard

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — John Shumate, the former Notre Dame All-American, has been traded by the Phoenix Suns to the Buffalo Braves for Garfield Heard and a 1976 second-round draft choice, it was announced late Sunday night.

The deal, a straight player transaction, was completed shortly before the National Basketball Association's mid-night trading deadline.

The 6-foot-9, 235-pound Shumate was an All-American center at Notre Dame in 1974 and was drafted by the Suns that year after he elected to pass up his final season of college eligibility and apply as a hardship case to the NBA. But he missed the entire 1974-75 NBA season because of a lung ailment, an illness similar to one that had cost him his sophomore season at Notre Dame.

This season, after regaining his health, he has become one of the league's outstanding rookies, leading the NBA in field goal percentage with a .550 mark while averaging 11.3 points and 5.6 rebounds per game in 43 games. Although he has not been a starter, playing behind veteran Curtis Perry as Phoenix' power forward, Shumate has averaged better than 21 minutes per game.

Poor Last Quarter Helps Paw Paw Lose To Otsego

OTSEGO — Breaking open a close game in the late moments, Otsego got by Paw Paw 62-52 here Saturday night.

The hosts led just 44-40 going into the final quarter before breaking the game open. Tim Phillips scored 19, Joe Stout had 12 and Lyn Myers 11 for Otsego, now 4-7 in Wolverine conference play and 6-7 overall. Karl Kroshinsky tossed in 15 as Paw Paw's only double figure scorer. The Redskins fell to 2-9 and 4-10, respectively.

ing edge with Kirt LaPine pulling down 11 for Paw Paw.

From the floor, the Redskins hit on 20 of 57 for 35 per cent, while Otsego blistered the nets on 22 of 39 for 56 per cent.

over a $2 card game. Police said Miranda was stabbed twice as he returned to the barroom after washing his hands, bloodied in a fistfight with the two men.

The man still being sought fled the bar after the fight. He was believed to have been the person who wielded the knife that killed Miranda, police said.

In custody was Fernando Rodriguez Zamora, 23, an illegal Mexican immigrant, who was arrested at a bar about two blocks away shortly after the stabbing. He was charged with murder, but police said the legal degree of the murder charge was not determined.

Miranda, who had been in and out of trouble most of his adult life, became nationally known in 1966 when the U.S. Supreme Court overturned his 1963 conviction for rape and kidnaping on grounds the arresting officers failed to advise him of certain rights guaranteed under the U.S. Constitution.

As a result of that court decision, law enforcement officers now carry cards bearing the "Miranda Warning" to inform suspected criminals of their rights to remain silent and to free legal counsel.

One of those cards was used to read Zamora his rights in English and Spanish.

Mary Ann Estrella, 21, a barmaid, said Miranda had been in the bar about three hours, drinking beer and playing cards, before the fight and stabbing.

She said she warned him about the two men he was playing cards with before the fight erupted.

"I said, 'Watch out, those guys will trick you, they've got phony cards.' He just went on playing.... Then they started arguing," Miss Estrella said.

She said Miranda "beat both of them up" and then went into the restroom to wash his hands.

When he returned, "the guy pulled the knife and went after Ernie. Ernie tried to take it away. He stabbed him twice. Ernie just fell down," she said.

Miranda was stabbed once in the chest and once in the abdomen with a knife Miss Estrella described as collapsible weapon.

Members of Miranda's family declined comment on the slaying.

Miranda, who listed his address as nearby Mesa, had been in and out of prisons several times during his adult life, the last time in 1975. Before his 1963 arrest, he served a year in prison for transporting a stolen car across state lines.

When he was originally arraigned on the kidnap-rape charges in 1963, attorney Alvin Moore, then 73, who had practiced virtually no criminal law for 16 years, was appointed to represent Miranda. He persuaded Miranda to plead guilty by reason of insanity.

Miranda was convicted on a robbery charge and then convicted on the kidnap-rape charges.

When Miranda decided to appeal, a Phoenix attorney, John J. Flynn, argued the case on the grounds that authorities had violated Miranda's right to remain silent and his right to counsel.

The Supreme Court decision upheld Miranda's Fifth and Sixth Amendment rights, and overturned his conviction. But after the appeal was won, Miranda was retried, reconvicted and sentenced to 20 to 30 years in prison. Paroled in 1972, he was arrested in July 1974 on a charge of possession of a firearm while on parole. He was returned to prison as a parole violator, but later he was released when the charges were dropped.

The high court's so-called "Miranda decision" was hailed by civil libertarians and denounced by police, whose cases were thrown out of court when they failed to read constitutional rights to those they arrested.

In later years, the courts narrowed the scope of that decision. In a 1971 ruling, the court allowed the use of statements obtained from a defendant who had not been told he was entitled to a lawyer.

However, such use was restricted to what lawyers call "impeachment," which is the presentation of material designed to discredit a witness's testimony. It can't be used by the prosecution in building up its main case against the defendant.

And in a ruling in 1975, the court said that such statements were admissible in cases where the accused was told of his rights and asked for a lawyer, but police questioning continued before a lawyer was available.

Last December, the Miranda ruling was narrowed even further when the Supreme Court ruled that police may resume questioning a suspect who has exercised his right to remain silent as long as they respect the suspect's right to stop answering questions at any time.

POLICE ROUNDUP

Homes On Same Street Burglarized

Property valued at about $1,676 was reported stolen in two residential burglaries investigated by Benton Harbor police in the same neighborhood within a period of 2½ hours early Sunday.

The burglaries were reported at 12:05 a.m. by residents Steve Zuhl, 1070 Pavone street, and at 2:40 a.m. by Danti Gualandi, 1220 Pavone.

Police said it's not known if both houses were burglarized by the same people, but entry into both was gained by breaking front doors.

Zuhl reported thefts of drafting tools, a radio and stereo equipment valued at about $886. Gualandi reported the theft of a tape player, television set, stereo equipment, shaver, silverware, camera, jewelry and cash totaling about $790. Gualandi told police his property was marked with his driver's license through the Operation Identification program.

Another theft reported to Benton Harbor police was a television set, radio and stereo equipment worth about $135 from the home of Patricia Bolton, 1294 Jennings avenue.

Charles Pitts, route 2, box 101, US-33, told Benton township police a citizens' band radio, valued at $255, was stolen from his car parked in a lot in the 2300 block of M-139 Sunday.

Tracking footprints in snow early Sunday led to the arrest of a 15-year-old Coloma area boy, accused of attempting to steal a snowmobile from the yard of James Warren, 4169 Riverside road, Hagar township, according to Berrien sheriff's officers.

The boy was booked on a charge of attempting to commit larceny over $100 and was to be petitioned to juvenile court, the department said.

Deputy John Gast said he followed the footprints after being called by Warren at 12:30 a.m. Warren said the boy fled when a yard light was turned on. The arrest was made near Coloma and Kerlikowske roads.

State police of the Benton Harbor post arrested two men Sunday on charges of possession of marijuana after a search of a car produced nearly two pounds of alleged marijuana.

Booked at the Berrien county jail were Richard William Reed, Jr., 27, Chicago, and Aubrey Glen Coleman, 21, Dallas, Tex. Troopers said they stopped a car that appeared to be traveling faster than snow conditions permitted on I-94 in Benton township.

Benton township police early Sunday arrested two men on charges of being drunk and disorderly then charged one with malicious destruction of police property after a radar mount in a squad car was broken.

Booked at the Berrien county jail were William O. Adams, 37, and Robert Glen Adams, 29, both of 1990 Taube avenue, Police said they were flagged down by a man who reported a disturbance near the intersection of Red Arrow highway and Euclid avenue where the two were arrested shortly after midnight. No one was injured, police indicated.

than the small — but at the SAME rate, and without any exemptions.

As it stands today, commercial and financial enterprises (which are the main sources of income for Crim's constituents) are taxed to a point where they search for greener pastures. The lower-income constituents who benefit from the personal exemptions are becoming fewer as they find it better to live on tax-free welfare, and they can still vote themselves ever more state and federal aid.

In that light, how long till Crim's main body of constituents tires of voting him and his party into office, for the privilege of supporting the non-working voters in comfort greater than their own though their hard work? They are smart enough to know that any increased funds the "coalition of jobless" Crim proposes may get from state and federal treasuries will come out of THEIR pockets. And they also know that such improved benefits will further reduce the incentive to go to work. That doesn't help Michigan to get back on its feet!

But I agree with speaker Crim on shifting school financing away from property taxes, for that makes it economically desirable to live in a slum or a shack and helps ruin our cities. Don't put it in the hands of the state or the federal government, but let it be financed by a local non-graduated income tax in each school district. Let the local voters decide how good a school they want to pay for. The same approach can be used for mass transportation.

Miranda Namesake Got 'Final' Warning

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — A Mexican alien has been charged with murder and his companion was being sought today in the slaying of Ernesto Miranda, whose appeal of a 1963 arrest forced police to recognize the constitutional rights of suspects.

Satellites May Be Helpful

WASHINGTON (AP) — Coast Guard enforcement of a 200-mile offshore U.S. fisheries zone would involve ships, helicopters and airplanes and eventually might use satellites, the Coast Guard commandant says.

Banker Slaying Indictments

NEWARK, Ohio (AP) — An Ohio grand jury has handed down indictments against three persons charged with kidnaping and killing an assistant bank manager from Detroit. The Licking County prosecutor said the grand jury in Newark completed work on the indictments late Saturday. However, names of the persons charged and the exact charges were not released. The prosecutor said information probably would be made public today. The grand jury had been considering murder indictments in the death of James Crawford, 25, of Grosse Pointe. He was abducted Dec. 5 from a branch of the National Bank of Detroit, where he was employed.

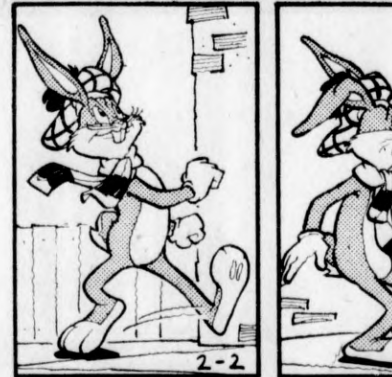

Ford Primary Predictions

DEARBORN, Mich. (AP) — President Ford will defeat a challenge from former California Gov. Ronald Reagan in the presidential election primaries, predicts Rogers C.B. Morton, Ford's chief counsel. Ford will emerge "with a great deal more support and strength" for the general election because of the primary contests, Morton said over the weekend at the Midwest Republican Leadership Conference. New Hampshire, Florida and Illinois will be the key presidential primary election states, Morton said.

NEW YORK (AP) — The opening of trading on the New York Stock Exchange was delayed today due to a winter storm that snarled transportation in and around New York City.

Police Say Shooting Accidental

By TOM RENNER South Haven Correspondent SOUTH HAVEN — A Kalamazoo man was hospitalized with a gunshot wound received in what police described as an accidental shooting at a South Haven township home Saturday afternoon.

Mark Vandenberg, 21, suffered pellet wounds to the forearms, neck and left ear when a 16 gauge shotgun was fired through a door at the Arthur Mielke residence, 73rd street, at 4 p.m. Saturday. He was reported in fair condition today in Bronson hospital, Kalamazoo.

State police troopers from the South Haven post said the weapon, owned by Mielke, was discharged by Roy Dark, 21, of route 2, Covert, while Dark and Vandenberg were at the Mielke residence to go hunting. Dark told police he thought the weapon was not loaded and that the safety was on, but that when he pulled the trigger it fired. Vandenberg was standing on the other side of the closed door.

The incident remains under investigation, according to police.

Watervliet Canopy Collapses

WATERVLIET — A heavy accumulation of ice and snow was believed to have caused the collapse of about half of the aluminum canopy spanning the front of the Boston store here Sunday morning, according to Watervliet police.

Police officer John Latsch said the flat canopy fell from the building at 343 Main street about 7:30 a.m. The supports holding the canopy to the building were also pulled down, he said.

A similar incident occurred on Dec. 21, 1974, when the entire canopy collapsed causing an estimated $7,000 to $8,000 damage at the store owned by Mrs. Thelma Moody. No estimate of Sunday's damage was available.

MONEY 'WASTED' WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. William Proxmire said today that the federal government wasted $2.1 million for a "meaningless study" of computer technology conducted by the North American Rockwell Corp.

Union Sets Pickets At BH Plant

Members of Local 2140, International Association of Machinists, set up picket lines Sunday after a three-year contract with Well-McLain Co., Inc. expired at midnight Sunday. About 15 pickets were at the Benton Harbor plant, 1215 Milton street.

The strike was reported to be the first in 30 years at Well-McLain Benton Harbor plant and its predecessor, Scowcroft Co.

Issues were described as pay increases and cost of living benefits, along with insurance and pension benefits. Negotiations for a new contract started last November, union spokesman said. The local represents 54 production workers.

Well-McLain's Benton Harbor Hydronic division manufactures furnace equipment.

What's Ahead For Social Security in '76 (First in a series of five columns)

What's ahead in 1976 for the record-setting 32 million of you — men, women and children — now collecting monthly Social Security checks? Will benefits rise enough to keep pace with inflation? And what's the outlook for the 100 million who work in jobs covered by Social Security?

And the big question: what action, if any, can we expect from the President and Congress to improve the soundness of our Social Security system in this, an election year?

For you, Social Security beneficiaries:

Under law, benefits are geared to rise automatically as the Consumer Price Index rises. If the CPI goes up 3 per cent or more in any year, the checks delivered early in July of the following year are increased by the percentage increase in the CPI.

The most recent illustration was the 8 per cent hike in benefits Social Security recipients received this past July reflecting the rise in the CPI since their last cost-of-living increase.

This year's increase will be lower — in the area of 6 1/2 to 7 per cent — for the pace of inflation slowed slightly in 1975. The precise rise won't be known until after the CPI for the first quarter of '76 has been calculated.

Last year — a non-election year — President Ford tried to persuade Congress to cut the 8 per cent increase to 5 per cent, but Congress flatly rejected his request. A similar recommendation was in early drafts of the budget Ford delivered two weeks ago, but the White House cut the request out of the final draft.

Ford is running for President in 1976; he doesn't need Congress to remind him that the elderly are probably the most cohesive and powerful of all voting groups in the U.S.; nor is he leaving himself open to the accusation that he is asking the aged, disabled, widowed and orphaned to absorb a loss in purchasing power to help restrain inflation.

Thus, the benefits of the 32 million now on the Social Security rolls will go up a modest but welcome percentage this coming July — nicely in advance of the election.

And Social Security outgo again will exceed income to the system by around $6 billion — encouraging "scare" reports that the system is bankrupt, facing deficits running into the trillions!

For you, Social Security taxpayers:

If you're one of the four out of five working Americans earning $14,100 or less in 1975, you'll pay the same amount of SS taxes this year as last. The rate remains at 5.85 per cent for employee and employer, at 7.9 for the self-employed.

If you're the one out of five earning more than $14,100 this year, you'll pay that 5.85 per cent on your earnings up to $15,300. For the $15,300 or more earner, the extra SS taxes will amount to $1.35 a week.

This also is automatic, incidentally — a point which seems only vaguely understood. Whenever benefits are hiked the maximum amount of earnings taxable under Social Security goes up at the start of the following year. The increase is designed to bring in the money to finance the increases in benefits.

For all of us, the system's soundness:

The system's basic problem arises from a fact of today: while galloping inflation has been pulling up the level of benefits paid out, the high rate of unemployment has been holding down the system's income from SS taxes.

This is not a crisis. It does not call for drastic measures or fundamental changes in the nature of the system.

The 44 to 45 billion dollars in Social Security trust funds are there as contingency reserves to be drawn upon when outgo exceeds income. But annual deficits cannot be tolerated year after year. This obvious fact was pointed home to the President and Congress last year — along with solutions to the problem — but neither would take a stand.

Finally, in his State of the Union message last month, Ford proposed a hike of 0.3 per cent in the SS taxes paid by both employer and employee (no change in the self-employed's tax was suggested).

Election year or not, Congress must not duck. Whether it accepts Ford's proposal or some

By TOM KENNER
South Haven Correspondent
SOUTH HAVEN — A Kalamazoo man was hospitalized with shotgun pellet wounds received in what police described as an accidental shooting at a South Haven township home Saturday afternoon.

Mark Vandenberg, 21, suffered pellet wounds to the forearms, neck and left ear when a 16 gauge shotgun was fired through a door at the Arthur Mielke residence, 73rd street, at 4 p.m. Saturday. He was reported in fair condition today in Bronson hospital, Kalamazoo.

State police troopers from the South Haven post said the weapon, owned by Mielke, was discharged by Roy Dark, 21, of route 2, Covert, while Dark and Vandenberg were at the Mielke residence to go hunting. Dark told police he thought the weapon was not loaded and that he pulled the trigger it fired. Vandenberg was standing on the other side of the closed door. The incident remains under investigation, according to police.

Watervliet Canopy Collapses

WATERVLJET — A heavy accumulation of ice and snow was believed to have caused the collapse of about half of the aluminum canopy spanning the front of the Benton store here Sunday morning, according to Watervliet police.

Police officer John Latsch said the flat canopy fell from the building at 343 Main street about 7:30 a.m. The supports holding the canopy to the building were also pulled down, he said.

A similar incident occurred on Dec. 21, 1974, when the entire canopy collapsed causing an estimated $7,000 to $8,000 damage to the store owned by Mrs. Thelma Moody. No estimate of Sunday's damage was available.

Furnace Faulty?
St. Joseph firemen reported the "probable" cause of a fire Saturday at the Slaughter Instrument Co., 185 Industrial avenue, was a furnace malfunction. Firefighters reported there was a "medium amount" of damage caused by the fire. A cost estimate of damage was not known as of this morning. The Slaughter company makes surgical instruments. The building is owned by Gordon Housh.

YOUR MONEY'S WORTH

What's Ahead For Social Security in '76

(First in a series of five columns)

What's ahead in 1976 for the record-setting 32 million of you — men, women and children — now collecting monthly Social Security checks? Will benefits rise enough to keep pace with inflation? And what's the outlook for the 100 million who work in jobs covered by Social Security?

And the big question: what action, if any, can we expect from the President and Congress to improve the soundness of our Social Security system in this, an election year?

For you, Social Security beneficiaries:

Under law, benefits are geared to rise automatically as the Consumer Price Index rises. If the CPI goes up 3 per cent or more in any year, the checks delivered early in July of the following year are increased by the percentage increase in the CPI.

The most recent illustration was the 8 per cent hike in benefits Social Security recipients received this past July reflecting the rise in the CPI since their last cost-of-living increase.

This year's increase will be lower — in the area of 6 1/2 to 7 per cent — for the pace of inflation slowed slightly in 1975. The precise rise won't be known until after the CPI for the first quarter of '76 has been calculated.

Last year — a non-election year — President Ford tried to persuade Congress to cut the 8 per cent increase to 5 per cent, but Congress flatly rejected his request. A similar recommendation was in early drafts of the budget Ford delivered two weeks ago, but the White House cut the request out of the final draft.

Ford is running for President in 1976; he doesn't need Congress to remind him that the elderly are probably the most cohesive and powerful of all voting groups in the U.S.; nor is he leaving himself open to the accusation that he is asking the aged, disabled, widowed and orphaned to absorb a loss in purchasing power to help restrain inflation.

Thus, the benefits of the 32 million now on the Social Security rolls will go up a modest but welcome percentage this coming July — nicely in advance of the election.

And Social Security outgo again will exceed income to the system by around $6 billion — encouraging "scare" reports that the system is bankrupt, facing deficits running into the trillions.

For you, Social Security taxpayers:

If you're one of the four out of five working Americans earning $14,000 or less in 1975, you'll pay the same amount of SS taxes this year as last. The rate remains at 5.85 per cent for employee and employer, at 7.9 for the self-employed.

If you're the one out of five earning more than $14,000 this year, you'll pay that $15,000 on your earnings up to $15,000. For the $15,000 or more earned, the extra SS taxes will amount to $1.35 a week.

This also is automatic, incidentally — a point which seems only vaguely understood. Whenever benefits are hiked the maximum amount of earnings (taxable under Social Security) goes up at the start of the following year. The increase is designed to bring in the money to finance the increases in benefits.

For all of us, the system's soundness:

The system's basic problem arises from a fact of today: while galloping inflation has been pulling up the level of benefits paid out, the high rate of unemployment has been holding down the system's income from SS taxes.

This is not a crisis. It does not call for drastic measures or fundamental changes in the nature of the system.

The 44 to 45 billion dollars in Social Security trust funds are there as contingency reserves to be drawn upon when outgo exceeds income. But annual deficits cannot be tolerated year after year. This obvious fact was pointed home to the President and Congress last year — along with solutions to the problem — but neither would take a stand.

Finally, in his State of the Union message last month, Ford proposed a hike of 0.3 per cent in the SS taxes paid by both employer and employee (no change in the self-employed's tax was suggested).

Election year or not, Congress must not duck. Whether it accepts Ford's proposal or some

Phony $1 Bills Used In Changer

Seven phony one dollar bills were used to obtain change from a bill changing machine over the weekend at a coin-operated car wash, Benton township police said.

Police reported the bills were reproduced by some type of copier, printed only on one side, and cut out to the exact size of a dollar bill. The bills were discovered Sunday morning at the Blue Water car wash, 1832 M-139, by Dick Mutz, manager of the car wash. Police said they put a phony bill into the machine and were able to obtain a dollar in change.

NOW! ... AT KROGER!

Senior Citizens

Step up and save more at Kroger!

Kroger is pleased to be the first area food store to offer special savings and privileges to persons 59 years of age or older living on fixed incomes. Get your Club Card at Kroger, show proof of age, SIGN YOUR "CLUB" CARD, AND KEEP IT WHERE YOU'LL HAVE IT FOR SHOPPING.

☆ Here's How It Works:

Your Kroger "Club" card entitles you to exemption from making the extra purchase required for our coupon specials. (For example, Kroger Large Eggs may be priced 55¢ doz with coupon and $5 purchase. You do not have to make the $5 extra purchase.) You will need only the coupon, and if you don't take a newspaper, we'll have extra coupons available at the store. You may use your "Club" card anytime you shop for coupon purchase exemptions.

Here are three of the many ways Kroger simplifies saving on meat:

- TAILLESS STEAKS
Tails are completely removed from all Kroger Beef T-Bone and Porterhouse Steaks. You don't pay choice steak prices for tough, fatty tails.
- THIN SLICED STEAKS OR CHOPS
Steaks and chops are the same price per pound regardless of thickness. No higher prices for thin-sliced.
- ANY SIZE PACKAGE
Ground Meats are the same price per pound regardless of package size. For example, a pound of ground beef costs the same in a one-pound package as in a five-pound package.
